PREFACE

IT is at least eight and probably more nearly ten years ago since I was first induced—rather against my will—to undertake the editing of this MS. for the Society. I felt that it was too difficult and complicated a task for a parish priest who had already a good many interests and duties, to cope with at all satisfactorily, even though Mr Rogers's careful transcript was in my hands and I was then living within easy reach of the University and its Library. More than once since I began to study the contents of the volume more thoroughly, I have been tempted to repent of my decision and have in fact offered to resign the attempt—more especially when in 1910 we removed into this remote corner of Kent. At last, however, the timely intervention of Mr Minns in 1913 and his offer to be responsible for the palaeographical and other problems of the Text itself made all the difference, and in spite of many hindrances and delays, I have gone on since then with much greater hope of ultimate success. It is no exaggeration to say that, even if the work had by now (or possibly sooner) appeared in print, a very large portion of that which is valuable in it, not only in regard to the Text, but as to the subject matter and side lights thereon, would have been omitted, save for his unstinted and most efficient co-operation. Accordingly his name appears on the Title-page with mine, seeing that again and again his hand has been at work with me on those portions to which his initials are not appended. I do not claim, therefore, the entire credit even there for what is good, though I am bound to bear the brunt of blame for what may fall short of good.

Throughout my work I have constantly been assisted by a host of personal friends and of correspondents to whom I am unknown by face. If I actually mention only a few of them, those whose names I omit will, I hope, not take it amiss nor think me ungrateful. I feel bound in the first place to record my obligations to Mr Alfred Rogers, because he is the oldest of my helpers in point of time and has always been most anxious to do what he could for me. Then there is the Rev. J. H. Crosby (of Ely), whose painstaking researches have been freely at my disposal, not only those which he has printed in the Diocesan Remembrancer, but those also which are still in his private possession. Occasionally I have mentioned him by name in the notes as the source of curious information about some particular person, but his help has been much more frequent than those instances would imply—especially in the Inventories. Another valued assistant has been the Rev. Dr H. P. Stokes (of S. Paul's, Cambridge), to whose printed and unprinted researches into University and other lore I have constantly referred: he has never failed me, when appealed to. Nor has my old friend the Rev. E. Symonds (of Selwyn Gardens, Cambridge), who has perhaps more reason than anyone else to feel thankful that, when these pages appear, he will no longer be called on by a post-card from me to look up some obscure point or knotty problem in the Library!

Lastly there is the staff of the University Press, who have not allowed their own special war-difficulties to impair their efficiency or to make them less obliging than they were in the times of peace.

It is not necessary to make a list of the principal printed authorities to which I am indebted. In all cases they have been described fully enough to be identified where they are quoted.

The unusual interest and even importance of this MS. will amply justify this endeavour to put it within reach of the Members of the Society; and they will, I trust, be lenient to faults, which cannot greatly diminish their gain.

C. L. FELTOE.

RIPPLE RECTORY Near DOVER.

February, 1917.

THE long and difficult task of making the original transcript was executed by A. Rogers, M.A., of the University Library. How difficult it was may be judged from the facsimile. It was admirably accomplished within the limits prescribed by the Society. When the transcript had been made, the University Librarian was good enough to give up some of his scanty leisure to comparing it with the MS. and determining which was the original hand in the Inventories. This business of transcription and revision required a considerable time. In 1913, when I took office as President of the C.A.S., matters were at a standstill, as there was no one to see the Text through the Press, for this work obviously required ready access to the MS. and Dr Feltoe had now left Duxford for Ripple near Dover. Such is my excuse for intervening. On familiarizing myself with the MS. I felt that if the edition was to be satisfactory something more should be done towards distinguishing the different hands employed in the MS. This took several months, and the transcript was not ready to send to the printer before the summer of 1914. In my revision I always had Mr Rogers at hand, and I do not think I altered anything without his approval. The outbreak of the war naturally made it difficult for the Press to get on with the setting up, but since June 1915, when I undertook war work in London, the delays have been due to me, it being a physical impossibility for me to make much progress in the few hours of free time left me each week, and the fortnight's leave in the year. On this ground I claim the reader's pardon for many shortcomings in the parts of the work for which I am responsible, the Introductory Sketch, the Description of the MS., the Text and Excursus G. Naturally many suggestions with regard to the text have been contributed by Dr Feltoe, and I have had the privilege of reading his Notes and Excursuses, but it is perhaps satisfactory that each should be responsible for his own portion. I have found many other helpers, but my special thanks are due to Dr H. P. Stokes for several points of local history, to Dr F. J. Allen for his patient skill in making the Facsimile and to Dominus Archidiaconus qui nunc est for his Imprimatur.

INTRODUCTION

THE OFFICE OF THE ARCHDEACON OF ELY.

A mediæval Bishop had three main sides to his activity, first he was the Father in God, dedicated in virtue of his episcopal orders to spiritual and ritual functions. Next he was a great Lord in the secular world, in virtue of the lands and privileges of his see and the weight in the councils of the nation given him by their possession. Thirdly upon him devolved administrative and judicial duties, regulating the clergy, looking after church property, deciding cases which concerned the rights of the Church or the morals of the people.

The first two divisions of his duties did not easily lend themselves to delegation: spiritual matters could only be handed over to a brother Bishop, and though this became common enough it was not always easy to find such a coadjutor. The place of the Bishop in the state could be filled by no one else and he often became more of a statesman than a churchman. But it was very tempting to hand over the details of administration to someone of his household. A convenient person was the Archdeacon, the chief of the deacons who attended upon him originally in connexion with his cathedral church, for the work was rather of the nature of serving tables.

At first the Bishop would only hand over the less important matters but, absorbed in his other duties, he tended to give the Archdeacon more and more of a free hand until the office seemed too high for a mere deacon and was conferred upon a priest, who continued to bear the former name. Also as the volume of business increased, it became in the big dioceses of Western Europe too much for one man, and colleagues were appointed to help him. Finally each diocese was divided into a definite number of Archdeaconries with fixed boundaries. Within the limits of his district the Archdeacon was the representative of the Bishop in matters administrative and judicial, and, though appeals lay from his court to the Bishop's and the Bishop always had the right of reserving for his own decision whatever question he thought fit, still the Archdeacon was accessible and limited, whereas there was no telling when or where the Bishop with his many interests could be got to decide any particular matter. Accordingly in practice the jurisdiction of the Archdeacon became more and more independent and he began to think of himself less and less as the deputy of the Bishop. Finally in the xiiith century the Archdeacon was recognised by Innocent III as a iudex ordinarius, a separate authority.

This involved a delimitation of his jurisdiction as against the Bishop's, and this was very difficult in that it was originally a mere emanation of the Bishop's and, as touching secular matters, identical in range with it. Indeed the vagueness of Archidiaconal functions is almost proverbial. Another consequence of this independence was that after true mediæval fashion the Archdeacon, having established his right to do certain work and receive certain fees for it, soon delegated the work to his "Official" whom he paid with a portion of the fees.

But this way danger lay, for the Bishop, dissatisfied with the conflict between his authority and that of his former deputy, appointed an Official or Vicar-General of his own and so to speak cut the ground from under the Archdeacon, as once the superior court put itself within their reach, suitors preferred to have recourse to it and save themselves the risk of an appeal. On the continent the authority of the Archdeacon speedily declined and the Council of Trent took away nearly all that was left, so that there is now nothing remaining but an honorific title. In this country the Archdeacons lost most of their judicial work, but they still hold courts and deliver charges, and remain as inspectors of the fabrics and goods of the Church, and valuable assistants of the Bishop in various informal ways¹.

¹ For the history of the Archidiaconate in general v. A. Schröder, Die Entwicklung des Archidiaconats bis zum elften Jahrhundert, Munich, 1890; and A. Gréa, Bibl. de l'École des Chartes, Série III, T. 2 (Paris, 1851),

The Text here published, called Vetus Liber Archidiaconi Eliensis (MS. Caius, 204, see description pp. xxvii ff.), illustrates almost every side of an Archdeacon's duties and throws much light on Church affairs in Cambridgeshire. There exists a kind of supplement or continuation dating from c. 1533 called the Novus Liber Archidiaconi (MS. Caius, 170, summarized in M. R. James, Cat. of Caius MSS.) but the matter it contains, when not a mere copy of the older book, is mostly of inferior interest and it has not been thought worth reprinting. A transcript by Mr A. Rogers is in the possession of the C. A. S.

During the latter part of the xiiith century and the xivth, the period covered by the earlier part of our book, the powers of the Archdeacon were at their widest¹, and those of our Archdeacon of Ely (for a list of those mentioned see Excursus A), are sufficiently varied. His oldest duty had been to satisfy himself of the fitness of ordinands and then present them to the Bishop (p. 9)². Perhaps out of this grew his right of induction pp. 39—67, 215—247, "Essai historique sur les Archidiacres." For English Archdeacons v. A. Hamilton Thompson, Archaeological Journal, vol. LXXII, No. 287, 1915, pp. 233—284, "The Will of Master William Doune, Archdeacon of Leicester" (d. 1361). To this admirable study the reader is referred for a general account of the position of Archdeacons in the sixteenth century. Its existence makes it unnecessary for me to do more than draw on it for a very brief outline of the subject by way of introduction and correlate the different documents in our text with the various sides of an Archdeacon's activity. See also Canon E. G. Wood's learned article, s.v. Archdeacon in Harford, Stevenson and Tyrer, The Prayer Book Dictionary, 1912.

to benefices¹ and chapelries², a fruitful source of fees (20s. 4d. in the table on p. 163, cf. p. 164), and even the installation of the heads of certain religious houses, the Abbot of Thorney and the Priors of Anglesey and Barnwell, each of whom paid £3 (p. 24), and the lesser foundations of Swavesey and Linton (p. 184), the rest being reserved to the Bishop. Also he saw to the inspection of letters testimonial of clerics coming from elsewhere (pp. 66, 108, 130 and Excursus G, p. 304) and granted such as were required (pp. 172, 178). He further licensed collectors of funds for religious purposes, e.g. for the hospital of Acon (p. 8) or a pardoner (p. 177). Such persons took money out of the diocese and he probably did not favour them much, any more than he did the Friars (see the verses p. 16), but charged them fees³. Then as oculus episcopi he had general supervision of the clergy. This was exercised partly by visitations which were not to be made more than once a year, lest they should be burdensome, nor less than once in three years, lest abuses should be uncorrected; partly by summoning the clergy to synods twice a year on the Monday after St Luke and the Monday after Trinity Sunday. At these they shewed their testimonials and took an oath of obedience to the Archdeacon, also they heard read the Statutes promulgated by the Bishop of the Diocese (p. 9) and other Constitutions (p. 7). Moreover the Archdeacon held a court in which the clergy could be tried for transgressing such legislation, and its administration was largely in his hands. For this work he had by him a copy of Peckham De Concubinariis (p. 7) and other such. He was accordingly particularly interested in the general visitation made by Archbishop Kilwardby⁴ and preserved a copy of the letter announcing it, the points to be inquired into and the visitant's itinerary

³ Notus Liber, p. 52, e.g. Calais, Bedlam, Burton Lazars, etc.

(p. 18); just as he himself inquired into the life, morals, dress and conversation of the clergy, whether they were duly ordained, and resident or perhaps pluralists in inferior orders and administering their parishes by underpaid vicars (p. 122).

Arising out of his jurisdiction over the clergy was the authority peculiar to the Archdeacon of Ely exercised in the University over the Master of Glomery and his Glomerels, though the Chancellor and Scholars had freed themselves therefrom (p. 20 and Excursus B, p. 289).

The Archdeacon does not seem to have had much patronage, he naturally appointed the vicar of Wilburton and later of Haddenham. Certain Chapels, Babraham (p. 4), Shelford (p. 168) and Histon (p. 198), were placed by their founders under his special supervision so as to secure the due performance of the duties prescribed for the Chaplains, and a small yearly payment was promised in return, also at Shelford and Histon, on the founders' heirs failing to present within forty days of a vacancy occurring, the right lapsed to the Archdeacon.

When a church was impropriated a yearly payment was often reserved to the Archdeacon apparently in order to gain his consent to the transaction and to compensate for the diversion of the income from one of his clergy. The case of Chesterton (p. 206) sets out the matter at greatest length, compare the document concerning Bassingbourn on p. 197. A list of such payments is on p. 26.

The side of his activity which still survives in greatest vigour and which has produced the most interesting part of this book, is his duty of looking after Church Property. At his visitations (v. Excursus F, p. 295) he enquired into the value of each church, the dues it paid, its fabric, its churchyard wall, its books and ornaments (p. 16, 29—147), whether everything were kept in good repair and everything done in decency and order as laid down in the Constitution touching them (p. 150), and upon occasion could make special inquisition (pp. 173, 178). The series of Inventories¹ of all the churches and chapels subject to his jurisdiction shews that a fresh start was made about 1278, perhaps in consequence of Archbishop Kilwardby's visitation, and either new lists of ornaments, etc., were compiled or the existing ones copied out fair: clearly too actual visits were paid to the churches during the next forty years and perhaps less regularly till the end of the following century: for the practice came in of making the clergy attend at visitations, held in Cambridge, so that these became very similar to the synods.

We can follow the track of an energetic Archdeacon in the Deaneries of Chesterton, Barton and Shengay (p. 74 sqq.). At the top of p. 80 of the MS. we find the words diète in visitando ab · a · usque ad · b ·. "Each day's visiting goes from a to b," and accordingly we find · a · opposite Chesterton and · b · opposite Girton, the first round was—starting no doubt from Cambridge—Chesterton, Milton, Waterbeach, Landbeach, Cottenham, Impington, Histon St Andrew and St Etheldreda, and Girton, nine churches: the next round was Oakington, Rampton, Willingham, Over, Long Stanton All Saints and St Michael, Dry Drayton and Madingley, eight churches, and the Deanery was finished: Barton Deanery with twenty-two churches took three days (· b · is missing at Barton itself) and Shengay with twelve churches and two chapels took two, but here time was lost in getting out from Cambridge. Even with a motor-car things can hardly be done so quickly, but no doubt it was not impossible starting early on a summer's day.

Among other forms of church property the Archdeacon was much concerned with tithes, and Archbishop Whittlesey's constitution about them occurs in two places (pp. 16, 179). He also had the business of collecting Peter's Pence out of which he extracted some profit, and had to be compensated when they were no longer forthcoming from Shengay (p. 204). Upon him too or his Official it fell to collect subsidies granted by the clergy to the King¹.

It is noticeable that a very large proportion of the crimes anathematized three times a year are crimes against the rights or property of the church (p. 27), and reciting this curse no doubt the Archdeacon felt was of a piece with his other duties.

But it was not only the clergy with whom the Archdeacon had to do. Lay people had recourse to him in matters subject to Canon rather than Common Law, notably Matrimonial and Testamentary affairs. In connexion with the former we have directions as to calculating degrees of affinity and notes of cases of incest and adultery (p. 25), and several of the model letters on pp. 171—173 are concerned with such. But these are among the points about which it is not clear whether they are for the Bishop or the Archdeacon to decide, as one division is found in the verses on p. 26 and apparently another on p. 196 and in the practice shewn by the model letters.

The Probate business was even more important. Archdeacon R. de Fodringhey himself issued a denunciation on the subject. Simon Meopham's constitution on the fees to be exacted appears in part upon pp. 25, 161 and is summarized on p. 162 and several of the fees in the table on p. 163 are concerned with the same, as are several letters on pp. 175—176¹.

Cases of defamation also furnish subjects for two letters (pp. 171, 176), so they must have occurred in practice: so also a case of theft (p. 177), but perhaps it was a sacrilegious theft.

Chaucer excellently summarizes this side of an Archdeacon's duties (The Frere's Tale, l. 6883 sqq.):

Whilom ther was dwellinge in my contree
 An archeleken, a man of heigh degree,
 That boldly dide execucioun
 In punisshinge of fornicacioun,
 Of wicchecraft and eek of bauderye,
 Of diffamacioun and avoutrye,
 Of chirche-reves, and of testaments,
 Of contractes and of lakke of sacraments,
 And eek of many another maner cryme
 Which nedeth nat rehercen at this tyme;
 Of usure and of symonye also.
 But certes, lechours dide he grettest wo;
 They sholde singen, if that they were hent;
 And smale titheres weren foule y-shent,
 If any persone wolde up-on hem pleyne,
 Ther mighte asterte him no pecunial peyne.
 For smale tithes and for smale offrynge,
 He made the peple pitously to singe;

¹ Novus Liber, p. 51 sqq., has much about Wills and many names of testators. Wills proved in the Archdeacon's court are preserved in the Probate Registry at Peterborough, but only begin in 1529, see Dr W. A. Palmer, C. A. S. Proc. 1912, p. 191.

For er the bisshop caughte hem with his hook,
 They weren in the erchedekenes book.
 Thanne hadde he thurgh his Iurisdiccoun, Power to doon on hem correccioun.

Sanction for the decisions of the Archdeacon or his Court¹ was supplied by the terror of excommunication for contumacy (pp. 172, 174, 175), and this also made a summons to witnesses (pp. 172, 174) or defendants (p. 177) effective.

With so much and so varied work to do an Archdeacon even if he held no other office would require skilled assistance, and, as will be seen, an Archdeacon generally enjoyed other preferment. Accordingly he delegated the routine work and perhaps more than the routine work to a Deputy called his Official (for a list see Excursus A). The Official may well have had the first compiling of our Book, certainly the entries made in it from time to time are his work and no doubt he kept it in his custody. He was not necessarily in full orders, so the Kalendar, which belonged at one time to a married man, may have been added by one of the Officials in the xvth century. It would be useful for many purposes, as would the many chronological entries, Indictions, Papal Years, etc., scattered through the book.

The Official sat as the Archdeacon's deputy in Court, called curia or consistorium (p. 166), admitted the Advocates and Proctors to practise in it, as also the Masters of Glomery, looked after the fees and revenues of the Archdeacon, carried on his legal correspondence, issued and examined letters testimonial, held the visitations, and in fact did the greater part of the work, which I have described as within the province of the Archdeacon: he even used the title venerable (p. 167).

The Archdeacon's staff is limited in the Laudum Archiepiscopi or final definition of the Rights of Bishop and Archdeacon (p. 187), to an Official, a Commissary General (i.e. opposed to persons to whom had been confided the right of performing some specific action, such the Official too could appoint, p. 171), a Registrar and three Apparitors. There is a Commissary, R. Bryth, mentioned (p. 165) as admitting a Proctor to practise, but it is not clear whether he was a permanent officer or no.

The Registrar appears in the table of Fees on p. 163, and he had a house at which Masters of Glomery took their oath of obedience to the Archdeacon in 1415 and 1428 (p. 196); perhaps it also served as the Archdeacon's Registry (pp. 149, 150): this is now with Messrs Francis on Peas Hill.

The only Apparitor whose name we have preserved is John Huthum in 1452 (p. 203). Their duties were to summon people to the court and act as ushers.

In the table of fees and also in the Laudum Archiepiscopi (p. 184) mention is made of a Iudex which seems a general term for who ever might decide a suit, including the Archdeacon himself, the Official or any deputy appointed by either of them.

William Stevynson in 1500 describes himself as Testamentorum Scriba.....Archidiaconi Eliensis (p. 207). He seems to have remained a minor officer all his life (see note ad loc.) as in the Novas Liber occur entries in his hand from 1501 till 1533. The Scribe's fees are there noted (p. 50) and inf. p. 162.

The Advocates and Proctors practising in the Archdeacon's Court are also described as Ministri iurisdictionis Archidiaconalis in the Laudum Archiepiscopi, but it is curious that in the oath to which they subscribe at their admission (p. 165) they do no more than promise debitum reverenciam to the Official and other servants of the Court. From the oath their duties were clear, they corresponded to Barristers and Solicitors in Common Law Courts¹. Advocates were not admitted as freely as Proctors, six of them in 1289, five in 1306, one in 1349 (all p. 24) and one in 1488 (p. 165).

Of Proctors we have five in 1306 (p. 24), one in 1351 (p. 25), three in 1393 (p. 29), three in 1429, two in 1437, one each in

1458 (p. 166), 1459 and 1462, two in 1466, one in 1470, two in 1475, one each in 1481, 1482 (p. 167), 1486, 1487 (p. 164), 1498, 1499 (p. 165), three in 1509, one each in 1519 (p. 164), 1571 (p. 163) and 1573 (p. 164). There does not seem any necessity to repeat the names here: the numbers may be some small indication of the variation in business before the Court, which must have been quite active up to the Reformation. Documents such as those on pp. 3 and 207 are probably ordinary powers of attorney rather than instructions to professional Proctors to plead.

Though not apparently directly subordinate to the Archdeacon, Notaries Public were evidently in close touch with his Court: the admissions of Proctors and Masters of Glomery were often witnessed by them. Some of them had access to the book and made notes in it, e.g. Ragenhill on p. 170 and John Chapman¹ p. 207, unless, as is not unlikely, these two men were actually Officials, as the Officials must have been drawn from a class learned in Canon Law: so the Proctor Rowland Bakhows admitted 1509 (p. 164) is no doubt the Backehowse who compiled the table of fees on p. 163 in 1520: he was Collector of Peter's Pence and Ely Farthings in 1518 and survived till 1534² as an officer of the Archdeacon, perhaps the Official himself.

The Master of Glomery should just be mentioned as a Minister iurisdictionis Archidiaconi (see Excursus B).

While the useful work done by the Archdeacon and his underlings has left little trace, the lists of vestments being the main exception, the care taken with regard to the exaction of fees is manifest throughout the whole book. Indeed the impression left by most mediaeval records is that the dispensing of justice and the other functions of authority were desired not for the sake of being useful to the church or the commonwealth nor even from personal ambition, but for the sake of the fees accruing therefrom. This is no doubt unjust to the men of the Middle Ages; the fact is that records and accounts are most generally kept and most carefully preserved when they deal with tangible money.

¹ If this was the John Chapman named in 1555 in J. E. Foster's Gt St Mary's Churchwardens' Accounts, p. 136, he was not the Official.

² Novus Liber, pp. 62, 73.

The value of the Archdeaconry may be put round about £100 a year, the estimate set upon it by the Bishop when he had to make a return of preferments held by aliens; but this was in 1346 before the cession of Haddenham¹. On p. 202 the items Haddenham, Wilburton and proventus incerti amount to £121 6s. 8d., but they are only taken from the Taxatio Papae Nicholai (1291), pp. 265, 267, made for the purpose of assessing the Tenths. In the King's Books it is valued at £97 5s. 2½d.² William of Wykeham valued his very rich Archdeaconry of Lincoln at £350.

Where a Cathedral was served by Secular Canons the Archdeacon was usually partly provided for by being made a member of the Chapter; sometimes he was excused some share of residence in consideration of his duties. This arrangement was impossible in a monastic foundation like Ely and instead he held, probably from the institution of his dignity, the impropriation of Wilburton in the Isle which had been a possession of the Monastery, and there he had his country house. By the Laudum Archiepiscopi he received in compensation for surrendering jurisdiction over certain places the much richer rectory of Haddenham and these two churches constituted the main part of his income.

True several of these items accrued later than 1291, but these we may set against the fact that no account is here taken of the profit on collecting Peter's Pence, nor of the installation fees for the heads of Anglesey, Barnwell and Thorney, rare windfalls (p. 24), nor for any of the ordinary induction, court and testamentary fees (p. 163). But on the other hand no allowance has been made for the Tenths on the regular income (£12 2s. 8d., p. 202) nor for expenses of collection nor yet for the salaries of the vicars of Wilburton and Haddenham and of the Official and his staff, who most probably were left to make what they could out of the fees.

The territorial jurisdiction of the Archdeacon of Ely has not always extended over the same area, and only lately became conterminous with Cambridgeshire proper¹. Before the see of Ely was constituted in 1109 the Archidiaconal authority over the Isle of Ely had been vested in the Sacrist of the Monastery, whereas Cambridgeshire (with the exception of the Deanery of Fordham which always formed part of the Archdeaconry of Sudbury, till the last century in the Diocese of Norwich²) was under one Archdeacon with Huntingdonshire and part of Hertfordshire, being in the Diocese of Lincoln. When the see of Ely was founded, Archdeacon Nicholas served under both Bishops, being entitled in Ely Diocese Archdeacon of Cambridge, while the Sacrist kept the Isle. However the second Archdeacon, William de Laventon, having lost Huntingdon, assumed by the consent or with the connivance of his uncle Bp Hervey the title of Archdeacon of Ely and claimed jurisdiction in the Isle as well. This claim was resisted by later Bishops and by the Convent, and became the occasion of much controversy.

At the time our book was compiled the Archdeacon seems to have made his claim good in the Deanery of Wisbeach and the North East part of the Deanery of Ely (Littleport, Chatteris, Whittlesea, Witeham, March and Doddington), that is to say in the fens which are reckoned to belong to the Isle, but in the actual Island he visited only Wilburton, which was his own property, and Ely St Mary (p. 142), where though an inventory was made it was never corrected, and the Peter's Pence were only claimed in respect of the Chapelry of Stuntney¹. But none of Ely Deanery is in the ordinary A¹ hand; Witcham and Ely St Mary did not pay Synodals. It looks as if every item in this Deanery were a separate subject of strife (v. p. 304).

The Bishop not only objected to the Archdeacon's exercising jurisdiction in the Isle but also wished to be free of it in his other manors throughout the county. The controversy was very bitter in the time of Bishop Thomas Arundel, so much so that in 1376 Archdeacon Edmund Burnell took the case to the Court of Canterbury, but he did not submit and take the oath of canonical obedience to the Bishop until June 1379 and herewith as it appears was so dissatisfied, that in the March following he exchanged the Archdeaconry for the Rectory of Cottenham².

In 1396 Arundel became Archbishop of Canterbury and the dispute, which had not been settled, was referred to him by his successor at Ely, John Fordham, and by John Welborn the Archdeacon. We have the decision in the lengthy Laudum Archiepiscopi (pp. 180—196) dated 1401. The effect of it was that the Bishop gained everything he claimed, especially complete jurisdiction in the Deaneries of Ely and Wisbeach, i.e. the Isle of Ely in its widest extent, and in the parishes where he had manors outside the Isle, the nine exempt towns of p. 163 (Willingham, Fen Ditton, Horningsey, Teversham, Balsham, Great Shelford, Triplow, Little Gransden and Hardwick), and over all Religious; probate, etc., in the Isle and in the Deaneries of Camps, Chesterton and Barton and of all clergy; right of visitation throughout the Diocese; installation of all heads of Religious houses save five and induction of all benefices in his own patronage: matrimonial cases were to come direct to his court, also all appeals from the Archdeacon's court. To the Archdeacon was left ordinary jurisdiction, visitation and induction in Cambridgeshire proper, save for the above exceptions and in his own places of Wilburton and Haddenham; probate in the Deaneries of Cambridge, Bourn and Shengay, installations of five Priors, and his consistory Court with narrowed competence. Each party had jurisdiction over his own servants, and if they offended against the other, their names should be presented to him.

In compensation for this surrender of at least half his rights and claims the Archdeacon was to receive the Rectory of Haddenham, worth apparently £40 a year nett, as until it should become vacant, the Archdeacon is to receive this sum¹.

By this composition the respective rights of the Bishop and Archdeacon were governed until the other day, when the Bishop gave up his Archidiaconal duties and a new Archdeaconry of Wisbeach was formed for the north half of the Diocese.

The Bishops must have been very anxious to get rid of the competing jurisdiction of the Archdeacons if they were ready to sacrifice for the purpose one of the richest Rectories in their control, though of course they were really giving away the income of the Parish of Haddenham.

A few entries from Bishop Thomas de Insula's Register will perhaps illustrate the situation².

1 Mar. 1345/6. The Bishop bids the Archdeacon's Official see to the proper excommunication of men who had broken into the Bishop's Park.

13 Apr. 1346. The Bishop sends the Archdeacon's Official a long list of criminous clerks to be dealt with.

14 Oct. 1346. The Bishop makes a return that "Dominus Gaillard de Mota, our Archdeacon is non resident" and that his office is worth £100 a year. Now this de Mota was a

² Summarized by the Reverend Canon J. H. Crosby in Ely Diocesan Remembrancer, July 1893 sqq.

Cardinal Deacon, and also Archdeacon of Oxford, Precentor of Chichester and Prebendary of Milton in the Church of Lincoln; he held our Archdeaconry from 1344 to 1357, and, says Bentham (p. 274), resided mostly at Avignon.

23 Aug. 1349, Master Roger de Harleton takes an oath of obedience to the Bishop, on his appointment as Archdeacon's Official.

16 July 1351. The King having demanded of the clergy a tenth for the prosecution of the war requested the Bishop to obtain the money due from the Archdeacon who is in arrear for 26s. 8*d.* The Bishop replies that he cannot do anything because he has received a writ of supersedeas that stays all proceedings against him. Evidently the Archdeacon having interest at Court has taken precautions against the demands of the Treasury.

20 June 1351. Second writ of supersedeas reinforcing the first.

13 Mar. 1351/2. Brief from the King to the Bishop inhibiting him from interfering with the fruits of the Archdeaconry of Ely which now lie in the King's hands.

1352. Petition of the Bishop to the King. The Official of the Archdeacon is publicly reported to have committed adultery and fornication in the Diocese, and also with other ministers of the Archdeacon to have disobeyed the canonical statutes in the execution of his office as regards the proving of Wills, the induction of Rectors and Vicars, etc. Is the said Brief to restrain the Bishop from proceeding against the said Official and ministers according to canonical sanctions before courts of the Church?

1352. The King replies that he does not wish to interfere with the Bishop's spiritual jurisdiction in the matter.

1353. Further brief of supersedeas in the matter of the Archdeacon of Ely.

23 Feb. 1354. Another brief of supersedeas as he has paid his debts.

There is no need to lay stress on the drift of this story. We have a non-resident foreign pluralist drawing the revenues of an English office and not even paying his taxes, as long as he can contrive to escape them. Meanwhile he puts in his place to try matrimonial cases and to look after trust-property a deputy who is immoral and dishonest.

The Archdeacons who are mentioned in our book and so appear in Excursus A, though some of them held Prebends or Canonries outside the Diocese, were much less pluralist than many who figure in Bentham's list. The energetic R. de Fodringhey was succeeded by William a Cardinal residing at Avignon 1316—1335, J. de Offord an aristocrat and diplomatist 1335—1344, G. de Mota as above, James Beaufort who was also Archdeacon of London 1357—1363, and Cardinal Androynus Abbot of Cluni.

And these men were typical. An Archdeacon was usually a man who had in early life attracted the favour of a Bishop, had received from him one or two livings and license of non-residence which he used to study Canon Law at a University (where Canon Law, as opposed to the pure studies of Philosophy and Theology, was regarded as the subject for the man who wanted to get on) or at the Court of Rome. So he became fit for an Archdeaconry, an office which, though it was reckoned technically as a cure of souls, was really meant originally to take from the shoulders of the Bishop those secular cares that he best could delegate, and degenerated into a matter of protracting complicated lawsuits and extorting fees for services not rendered.

Hence the universal hatred which the mediaeval Archdeacon incurred. The Bishop disliked his encroachments upon his power; the clergy his induction and visitation fees or still more the exaction of procurations when he had not visited; the laymen his interference with will and matrimonial cases.

Hence the words of John of Salisbury to Nicholas de Sigillo¹ "genus hominum qui in ecclesia Dei Archidiaconorum censentur nomine, quibus vestra discretio omnem viam salutis querebatur esse praeclusam," or Chaucer's line "Purs is the erchedeknes helle, sayde he?" Sometimes in their wills they made some restitution directly or indirectly for any undue exactions of which they may have been guilty¹, and we now find it possible to forgive Ralph of Walpole or Ralph of Fodringhey a good deal, in consideration of their having compiled and transmitted to our day a book containing documents so interesting as the Inventories, the Statuta Synodalia and the Agreement as to the Master of Glomery.

An old foliation extends up to f. 21 = p. 43, but as now bound f. 13 = pp. 25—26 comes before f. 12 = pp. 27—28. The two copies of the Babraham document are as it were foreign to Gathering I, into which they are inserted.

Gatherings III and IV have clearly suffered dislocation: pp. 184—183 certainly ought to come before p. 47, and it looks as if p. 44 came last and so preceded the normal Inventories of p. 55 sqq., while the place for p. 54 would be before it, 43 being left blank for memoranda connected with the list of fees.

The natural order seems to be pp. 41—42, 184—183, 47—48, 49—50, 43—44, 51—52, 53—54, 45—46, and so they have been printed, but as 41—42 and 49—50 cannot be parts of the same sheet, being turned in opposite ways, there must have been loss of leaves or cancelling.

The Ordinacio Capelle de Schelforth, pp. 179—181, was on one sheet, inserted in gathering XIV, and of course pp. 184—183 are foreign to xv. So pp. 217—220 were one sheet inserted in xvii.

The present state of the book suggests that the various independent documents which make up two thirds of it were once kept together unbound and suffered from being rubbed as certain pages witness. All blank spaces were gradually filled up with various minor memoranda. Some Archdeacon or his Official remedied this state of things by binding them all up with about 70 additional pages (gatherings I, XI—XIII, XIV part, xvii, xviii) to provide space for further memoranda and copies of documents concerning his office. These extra pages, many of which are still blank, are distinguishable by their poor quality and careless shaping. As the earliest dated entry on such a page is of the year 1429 it was no doubt in the time of Archdeacon Robert de Wetheringsett that the work was done, very likely by John Wygenhale who became Official in that year. It was probably then that the edges of the old leaves were cut down and some of the Inventories mutilated. The book was rebound in the 16th century by which time the leaves were displaced as the numbering shews. When it was rebound in the 19th century single leaves were joined to make sheets in such a way that we can no longer be sure which belonged to which.

In the text printed below the most probable original order has been followed, as it is also more convenient for the subject matter.

The original spelling has been kept throughout the text save that j has been banished except in numerals and the convenient distinction between vowel u and consonant v has been introduced: the inconsistent use of capitals has been systematized and in the Inventories and in pieces of continuous text they are confined to the beginnings of sentences, and to proper names. Abbreviations have been nearly always expanded without remark, but where there is a probable expansion which is not absolutely certain, it has been enclosed in square brackets: where it is impossible to be fairly sure what form was in the scribe's mind the word has been left curtailed and an apostrophe takes the place of the abbreviation mark. Certain jottings found above each Inventory are so excessively abbreviated that it has seemed safer not to expand them but to give them as nearly as possible as they stand. They deal with summonses served on the clergy of each church, the response thereto and the fees due from them (see Excursus G, p. 304).

The punctuation has been modernized except in the Inventories: in these the full stop universal in the MS. has been retained save where items are closely connected in grammar (e.g. by "et") or sense.

All through the book the character of the hand employed in each entry or document has been indicated as nearly as possible, but in the case of the Kalendar and the Inventories of Church Ornaments, both of which received additions of very various dates, this was not quite a simple matter.

The Kalendar has hardly anything in common with the rest of the book: it is hoped that the notes on p. 151 will sufficiently explain the typographical representation of its peculiarities of script: the additions to it being small require no special apparatus to indicate them.

The Inventories on the other hand demand peculiar treatment because of the way in which the additions were made and the interest that they present.

The facsimile shews two pages, 106, 107. The latter is a normal page on which the first hand wrote the Inventories of two churches leaving a certain amount of room for additions, but as these churches were rather rich the latter have filled up all the margins as well as the space left for them. Page 106 is peculiar in that it has the inventory of one church and of a chapel, the latter written in a later hand over an erasure. Here again the additions have taken up all the room available without much regard to order.

Intelligibly to present such things in print it seemed well to bring out the original Inventory as clearly as possible and it accordingly appears on the left-hand page and, in order to prevent its text being interrupted, corrections and additions have been relegated to the right-hand page.

The original Inventories are not however all in the same hand: for one thing Chapelries were not included in the first scheme and their Inventories are nearly all in a later hand, still the first text of them has been kept on the left-hand page. Further more than one hand (see below under A) was used for the Inventories of churches, and finally the original text of certain Inventories (see below under A) has been entirely erased and a new text written over it. This has been likewise kept on the left-hand page as being for our purposes the earliest text.

Nor are the totals of Synodals, Procurations and Peter's pence due to the first hand, but they are not on a par with the additions to the Inventories and in their first form they have been kept on the left-hand page. With these are connected the jottings as to dues and summonses found above each Inventory. All these are B except a few marked F.

The corrections and especially the additions are themselves composite as the facsimile shews. The beginning of a supplementary addition is marked by the sign ¶—but this does not of itself denote a change of hand, as after an interval a man might sometimes add further particulars to what he had written before.

The hands used, whether in the original Inventories or in the additions, are worthy of study for the light they throw upon the activities of successive Archdeacons, the gradual enrichment of the churches and the persons of the benefactors named: one or two of them recur in gatherings II—IV, XIV, XV and this is some help in dating them, but unfortunately it has been found impossible to make a straightforward list of all the hands employed and refer each addition or correction to a particular hand. Different hands often resemble each other to our eyes, whereas the same hand takes on varied aspects due to various conditions of pen, ink, writing-surface and space, or even to the caprice of the scribe. Still, except where a correction merely substitutes one number for another—such cases have been left undefined—an entry can almost always be assigned to a group of hands and these groups can be arranged in a chronological sequence and even conjecturally dated. The letters A to F accordingly denote six such groups within each of which particular hands shewing recognisable characteristics are distinguished by numerical indices: less individual hands bear only the letter of their group.

l, c. 1278. A is assigned to the original hands which wrote Inventories of churches and brief entries as to the quasi-parochial chapels of Newton, Coton and the puzzling Steeple Morden, whereas other chapels are always in later hands. The Inventories of Witcham and Doddington on p. 125 were also an afterthought supplied by *B*². Half the Deanery of Chesterton from p. 80 to mid-way on p. 84, i.e. the original entries of Chesterton, Milton, Waterbeach, Landbeach, Cottenham, Impington, Histon and Girton were for some reason erased. They were copied out afresh by *B*¹, but he got three churches instead of two on to p. 80, and so when he came to p. 84 he found a blank and went on with Oakington until he noticed that this inventory was below on the page: he then cancelled his own entry. He must have been working from a rough copy. The earliest date mentioned is 1278 (Wilburton, p. 123). As this follows just after the Archbishop's visitation in 1277 (pp. 184, 183, 47, inf. p. 18) it looks as if the book was compiled in consequence of the Archbishop's injunctions, and as if we might refer all the A hands to about this date. *A*¹ precedes 1284 as it gives Cambridge St Peter extra portam (St Mary the Less) as appropriated to St John's Hospital and not to Peterhouse. A^o is the hand in which p. 46 is written. It is not the same as any other A, but the writing is too much rubbed to let us see whether it is the same as some B hand. I would suggest that it is a fragment of a rough or trial copy discarded because it did not leave enough room for additions, this page surviving because it belonged to a quire which contained other related matter.

*A*¹ is the main original hand (see facsimile).

*A*² is confined to the entry Barton (p. 95). It puts the numbers after the objects catalogued: this and its untidiness lead to confusion.

*A*³ wrote pp. 117—122 part of the Deaneries of Bourn and Ely: in this too the numbers sometimes come second.

*A*⁴, confined to p. 123, Wilburton and Chatteris, mentions the 1278 visitation.

*A*⁵, confined to p. 124, Whittlesey St Mary, alone mentions the fines imposed for non-amendment of defects.

A hands never give donors' names: they take the presence of the ornaments for granted.

B, c. 1278—1303. B denotes the first layer of additions between the compiling of the lists c. 1278 and the appearance of Ralph de Fodringhey's dated entries in 1304.

*B*¹ most often occurs in rasura, e.g. pp. 80—84, 106 (v. plate), 123 (partly), 124, it is sometimes hard to be sure of its identity in small entries on a fresh surface, but it seems quite clear for Kneesworth chapel, p. 100. *B*¹ also began the list of chapelries on p. 52.

*B*² is most characteristic. It always registers defects except on p. 123 and on p. 125, where it is the original hand for Witcham, and its chapelry March.

*B*³ may be more than one hand, it generally presents the first additions made to a list, but follows *B*¹ and *B*². It is hardly represented on the facsimile.

*B*⁴, a rather ornamental hand of rare occurrence, Cambridge St Andrew p. 58, Triplow p. 89, Whaddon p. 102.

The hands which add up the Synodalia, etc. at the end of each Deanery seem to be the same as some varieties of *B*³, e.g. cf. pp. 82 and 87.

Those which make the summaries on pp. 54 (almost rubbed out) and 126 seem like those of the Archbishop's letter, p. 184 (1277), and the list of Advocates on p. 43 (1289).

To the B class belong the Inventories of Howes and Benwick chapels on pp. 45, 46, and other chapels in the text: Linton (*B*³), Kneesworth (*B*¹), Royston, Redreth, —1316. (1304—1316).

*C*¹ is in character not unlike a B hand, but is dated 1304 at Tydd, p. 108, and 1305 at Wendy, p. 101. Other occurrences are Stow-cum-Quy, Duxford St John (Walter the Rector is given as c. 1304) and St Peter, and Cottenham. An entry at Cambridge St John, p. 56, is also dated 1304, but seems in a different hand, which occurs nowhere else.

*C*² runs right through the Inventories, and bears dates from 1304 to 1311. It therefore does not necessarily begin later than *C*¹, though it goes on so much longer. The examples of it on the facsimile are not very typical, and the hand varies a good deal. Fodringhey's denunciation of those who interfere with the testamentary dispositions of serfs (MS. p. 42, inf. p. 17) seems to have a resemblance to *C*².

—1340. to *C*²; it has an elaborate and a careless form, but these may really be two hands. The mention of Thomas de Abinton (Abinton parva, p. 65) as Vicar of St Botolph's, Cambridge, shews that it went on after 1320.

*D*² made a good many entries: it succeeds immediately to *D*¹. It is the most ambitious hand in the book, though very uneven (see plate), but it can be recognised by a curious yellow ink and the spelling spalterium. It rather recalls the hand in which Advocates' names are entered in 1306 (p. 43), but the dates hardly allow of an identification.

The entry mentioning T. de Pateshull at Grantchester (1324—1331), p. 95, is made in a hand that does not recur.

The date 1338 at Swaffham Prior St Cyriac has been bungled in such a way as to suggest that it was written well after 1350.

E, c. 1340 *E*¹ also uses bright yellow ink. It is only concerned with —1365. appropriations and procurations, Cambridge All SS. ad Castrum, St Sepulchre, St Michael, St Mary, St Peter extra portam, Abington Great and Little, Barrington and Trumpington. The latter gives 1344 as a terminus post quem. It does not give the appropriation of Whaddon in 1351 or Litlington in 1358.

*E*² a curious back-sloping hand records the appropriation of Litlington to Clare Hall, and a fair number of additions.

It also seems to recur in some of the model letters from the Official on pp. 185—191 (inf. pp. 175, 178).

—1390.

It is very hard to draw the line between E and F. *F*¹ (coarse), *F*² (light), *F*³ (cursive), probably represent more than three hands.

*F*² seems to have copied the Constitution on p. 128, perhaps the memorandum dated 1386 on p. 127.

*F*⁴ on p. 64 certainly wrote the entries on pp. 127, 128 dated 1383 and 1389, but I am not quite sure of the other cases where I have marked this hand.

*F*⁵ gives the appropriations of Long Stanton All SS. (p. 86) in 1380 and Pampisford dated 1387 (p. 79).

The last year to which entries go is suggested by the names of Thomas de Castro Bernardi at Lolworth 1377—1381, J. Upton at Boxworth, c. 1389, William de Fulbourn, d. 1392, at Fulbourn, John de Sleaford, d. 1401, at Balsham, and by the fact that the appropriation of Cherry Hinton to Peterhouse in 1395 is not recorded. It is true that appropriations of Whaddon and Caxton in 1351 and of Steeple Morden in 1381 are passed over, but 1390 seems about the lower limit.

The uncertainty of the arguments upon which most of the above datings are based cannot be disguised: except in the case of the dated entries, the name of a donor gives us at best a terminus ante quem a given hand had not ceased to be used, and arguments ex silentio with regard to appropriations are clearly invalid: still the attempt to date the hands seemed worth making, and is much helped by careful observation of the order in which entries follow each other. It is not unlikely that after R. de Fodringhey's evidently energetic term of office there was some slackness, that the D hands are the result of the stimulus applied by Archbishop Walter Reynold's Constitution of 1322, and the E hands due to John de Stratford's in 1342.

"Iste Liber pertinet ad Archidiaconum Eliensem cum gaudio magno et honore" stands written on the second leaf in a 16th century hand, but though the book may have belonged to Walpole or Fodringhey, for two hundred years it had probably passed from Official to Official and so continued until it went out of practical use something after 1573, the last date mentioned in it. No doubt it was alienated at the same time as the Novus Liber (v. Introd. p. xiii) in which the latest date is 1585¹.

All the Officials who come after Master Richard Crocheman (1275)² on the list in Excursus A (p. 287) were probably once quasi-owners of the book. Other names scattered about its pages I have ranged with them, but have marked them with a query, some, such as Ragenhill, Stacy, Backhowse and Chapman, may well have progressed from being Notaries or Proctors to becoming fullblown Officials; other names are more probably pen-tries, or memoranda. William Stevynson, though only Testamentorum Scriba, seems to have had custody of the book. R. Swale is named as Official in 1585 on the first page of the Novus Liber. The name of Thomas Hunte, c. 1600 (p. 13, inf. p. 7), is upside down and probably a mere pen-try, but it would be interesting to know by what title John King was "verus possessor huius libri" (p. 163): was he an Official or had both books been alienated in his time? Thomas Fuller in his "History of the University of Cambridge," 1655, p. 22, is the first to use our MS. for historical purposes. He prints the Decision as to the rights of the Archdeacon and the Chancellor of the University and adds a note "Extant in an old book of the Archdeacon's of Ely, now in possession of my worthy friend that judicious Antiquary Mr More late fellow of Caius Coll." William Moore³ lost his fellowship in 1647, so this note is subsequent to that date, but Fuller probably used the MS. in the thirties, as he left Cambridge in 1638. Moore died in 1659, leaving his books to his College. Special thanks are due to that learned Society for putting the MS. at the disposal of the C.A.S. during many years.

³ J. Venn, Biogr. Hist. of Govn. and Caius Coll. i, p. 192.

Later in the 17th century, T. Layer, a most industrious antiquary, transcribed the greater part of the MS.: of the longer items he has omitted only the Archbishop's Itinerary, the Kalendar, the specimen letters and the long Laudum Archiepiscopi. His transcript is now in the Bodleian, MS. Rawlinson B. 278: it was kindly sent to the University Library in case it might supply the text of passages cut off or faded in the original: unfortunately these mutilations are older than Layer's time and in no case does he furnish any fresh matter.

Blomefield used the MS. in 1723, and it has never been lost sight of since. The latest to extract profit from it was the Rev. C. H. Evelyn White, who read a paper upon it to the C.A.S. and published a valuable article in the East Anglian, XI, p. 305. Some fifty years ago Mr Herbert Hailstone copied out the Inventories, but I do not know what became of his transcript. Ever since his time the idea of publishing the MS. has been entertained: now it has been carried out, but has had to be finished under most unfavourable circumstances. Feci quod potui.

p. 29 [Early xiv c. book hand]

[A]d honorem Domini nostri Ihesu Christi et sancte Matris et sancte ecclesie et profectum animarum: In primis nos N., permissione divina episcopus Elyensis, exhortamur in domino firmiter iniungentes, ut unusquisque pastor animarum et [pre]cipue quilibet sacerdos parochialis sciat decalogum, id est decem mandata legis Moysayee, eademque populo sibi subiecto frequenter predicet et exponat observanda. Sciat quoque, que sunt septem criminalia peccata, eadem similiter frequenter populo predicet et exponat fugienda. Sciat insuper saltim simpliciter septem ecclesiastica sacramenta. Sciat etiam quilibet predictorum et doceat populum saltem simplicem intellectum fidei, sicut continetur in symbolo tam maiori quam minori^e. Item statuimus propter animarum pericula, que ex ignorantia sacerdotum circa huiusmodi [res] manifestum [est] provenire, quod sacerdotes, qui ad curam parochialis ecclesie sunt admittendi, super predictis per Archidiaconum Elyensem vel eius Officialem examinentur diligenter, fideliter et distincte. Et, si predicta non sciant, ad curam parochialis ecclesie nullatenus admittantur. Item statuimus, quod sacerdotes confessiones audientes primo inducant confitentes ad

- contritiones de suis peccatis, et ut cum reverencia et humilitate sacerdotibus confiteantur peccata, et quod bonam voluntatem habeant satisfaciendi Domino pro eisdem. In absolutione
- p. 30 autem, | iuxta constitutionem beati Gregorii^a, hiis verbis utantur: Ego ab istis peccatis michi confessis te, auctoritate qua fungor, absolvo. Et diligenter attendat, que in audiendis confessionibus et indulgendis penitentiis a sanctis patribus sunt statuta. Item statuimus, quod nullus alienus decetero ad regimen parochialis ecclesie admittatur, nisi de ipsius ordinibus et conversacione honesta laudabile testimonium, vel certa noticia habeatur. Item statuimus, ut presbiteri parochiales doceant parochianos suos frequenter diebus dominicis formam baptizandi in vulgari, ut, si articulus necessitatis emergat, recte sciant per verba a Salvatore nostro statuta pueros baptizare. Item statuimus propter reverenciam ecclesie nostre cathedralis et honorem beate Etheldrede, cuius sancti corporis presenciam eadem ecclesia honoratur, ut de ipsa in quacunque ecclesia conventuali et parochiali nostre dyocesis ad matutinas et ad vespervas post memoriam sancte ecclesie specialis memoria habeatur. Sacerdos vero quilibet frequenter doceat plebem suam, ut, cum in celebracione missarum elevetur hostia salutaris, se reverenter omnes inclinent. Idem faciant et cum eam porta [t]presbiter ad infirmum qu[em]dam; in decenti habitu sup-
- p. 31 posito mundo velamine ferat et referat manifeste | ac honorifice ante pectus cum reverencia et timore, semper eam lumine precedente, cum sit candor lucis eterne^b, ut ex hoc apud omnes fideles fides et devocio augeatur, quemadmodum in generali concilio continetur. Tyntinabulum quoque cum lumine simul reverendam corporis hostiam semper precedat, ut eius sonitu fidelium devocio ad tanti sacramenti debitam veneracionem excitetur. Statuimus eciam, ut in cunctis ecclesiis crisma et eukaristia sub fidei custodia clavibus adhibitis conservetur, ne possit ad illa temeraria manus extendi ad aliqua nephanda excercenda. Observet eciam sacerdos, ne sacra eukaristia per vasis vicium, aut diutinam conservacionem, contraxerit aliquid, per quod reddatur turpis aspectui, aut abominabilis gustui. Illud idem observent de vino tanti sacramenti deputato. Sacerdotes eciam sint promptissimi et paratissimi non solum diebus set etiam noctibus, ut, cum requiruntur, egrotantes visitent, ne eorum negligencia (quod absit) moriatur infirmus sine confessione, aut dominici corporis communione, aut unctione extrema. Precipimus quoque, quod in qualibet ecclesia canon misse sit recte et rite correctus. Superaltaria^a quoque sint congruentis magnitudinis, firmiterque fixa in circumdante ligno, | ne usurpentur ad alios usus quam ad divinorum celebrationem, ut videlicet non molantur super ea colores^b, vel aliqua fiant in eis consimilia. Panni etiam crismales, vel aliis divinis officiis deputati, in usus seculares post usum eorum ecclesiasticum nullatenus convertantur, nec etiam utensilia, seu alia ad cultum divinum specialiter assignata. In ecclesia quoque divinum officium fiat integre et devote, ut videlicet lectiones et ymni et psalmi et alia, que in Dei laudem recitantur, integram habeant verborum prolationem et distinctam*. Provideant etiam rectores ecclesiarum^c et sacerdotes parochiales, ut pueri parochiarum suarum diligenter doceantur, et sciant orationem dominicam, et symbolum, et salutacionem beate Marie, et crucis signaculo se recte assignare. Et, quia, ut audivimus, etiam quidam adulti hec ignorant, precipimus, ut, cum laici ad confessionem accedant, diligenter examinentur, utrum sciant predicta, et secundum† quod expedit in eis a sacerdotibus instruantur.

Monemus eciam precipientes, ne clerici arma portent, set coronam et tonsuram^b habeant ordini congruentem et habitum convenientem, calligis scactatis^c rubeis a[ut] viridibus non ata[ntur]^{*}. Sacerdotes vero parochiales precipue incedant in habitu honesto et decenti et tanto ordini convenienti. Et in divinis officiis ministrando utantur superpelliciis, vel saltim cappis clausis^d. In singulis quoque ecclesiis, quarum facultates ad hoc commode sufficiunt, sint unus dyaconus, et unus subdiaconus in eis residentes, sive administrantes in eisdem, ut decet. In aliis vero ecclesiis saltim sit unus clericus ydoneus et honestus, qui sacerdoti cum habitu convenienti in

p. 34 divinis officiis ministret. Precipimus | eciam quoque firmiter iniungentes, ne in locis sacris habeantur mercata, cum Dominus ementes et vendentes de templo eiecerit, ne domus orationis fiat spelunca latronis^e, nec eciam ludi, vel placita secularia et maxime, ubi de causa sanguinis agitur: adicientes eciam ad hec, ut cimiteria sint bene clausa, et tam ecclesie quam domus ad eas pertinentes competenter secundum ecclesiarum facultates edificate[†]. Item ecclesie decenter oruate, tam in libris quam in vasis sacris et vestimentis, et quod ornamenta et vasa sacra sint de noctibus sub tuta et honesta custodia, nec reportentur in domibus laycorum, neque sub eorum custodia, nisi rationabilis et evidens ad hoc compulerit necessitas. Precipimus eciam, ut redditus, assignati per devotionem clericorum aut laycorum ad luminaria vel ad alios usus honestos in ipsis ecclesiis, non convertantur per ipsos rectores vel vicarios in usus vel emolumenta eorumdem. Frequenti vero predicatione commoneantur subditi per suos prelatos aut sacerdotes, ne matres vel nutrices parvulos suos in lectulos suos iuxta se collocent, propter pericula, que frequentissime inde imminere noscuntur. Clandestina quoque matrimonia districtius in ecclesiis sollempniter inhibeantur[‡] quolibet genere clandestini matrimonii. Prohibeantur quoque compotaciones, | salem ecclesiam, inducant et inhi-beant, ne in illa visitacione decertent cum vexillis suis^a preire, quia inde solent pericula aliquociens pervenire. Audivimus eciam, unde [non] mediocriter dolemus, quod quidam sacerdotes parochiales extorquent pecuniam a laycis pro penitencia, seu eciam aliis sacramentis ministrandis, et eciam quod quidam iniungunt annualia vel triennalia, ut ipsi videlicet inde consequantur emolumentum. Et quia huiusmodi presumptiva cupiditate sunt plena, decetero in dyocesi nostra fieri prohibemus. Inhibemus quoque, ne sacerdotes faciant suos dyaconos parochianorum suorum audire confessiones, nec eciam penitencias iniungere, cum evidenter verum sit, quod dyacono non est tradita potestas ligandi, neque solvendi, nec eciam alia sacramenta ministret, que concessa sunt solis sacerdotibus ministrare. Quasdam vero sentencias in concilio Oxoniensi publice promulgatas intendimus ad honorem Dei et utilitatem sancte ecclesie innovare sub hac forma. Auctoritate Dei patris et beate Virginis et omnium Sanctorum et Oxoniensis concilii^b

p. 36 sentenciam excommunicacionis innovamus in omnes | illos, qui scienter falsum perhibent testimonium, vel perhibere procurant, vel eciam qui testes tales scienter producant, vel subornant in causa matrimoniali, maxime ubi agitur contra matrimonium vel alicuius exheredacionem. Advocatos eciam omnes consimili sententia denunciamus esse imodatos, qui in causis matrimonialibus maliciose excepciones opponunt, vel opponere procurant, ne matrimonia vera debitum sorciantur effectum, vel contra iusticiam processus cause diucius suspendantur. Item consimili sententia denunciamus ligatos omnes illos, qui gracia lucri, vel odii, vel favoris, vel quacunque de causa, maliciose alicui crimen imponunt, cum infamatus non sit apud bonos et graves, ut sic saltem eidem canonica purgacio indicatur, vel alio modo gravetur. Denunciamus eciam auctoritate eiusdem concilii omnes illos excommunicatos, qui gracia lucri, odii, vel favoris, vel qualiter, contempnunt exequi mandatum domini Regis contra excommunicatos et interdictos, claves ecclesie contempnentes. Hoc igitur volumus et precipimus, sicut canonice* statuta sunt a nobis, reverenter et firmiter observare. Sciantque contemptores et horum transgressores, si legitime

Cum in periculosioribus maior sit adhibenda cautela, quoniam ex clandestinis matrimoniis, et illis precipue, que nec presbiterorum presenciam, nec alia iuris solempnitate uniantur, multa novimus animarum pericula provenisse: provideant sibi presbiteri parochiales et alii, ne decetero sine bannorum edicione matrimoniis contrahendis intersint; alioquin sciant se triennio suspendendos. Inhibeant etiam presbiteri parochiales frequenter et publice parochianis suis sub pena excommunicacionis, et parochiani presentes suis famulis hoc exponant, ut sine presbiterorum presenciam et bannorum edicione matrimonia sive sponsalia contrahere non presumant. Alioquin sciant se principales persone, priusquam ad docendum se de iure suo admittantur, publice fustigacioni* subdendos, et alios qui consensum vel auctoritatem prestiterint, eadem pena feriendos. Sanctorum lateran[ensis]† [et] lugdon[ensis]‡ statutum conciliorum^a renovantes et precipientes statuimus, ut clerici beneficiati et precipue sacerdotes, sive beneficiati, sive non, convenientia desuper deferant§ indumenta, cappis manucatis et precipue haregotis^b, vel aliter transfiguratis^c vestibus non utantur. Item, quoniam dignum est, quod sacerdotes, qui p. 38 ceteros ecclesie ministros | dignitate et ordine precellunt, ab ipsis [per] habitus prerogativam aut sue honestatis integritatem distinguantur||, precipimus, quod presbiteri nostre dyocesis per plateas et vicos in civitatibus et burgis in cappis clausis vel in superpelliciis decenter incedant. Preterea statuimus, ut in celebracione missarum semper due candelae accendantur, vel saltem una cum una lampade^d. Preterea prohibemus, ne aliquis sacerdos confessiones aliquorum revelet verbo vel facto signo aut alio quovis modo, sciturus, quod, si super hoc convincatur, penam deposicionis incurret, secundum canonicas sanctiones, et omnibus diebus vite sue

Et si quis proprium aliquid habuerit incontinenti resignet, nec estimet abbas vel prior, abbatisa vel priorissa, quod de supplenda proprietate possit cum aliquo, vel cum aliqua regulari persona dispensare, quia abdicatio proprietatis, sicut et custodia castitatis, adeo est annexa professioni regulari, ut contra eam summus pontifex non possit dispensare. Contemptores‡ vero illius constitutionis ecclesiastica communione privamus decernentes, quod, si proprietas apud quemquam inventa fuerit in morte ipsa, proprietas cum eo in signum perditionis extra cimiterium subterretur, secundum quod in canone continetur. Item, si debiles vel infirmi religiosi minucione^b indigeant, vel alia medicina non seorsum in cameris, set in infirmitorio, ut que necessaria fuerint sibi, tam in carnibus quam in aliis, recipiant competenter, salvo hoc quod abbas vel prior interdum aliquos, prout necessitas postulaverit, advocare possit, ipsos quoque secum in camera sua melius et plenius exhibere persone religiose. Item statuimus, ut communiter dormiant in dormitorio, et vescantur in refectorio, nisi iustam et legitimam causam | habeant impediti. [*ORDINATIO DE IURISDICTIONE ARCHIDIACONI ET

p. 48 Universis Christi fidelibus presentes literas inspecturis Hugo^b, Dei gratia Elyensis episcopus, salutem in Domino. Ad universitatis vestre noticiam tenore presencium volumus pervenire, quod nos affectantes tranquillitatem et pacem universitatis nostre Cantebr[igie], regentium et scholarium studencium in eadem, volentesque ut tam Archidiaconus noster Elyensis circa sibi subditos quam Cancellarius universitatis eiusdem circa scolares suos ita iurisdictionem suam separatim exerceant, ut uterque suo iure contentus non usurpet alienum, ad petitionem et instanciam prefati Archidiaconi nostri, Cancellarii et magistrorum universitatis predictorum (ab utraque parte nobis traditis articulis) ad eternam rei geste memoriam super hiis ordinamus infrascripta. In primis volumus et ordinamus, quod Magister Glomerie Cant[ebrie] qui pro tempore fuerit, audiat et decidat universas glomerellorum ex parte rea existencium [causas], volentes in hac parte prefatum magistrum eodem privilegio gaudere, quod habent ceteri magistri de scolariis suis de causis eorum decidendis. Ita quod, sive sint scolares, sive laici, qui glomerellos^c velint convenire, vel aliquid ab eis petere, per viam iudicialis indaginis hoc facia[n]t coram magistro glomerie, ad quem decernimus huiusmodi cause cognicionem spectare pleno iure. Nisi huiusmodi cause cognicio sit de pensionibus domorum per magistros et burgenses taxatarum^d, vel de facinoris enormis evidenciam, ubi requiritur incarcerationis pena, vel ab universitate privacio. In hiis enim casibus et non aliis respondeant glomerelli coram Cancellario cuilibet querelanti, qui iurisdictionem suam exercet in hiis, sicut est alias observatum. Si vero magister glomerie cognoscat inter scolarem actorem et glomerellum reum et contigerit appellari ab interlocutoria, vel a definitiva sententia, volumus et ordinamus, quod ad Cancellarium appelletur, qui in ipsa causa appellacionis procedat secundum ordinem observatum, cum ab alio magistro regente et de dicta causa sui scolari[s] cognoscente ab alterutra parciū ad Cancellarium appellatur. De causis vero glomerellorum inter se, et laicorum et glomerellorum, Cancellarius in nullo se intromittat, nisi causa sit de pensione domorum taxatarum, vel de enormitate delicti, ut superius est expressum. Et, quia in statuto universitatis vidimus contineri, quod duo bedelli universitatis intersint virgam deferentes omnibus vespertis, principiis, conventibus, defunctorum exequiis, et omnibus aliis convocacionibus nullo alio in p[re]iudicio eorum virgam delatum[o], precipimus, quod bedellus glomerie in predictis convocacionibus et locis coram Cancellario et magistris virgam non deferat. In aliis autem locis, quandocumque et ubicumque voluerit, et maxime pro expedicione sui officii, virgam libere deferat licenter et quiete. Et, quia in statutis universitatis eiusdem | inter alia continetur, quod familia scolarium, scriptores et alii officia ad usum scolarium tantum deputata exercentes, eadem immunitate et libertate gaudeant, qua et scolares, ut eorum Archidiacono non respondeant, sicuti nec scolares, qui sunt eorum domini: hoc ita tenore presencium declaramus, quod in hoc casu nomine familie solummodo volumus contineri mancipia scolarium in domibus cum eis commorancia, dum personaliter deserviunt scolariis antedictis. Item nomine scriptorum et aliorum officia ad usum scolarium tantum deputata exercencium volumus intelligi de scriptoribus, illuminatoribus, et stacionariis, qui tantum deserviunt scholaribus quod sub Cancellario respondeant; uxores tamen eorum super crimine adulterii vel alio, cuius congruio et correctio ad Archidiaconum spectat, in casu consimili in personis aliis sibi subditorum diffamata, et reliqua eorum familia ad officium scolari[um] specialiter non deputata, Archidiacono sint subiecti in omnibus et singulis, sicut ceteri alii laici municipii Cant[ebrie] et totius nostre dyocesis Elyensis. Quod autem apud Bernewell presentibus Archidiacono predicto, Cancellario et aliis, quorum intererat, inter eos verbaliter tantum ordinavimus, presentibus inseri fecimus, videlicet quod rectores ecclesiarum, vicarii, capellani parochiales, et alii ecclesiarum Cant[ebrie] ministri, Archidiacono per omnia subsint, sicut et alii de Archidiaconatu suo adiciendo declarantes*, quod appellatione ministrorum ecclesie volumus in hoc casu contineri tam ipsum rectorem, vicarium et clericos ecclesie deservientes, quam presbiteros celebrantes missas beate Virginis et pro fidelibus, dum tamen ab aliquo parochianorum laicorum Cant[ebrie] fuerint procurati, ibique moram faciant principaliter pro missis huiusmodi celebrandis licet forsā a latere^a studere velint et scholas exercere. Si vero principaliter causa studiorum ad municipium Cant[ebrie] venerint, licet forsā predictas missas celebrent per parochianos procurati, volumus et ordinamus, quod Cancellarii iurisdictionem subsint omnino. Ita quod, si dubitetur, qua intencione moram faciunt principaliter in municipio predicto, super hoc stetur ipsorum presbiterorum iuramento corporaliter prestando coram Archidiacono et Cancellario memoratis, et sic de huiusmodi presbiteri persona ille iurisdictionem habeat omnino, ad quem ex eventu et virtute iuramenti pertinebit in forma superius amotata. Si vero rectores, vicarii et ministri huiusmodi ecclesiarum Cant[ebrie] forte cum scolare contrabant, seu in actu scolastico delinquant, in hiis tantummodo casibus, et non aliis, coram Cancellario ipsos precipimus compelli respondere. Ordinacio capelle de Schelforth magna.

[xiv c.] Hec est ordinacio capelle domini Iohannis le Moyne^a in tribus scriptis in modis cyrographi confectis, unde una pars remanet penes dominum Archidiaconum Eliensem, et alia penes antedictum Iohannem le Moyne, et tercia pars penes capellanum ibi deservientem. Hec est convencio facta inter dominum Iohannem le Moyne, filium domini Nicholai le Moyne, ex una parte, et Nicholaum de Sand, clericum, ex altera, videlicet quod predictus Iohannes pro anima sua, et pro animabus uxorum suarum, et pro animabus patrum, matrum et predecessorum; ac successorum suorum, dedit et concessit prefato Nicholao et successoribus suis quoddam mesuagium, quod fuit Willelmi Loverade, una cum crofta et triginta acras terre, et unam acram prati et viginti solidos annui redditus, cum pertinentiis in magna Schelford, et potestatem levandi faldam super eandem terram secundum quantitatem illius terre, prout continetur in carta feoffamenti inde confecta, ad divina in capella ipsius Iohannis in predicta villa per se vel per ydoneam personam secundum formam subscriptam imperpetuum celebranda: videlicet quod predictus Nicholaus et successores sui qualibet die dicant^b servicium de defunctis (scilicet Placebo et Dirige), et cantabunt vel facient cantari in ipsa capella pro animabus predictis qualibet die dominica de die, et die lune Requiem, et die martis de sancto Stephano, et die mercurii Requiem, et die iovis de sancto spiritu, et die veneris de cruce, et die sabbati de beatissima Maria: et, si aliquod festum intervenerit, fiat servicium de festo pro animabus predictis et qualibet die, omnibus horis et modis, quibus prefatus Iohannes et successores sui voluerint: et predictus Nicholaus et successores sui invenient sibi sufficientem clericum, qui eis deserviat in dicta capella, et invenient duos cereos in eadem ardentes per dies festivos, et ad missam beate Marie, et per dies feriatos duas minutas candelas et unam lampadem coram cruce ardentes cotidie, dum divina celebrantur. Et custodient libros, vestimenta, et omnia ornamenta dicte capelle, que quidem divisim tanguntur in libro Archid[iaconi] Eliensis. Et, si contingat quod aliquod predictorum ornamentorum fuerit amissum, vel deterioratum qualicumque casu, predictus Nicholaus et successores sui illud restituent, excepto furto et incendio: ita quod, si per ipsos non steterit, quo citius furentur, seu comburantur, vel deteriorantur. religiosorum utriusque sexus, exceptis installacionibus abbatis de Thorney, et priorum de Bernwell, et Anglesey, et exceptis induccione[m] de Swavesey, et Lynton, quorum inducciones in corporalem possessionem dicto archidiacono, quociens casus vacacionis evenerit, reserventur. Archidiaconus insuper Eliensis et sui successores habeant consistorium archidiaconale, cum perfeccione, et admissione offic[ialis], iudicum et advocatorum, commissar[ii], procuratorum, ac aliorum ministrorum iurisdicarchidiaconum per presentem nostram diffinicionem pertinere dinoscuntur, ac eciam celebracionem capitulorum et sessionum, tam generalium quam aliorum quorumcunque, in archidiaconatu predicto, exceptis, ut supra. Inducciones insuper omnium beneficiatorum in diocesi Elien[si], tam in visitacione episcopi quam extra, et installaciones religiosorum habeant archidiaconus et ipsius successores, exceptis in utroque casu illis, que superius episcopo reservantur. Cum vero ab archidiacono, eiusve officiali, vel commissario, ad con[si]storium vel audienciam episcopi ab aliquo pretenso gravamine frivole et frustra appellatur, vel si appellacio deserta fuerit, hoc docto, coram episcopo vel eius officiali, sine difficultate causa, sive negocium huiusmodi, ad archidiaconum, eiusve officialem, vel commissarium, protinus remittatur. Preterea, competit archidiacono Eliensi, et suis successoribus, magistros scolaram grammaticalium in universitate Cantebr[igie] tantum^a perficere quociens et sicut eis videbitur expedire. Et circa prefeccionem decanorum ruralium, quociens tempus arrideat, archidiaconus Eliensis, qui pro tempore fuerit, de singulis decanatibus sue iurisdiccionis duarum personarum nomina transmittet episcopo, quarum sic nominatarum (dummodo non fuit de personis sive locis episcopo solum et in solidum superius reservatis) unam sine difficultate et dilacione preficiet episcopus in decanum, qui tam episcopo, quam archidiacono, circa execucionem sui officii fidelitatis prestabit debitum et solitum iuramentum. Laudamus quoque, quod archidiaconus predictus et ipsius successores habeant instituciones et destituciones capellanorum capellarum, et cantariarum, que de sua primaria ordinacione et fundacione pertinent ad archidiaconum Eliensem, aut de futura ordinacione et fundatorum disposicionibus pertinebunt ad eundem, ac potestatem¹ concedendi literas monicionum et sentenciarum generalium ad officium suum de consuetudine pertinen[tium], et bannorum matrimonialium quorumcunque ad eum confluencium, exceptis semper locis, personis, et casibus episcopo reservatis. Et, ut omnis dolus et materia altereacionis et scandali de cetero evitetur, tenore presencium arbitramur, quod non licebit episcopo Eliensi, qui nunc est, aut erit pro tempore, ultra unum commissarium generalem in civitate et diocesi Elien[si] habere, et unum, vel plures, ut sibi videbitur, in iurisdiccione sua exempta, qui de aliis emergentibus extra dictam iurisdiccione[m] episcopi exemptam, exceptis visitacionum temporibus, et in causis pendentibus, in audiencia episcopi se nullatenus intromittet, et tres apparitores tantummodo, excepto quod, in iurisdiccione sibi solum et in solidum per presentes exempta, unum, duos, vel plures, episcopo habere concedimus, ita quod, exceptis, ut supra, visitacionum temporibus, in iurisdiccione archidiaconali extra loca exempta predicta officia sua non liceat in aliquo exercere. Nec licebit archidiacono ultra unum commissarium generalem habere, nec plures quam tres apparitores tantummodo, qui omnes et singuli offic[ialis], commissarius, registrarius, et apparitores, ex una parte et ex alia, antequam de cetero exerceant sua officia, corporale iuramentum prestabunt, quod fideliter sua officia exercebunt, sine fraude et preiudicio dictarum partium, ac istius nostre composicionis et decreti, ac quod nec odio nec favore cuiuscunque iurisdiccione[m] episcopalis, aut archidiaconalis ampliande quovismodo favebunt delinquentibus, in infligendis penis pro delictis, aut penitenciis imponendis; et in citacionibus et denunciaconibus in iurisdiccione archidiaconali, ubi in correccionibus et causarum cognicionibus locus prevencioni existat, iuramentis apparitorum, sic ut prefertur, iuratorum hinc et inde ac personarum conventarum, super prevencionibus ab una vel altera parcium predictarum pretens[is], de cetero detur fides. [xv c.] Minora crimina adulterio sunt ista: videlicet, fornicacio, prout specialiter intelligitur in illicito coitu viduarum, meretricum, vel concubinarum:

Item stuprum, quod proprie est virginum illicita defloracio:

Item periurium et fidei lesio, in quibus secundum canones minor pena imponitur quam pro adulterio.

Maiores sunt

Heresis, symonia, ydolatria, apostasia, sacrilegia, blasfemie Dei et sanctorum, sortilegium, homicidium, incestus, et voti castitatis fraccio, et generaliter omnia crimina, pro quibus gravior pena imponitur secundum canones, quam pro adulterio.

NOTES ON THE TEXT

Owing to the various unavoidable causes, which have delayed the printing of this volume, there is often a discrepancy between the references to the notes in the text and the notes themselves. (1) Sometimes a reference is given in the text (by a letter of the alphabet) and, when the page and letter are turned up, no note is found. This is due to the fact that, when the text was set up, the Editor still hoped to be able to say something about the person or thing referred to but was afterwards disappointed. Nevertheless the "aching void" is left, in case those into whose hands the volume falls may in time to come be able to supply some information for themselves. (2) Sometimes on the other hand no reference is given in the text and yet a note will be found on something of interest, which was discovered or elucidated by further research. (3) Many of the notes that are given are of a very inconclusive or meagre character but, considering the unusually difficult problems of various kinds that the text presents, it seemed worth while to make suggestions as to their explanation (however scanty or uncertain) which might afterwards be followed up.

In the Preface an attempt has been made properly to acknowledge the help which has been received from the many friends and correspondents who have been consulted. But it seemed necessary to precede the notes with these remarks in order to warn readers from the outset against expecting anything like complete information in them.

p. 1. (a) Francis Blomefield of Gonville and Caius published Collectanea Cantabrigiensia, 1750. His extracts from our MS. "are among the Gough MSS. in the Bodleian" (Dr James). He also published a History of Norfolk (continued by Parkin).

(b) Rolandus Tayler. It is possible, though hardly probable, that this man (xv c.) was a relation of the "Hadleigh Martyr" of that name († 1555): for he was a Northumbrian (ordained at Norwich 1528), though he was LL.D. of Cambridge 1534, advocate 1539, Principal of Borden Hall 1531 : see Cooper, Ath. Cant., i, 123.

p. 2. (a) Thomas Hamond of Waddon. This is an old county family. Rye, Cambs. Fines, p. 122, gives "Roger H. of Meldeburne and Matilda his wife" in 1369 (Melbourne being near Whaddon), and "Thomas H. and Matilda his wife in Berklove and Magna Abyngton" in 1397, p. 140, and it may be noted that there were Hamonds in that neighbourhood, viz. at Pampisford, till the end of the 19th century.

(b) An indiction was a period of 15 years instituted as a means of reckoning time by Constantine the Great, Jan. 1, 313. See further below, p. 268.

(c) Richard Kyllingworth (see also p. 7 (a) below). The name seems associated in the MS. with the year 1455. It was a prominent Cambridge name, e.g. in 1446 (see Cooper, Annals, i, 197).

(d) Demonium. Perhaps a reference to some exorcism which had recently occurred (at Kimbolton).

(e) Nicholas I, mentioned twice here and again three times on pp. 6 and 7 below, was pope 1447-55. (The date here and twice there is wrongly given.) His family name was Tommaso Parentucelli of Sarzana. He was called the Apostle of Learning and founded the Vatican Library. He first conceived the idea of enlarging the Vatican Palace and of turning S. Peter's into the most splendid church of Christendom, though Julius II carried it out 50 years later.

(f) Lumley. I can throw no light on this entry, unless the reference be to some ancestor of that well-known Lord Lumley († 1609), whose library first became part of the Royal Library and then by the munificence of George II was given to the nation : see Cooper (Ath. Cant., ii, 516).

p. 3. (a) M[agister] R. Makrell. He is mentioned Rot. Hund., ii, 409. One Agnes M. was outlawed for theft in 1286 (Cooper, Annals, i, 61).

(b) Very little elucidation of this very curious (late xv c.) fragment referring to indulgences has come to me. Canon Chr. Wordsworth has been consulted and, though he has as freely as ever opened his stores of knowledge, and put them at my disposal, it is evident that he also is puzzled. Several references to the Brit. Mus. MS. Harl. 955, &c., which he gave me did not yield the results he thought possible. He cannot at all identify the particular indulgence referred to. To begin with the length of the grant is unusual even for those of later date (36 years, 140 days); and the summa indulgentiarum (1064037¹ years, 5497 lents, 80 days) points to even more extravagant lengths still. "The reference to Salisbury in the opening sentence," he says, "perplexes me. In my published list of 160 Pardons or Indulgences connected with Salisbury or other places in Wilts. circ. 1165-1536, they are usually of modest pretensions, 13 or 30 or 40 or 100 days relaxation of penance enjoined...both in the Missal and in the Breviary. It is the Sarum Primer or Horae B.V. Mariae where the rubrics speak of lavish grants of pardon, as in some editions the title-page declares. Here are instances :

(1) 'These iij prayers (Dñe Jesu Christe, &c.) be written in the chapel of the holy cross in Rome otherwise called sacellum sancte crucis septem romanorum. Who that devoutly saith them shall obtain xc.M. (= 1,000,000) years of pardon for deadly sins granted of our holy father Jhon XXII, pope of Rome (circ. 1316).' (See Hoskins, Primers, p. 127.)

(2) 'Sixtus IV (circ. 1480). At the ave bell, three times a day the sum of the indulgence and pardon for every ave Maria viij hundred days and lx totiens quotiens (amount presumably 7740 days)' (ibid. p. 126).

(3) 'He that devoutly beholdeth these arms of our Lord... shall have 6000 years of pardon of S. Peter the first pope of Rome and of thirty other popes...successors after him; and John XXII hath granted...3000 years of pardon for deadly and other 3000 for venial sins' (ibid. p. 127).

(4) 'Pope Benedict XII (circ. 1335) made this prayer (gratias ago) and gave to all that devoutly sayeth it as many years of pardon as our Lord had wounds that is viMviCLxvi' (p. 152).

(5) 'Image of Pity (circ. 1437) xxxij MDCCLV years which indulgence Sixtus IV doubled (= 65,510)' (p. 112).

Nevertheless in the 15th century the ordinary offer of pardon was more moderate :

'Ye shall understond that it is granted to all here beyng present at this tyme able to receve pardon viij yere xlj dayes beside the indulgences of old tyme graunted, which is xi yer' iij score & xv dayes. Summa totalis xix yer' cccxvj dayes' (Salisbury Ceremonies, &c., p. 41).

It may be added that according to J. C. Robertson (Hist. of Christ. Ch., vi, 265) the Latin patriarchs of Constantinople and Antioch and upwards of 500 bishops were present at the 2nd Council of Lyons, 1274: (ibid. vii, 253) 22 cardinals, 4 titular patriarchs (one of them of Antioch), the bishop of Salisbury, &c., were present at the Council of Pisa, 1409: and again (vii, 346) the same 2 patriarchs as are here mentioned, at the Council of Constance, 1414."

(c) ad sanctum Jacobum in Galicia, sc. pardons granted to pilgrims to the famous shrine of S. James of Compostella in Spain.

What the two places mentioned in the next line of the text are is quite uncertain. Canon Wordsworth suggests that possibly scala celi in the church of Sancta Maria in ara celi on the Capitol at Rome is one, and either S. John Lateran or else S. Mary's chapel in S. Botolph's, Boston, Lincs., was the other. Cf. Dr Wordsworth's Ecel. Biog., II, 228 and 485.

(d) Bonifacius [papa]. Which this was, we have no clue to. Canon Wordsworth can only refer me to J. C. Robertson, op. cit., vii, 483: "Boniface IX proposed to extend the benefits of the Jubilee (of 1390: he decreed another in 1400) to those who, instead of going to Rome in person, should visit certain churches in their own neighbourhood, e.g. at Monaco in 1392, and should pay into the papal treasury the sum which a Roman pilgrimage would have cost them." Boniface VIII had also decreed a Jubilee in 1300, and my coadjutor Mr Minns after an independent search was induced to think the reference in the text was to his "Extravagans." See below p. 191 and note thereon.

(e) O utinam, etc. Ovid, Heroides, I, 5 (Penelope Ulyxi): the second line is obrutus insanis esset adulter aquis.

p. 4. (a) This *ordinacio*¹ by which John de Se. endowed masses to be said daily for his wife Sibilla in the chapel of S. Mary of Badburham (Babraham) by John David and his successors in perpetuity belongs to the period 1257-1286, when Hugo de Balsham was bishop of Ely. Two similar documents of nearly the same date are likewise copied into this book, on pp. 179 ff. (of the MS.) the constitutio of S. Stephen's chapel (called Grendon) at Shelforth magna (Great Shelford) between 1249 and 1266, and on pp. 209 ff. the nota de capella de Hyston for S. Mary's altar in S. Andrew's church between 1270 and 1288. The weekly scheme of masses in these chantries is given in each case: for the two latter they are normal, but at Badburham the scheme has one unusual element.

	B	S	H
On Sundays	de die	de die	de die
„ Mondays	pro defunctis	requiem	requiem
„ Tuesdays	de s̃o Eustachio ante crucifixum	de s̃o Stephano	requiem
„ Wednesdays	pro defunctis	requiem	requiem
„ Thursdays	de s̃o Spiritu	de s̃o Spiritu	de s̃o Spiritu
„ Fridays	de cruce	de cruce	de s̃a cruce
„ Saturdays	de s̃a Maria	de beatissima Maria	de gloriosa Virgine Maria

In all three provision is made for the occurrence of a Saint's day during the week (viz. fiat servicium de sancto pro animabus predictis). But the curious point at Badburham is that on Tuesday the missa de sancto Eustachio is to be used ante crucifixum (i.e. before the Rood). This Saint used to be commemorated on Nov. 2, until the commemoratio animarum (All Souls' day) instituted among the Cluniac monks in the xith cent. became more and more general throughout the West and at last ousted S. Eustace, and his feast was transferred to Sept. 20. The missa on Tuesdays at Great Shelford is for S. Stephen, because that was the dedication of the chapel, but at Badburham it was the Lady chapel that was to be used. S. Eustace was specially associated with hunting, and John de Scaleriis may on that score have had a penchant for him. But in some medieval Kalendars both S. Eustace and commemoratio animarum are assigned to Nov. 2, and I have wondered whether that fact in any way accounts for the selection here. There is however always a vast and apparently capricious variety in these chantry schemes: see Chr. Wordsworth's App. III to Tracts of Clement Maydeston (H. B. S., vol. VII), pp. 159 ff.

(b) John de Scaleriis. Aaron of York brought an action against him (Stokes, Studies in Anglo-Jewish Hist., p. 157): see Rot. Hund. II, 382, 509, etc. One of that name occurs in Rye, Cambs Fines, with Alice his wife at Cheveley in 1267/8, and again (without wife) at Dullingham in 1271/2 (pp. 42 and 45). If this is the founder of the B. chantry in memory of his wife Sibilla, he had apparently married again by 1267, and the foundation probably dates before that year.

(c) Johannem David, evidently the capellanus of the chantry, but the surname is a strange one for a cleric at that date.

(d) Henry, prior of Anglesey, is mentioned in a document printed at length by Stokes, Outside Trumington Gates, C. A. S. (no XLIV), p. 11. His name does not appear in Rye, Combs. Fines, but we have William as prior in 1253 (p. 35), Hugh in 1262 (p. 41), John in 1272 and 1273 (pp. 47, 48). These data seem to fix his period of office between 1262 and 1272 and thus, in combination with what is mentioned in note b above, they confine the date of this document between 1262 and 1267. Anglesey was a cell of Augustinian canons founded by Henry I (?). See also pp. 19, 46, 48 and 184.

p. 5. (a) cruce signatorum = persons who had taken the Cross for the Holy Land, Crusaders. The same phrase occurs on pp. 169 and 201, as also does the one above, tam christianos quam indeos. With regard to the Jews, as they were then the King's special property, debts to them were exacted by direct royal powers. For Jews in Cambridge see Stokes, op. cit. chaps. iv, v, vi and vij and Cooper, Annals, I, pp. 17 and 49. In 1266 Sir John Deyville attacked the town with a band of outlaws, captured many Jews and exacted high ransoms: in 1290 they were banished from the country. See the entry against Aug. 13 in the Kalendar (p. 158).

(b) Hugo de Balsham, Bp of Ely 1257–1286, founder of Peterhouse 1284. His name recurs (pp. 20 ff.) as the author of the ordinance about the Master of Glomery (q.v.).

p. 6. (a) Erpense, etc. There is a copy of this document in the Novus Liber Archid. Elien. There was a Benedictine priory at Swavesey founded by Alan de Zouch (temp. Will. I) dedicated to S. Andrew and attached to the house of S. Sergius of Angers: it was afterwards transferred to the Charterhouse at Coventry. See p. 140 a. Cf. Bishop's Register, E. D. R. 1901, p. 97.

(b) Candilmess = The Feast of the Purification of B.V.M. (Feb. 2).

(c) Exaltacion of y^e holy crosse = Sept. 14.

(d) a Mays' = a measure.

(e) Almes || almose in Novus Liber: so it is spelt in the First Prayer-book of Edward VI (1549). (Greek ἐλεημοσύνη.)

(f) Maric' = marshland.

(g) y^e Collector of Brytonnesses, i.e. the steward of (Zouche of) Brittany's manor (Brytenness in Novus Liber).

(h) sene = synod (seine in Novus Liber).

(i) mese = tenement.

(j) Crose (Crosse in Novus Liber)? = at the cross roads or at the village cross.

(k) Nicholai. See above p. 2 e.

(l) Johannes Townen of the Hospital of S. John. See Grace Book A, p. 10, where he appears as Auditor. He was incorporated at Oxford in 1451 (Anstey, p. 730). This probably refers to the establishment of Augustinian canons at Cambridge that bore that name, not to the house at Ely (see p. 257).

p. 7. (a) Kelynnworth. See above p. 2 c.

(b) Feast of S. Tecla (virgin) = Sept. 23. The indictions under the Empire at first changed on Sept. 1st, later on the first day of the year (whether Dec. 25, Jan. 1 or March 25), but apparently from the time of Bede onwards Sept. 24 (in crastino die sancte Tecele on next page) was adopted as the day for the change by the papal chancery, see Indiction in Dict. of Xtian Antiqp., vol. 1, p. 833 f.

(c) John Flynt. One of this name and Amabilia his wife are mentioned at Elm in 1298 (Rye, Cambs. Fines, p. 66): see Cooper, Annals 1, p. 177.

(d) This dates from 1268, in which year Othobon, Cardinal Deacon of S. Adrian, presided over a council at London: it must not be confused with the earlier decree of Cardinal Otho in 1237. It was ordered to be read by Archdeacons at their visitations, as the clause states which we have printed in full (p. 16 of MS.).

(e) articuli cleri. In 1352 Archbp Islip put forth articuli clero concessi in the form of a statute enacted by the King with the consent of Parliament. They are given in Wilkins Concil. III, 25, and relate almost entirely to questions of presentation to benefices by the King and privileges of clergy in respect of trial before secular judges (see Lathbury Hist. of Convoc., p. 86 n.), but neither Islip's exordium (in Latin) nor the King's opening sentences (in Norman French) tally with the sentences here given.

(f) Pius II was Pope 1458-1468. He was of course the famous Aeneas Sylvius Piccolomini.

(g) Callistus III was Pope 1455-1458. He was Alfonso Borgia.

p. 8. (a) The hospital of S. Thomas de Acon was founded in London by Becket's sister Agnes in 1191. The Mercer's chapel in Cheapside now stands on the site. The name "Acon" is usually thought to mean the town of Acre, which was taken by the Crusaders about the same time and in which there was also a hospital dedicated to S. Thomas of Canterbury: others think it may have referred to an oak tree with its acorns which grew near. See Loftie, Hist. of London, i, pp. 113 f.; also Besant's Medieval London, i, pp. 7 and 277, ii, 263-267, and Newcourt's Repertorium.

(b) Pii pape secundi. See above p. 7 f.; also for sancte Tecele, see p. 7 b.

p. 9. (a) de Burgh. This family founded in 1415 a chantry on the S. side of the chancel at Borough Green, now demolished: some of their monuments are still in the N. wall of chancel (Evelyn White Churches of Cambs., p. 11; E. D. R., 1902, p. 181). For John de Borw, see p. 53 a.

(b) M. Jo. Combe. See Grace Book A, p. 88. A Master of this name resigned the living of Stapleford, 1461 (Bp's Reg.).

(c) M. Ric. Sokburn (or Stockburn) of York diocese, Bach. of Civil Law 1466, LL.B. 1470, M.A. 1472; Vicar of Soham 1478; presented by the chapter of Ely to the Church of S. Mary de Bergham (diocese of Norwich) in 1487, being then Doctor of Laws or Decretals; afterwards presented to Sudburn with the chapel of Orford in Suffolk. He was a benefactor to his college (Pembroke) and in his will appointed the Fellows to pray for him for one year. He died in 1502. [Communicated by my friend, Rev. J. Cyprian Rust of Soham.]

(d) [Statuta Synodalia.] These are the Statuta Synodalia for the diocese (presumed to be Hugo de Balsham's), copies of which were found in a considerable number of the churches in the arch-deaconry at visitations, as recorded in this MS. They were drawn up for the guidance of the parish clergy and were based on previous provincial and legatine decisions of the 13th century¹. They are naturally on very similar lines to those of other bishops of the 13th century and onwards. In particular Mr Minns, who has devoted considerable labour to examining and comparing them with contemporary documents, concludes that they are closely modelled on or allied to those of Walter de Suffield (alias Calthorpe), Bishop

¹ These may roughly be summarised as follows: Archbishop Langton at Oxford (1222) promulgated his constitutions incorporating the decrees of the 4th Lateran Council (1215): these were followed by Otho's (1237) and by Othobon's (1268); and in 1281 at Lambeth Archbishop Peckham confirmed the last named. An Oxford jurist, John of Aytoun (temp. Edw. III), annotated Otho and Othobon, and Lyndwood's Provinciale usually contains them.

(p. 9 contd) of Norwich (1244-1257). Wilkins Concilia, I, 732 f., gives these as added to by his successor, Simon de Watton (1257-1267), but the coincidences are confined to the first half of the Norwich Statutes. The order of the provisions is not always the same but otherwise the Norwich Statutes account for a considerable proportion of our MS. down to nearly the end of its p. 35. One or two things are in other Statutes, e.g. Langton's, Otho's, William de Kirkham's, bp of Durham (1240-1260), and Walter de Cantelupe's, bp of Worcester (1237-1266). As to the Councils mentioned on p. 37 of MS. there seems no such identity of language as suggests actual copying of their canons, though of course the things forbidden are often the same¹.

I give a summary of contents, indicating the possible sources or parallels in the documents I have mentioned.

(1) Parish priests are to know and teach (a) the decalogue, (b) the seven deadly sins, (c) the seven sacraments, (d) the contents of the creeds, the greater and the less, i.e. the Nicene and the Apostles': to this the Norwich Statutes (indicated by N² henceforth) add Quicumque vult.

This section is found in N (Wilkins, I, 731).

(2) The Archdeacon or his official is to see that each priest knows these things before admitting him to the cure of souls.

(3) Priests are to move people to contrition when hearing confessions and to be careful in granting absolution.

(4) No one from another diocese (alienus) is to be admitted without full inquiries as to his orders and character. (2), (3), (4) are not in N.

(5) Priests are to give frequent instructions about Baptism.

This canon is nearly as found in Otho, p. 11. (Not in N.)

(6) S. Etheldred is to be daily commemorated throughout the diocese. (Not in N.)

(7) The people are to be taught to bow reverently to the Host at Mass and in the street, and the Priest himself is in all respects to treat the Host with reverence, using a light and bell, etc. (Differently expressed in N.)

(8) The holy Oils and the Host are to be kept under lock and

¹ Also it is not quite clear which Council of Lyons (or London) is referred to: that of the Lateran is of course the Fourth. There were two Councils of Lyons, 1245 and 1274.

p. 9 contd) key in Church; and the latter is not to become discoloured or sour, nor yet the unconsecrated wine.

The first part of this is in N (Wilkins, p. 732), and the latter part in W. de Cantelupe of Worcester (Wilkins, p. 667).

(9) Priests are to be always ready to visit the sick and dying by night and day for confession, communion or unction. (In N, p. 732.)

(10) The Canon of the Mass is to be in a correct text. (Not in N.)

(11) The supercaltare is to be of the right size, firmly fixt and not used for mixing colours on or other wrong purposes. (In N.)

(12) The panni crismales and other utensilia are not to be used for secular purposes. (In N, but shorter.)

(13) The Divine office is to be said in full and distinctly. (In N.)

(14) The children are to be taught the Lord's Prayer, the Creed, Ave Maria and how to cross themselves. Adults also must be kept up to their duty in these matters. (In N.)

(15) Those who hold benefices must be at least in Minor Orders and their "vicars" in full orders and resident. Rectors also ought to be resident save for good cause. (In N, but language slightly different in the two latter clauses and the first clause in another part of the document.)

The explanation of this provision is of course that incumbents were often only in Minor Orders and even sometimes "infants," and therefore required parish chaplains (here called sacerdotes parochiales) to perform their spiritual duties for them (see Cutts, Parish Priests, pp. 324 ff.). Consequent abuses of this custom are dealt with in what follows.

(16) The clergy must avoid drunkenness, the frequenting of taverns, secular business, usury and the bearing of arms. They are to have the tonsure and dress suitably to their calling, not only when they go out but when present at the Divine office. (The former part in N, but not the last two sentences.)

(17) In every church, if possible, there should be one deacon and one sub-deacon resident or available; or at least one clerk to assist the priest in suitable garb. (In N.)

(18) Business must not be transacted in holy places, nor games, etc., especially if bloodshed is involved. (In N.)

(19) Graveyards must be well enclosed and all buildings pertaining to the Church in good order. (In N.)

(p. 9 contd) (20) The books, vessels, vestments, etc., of the Church must be well cared for and under proper custody. (In N.)

(21) Funds left for maintaining lights, etc., must not be diverted to the personal use of the clergy. (In N, without last five words.)

(22) Mothers and nurses to be warned not to overlay infants. (In N, without last seven words.)

(23) Secret marriages forbidden. (In N.)

(24) Likewise Scothales (in W. de Kirkham of Durham, Wilkins, p. 707). See further note on these, p. 220.

(25) At the annual visit to the mother Church the parishioners are not to march with banners in rivalry of one another. (Not in N.)

(26) Priests are not to extort fees for confessions or other sacraments.

(27) They must not allow deacons to hear confessions.

(The provisions in N are much similar to (26) and (27) but at greater length.)

In accordance with the decisions of the Council of Oxford (1222):

(28) False witness, malice and bribery are prohibited in matrimonial causes or in questions of inheritance, etc.

(29) Sentences of excommunication are not to be neglected.

(These two sections come straight from Stephen Langton's Constitutions as given by Lyndwood, Provinciale, p. 1.)

(30) Banns of marriage to be required, and also the presence of a Priest at all nuptials. Breach of this to be punished by fustigacio.

Then, re-enacting the provisions of the Fourth Lateran Council and those of Lyons (or London), (31) Further regulations of the dress of the clergy are given.

(32) At Mass two candles are to be alight or at least one with one lamp.

(33) The seal of confession to be strictly observed.

(34) No monk or canon regular to live outside his convent alone.

Lastly come further regulations de religiosis, which are to be read twice a year together with the constitutions of Othobon and others.

(35) No monk or nun is to hold property of his or her own (cf. Othobon T. T. 40).

(36) Religious persons who need medical treatment must be in

p. 9 contd) the infirmary not in their cells, unless the abbot or prior shall direct otherwise.

(37) They shall ordinarily sleep together in the dormitory and eat in the refectory. St. Langton, p. 3, Lynd. Lib. iii, 19.

(38) Obedience shall not of necessity be for life but may be rescinded at the Superior's discretion.

Such of the above regulations as refer to books and other church possessions will often be shown to have been put in operation, as one studies the inventories on pp. 30 ff. that follow.

(c) tam maiori quam minori. See above p. 246.

p. 10. (a) iuxta constitutionem b. Greg. This form comes from Othobon, cap. 2: "Omnes qui confessiones audiunt aliquorum, a peccatis expresse confitentes absolvant, verba subscripta specialiter exprimentes: ego te absolvo a peccatis tuis, etc. auctoritate qua fungor te absolvo." The point of it is in the use of the indicative instead of the declaratory or precatory form, which had hitherto been as a rule in favour (see Martène lib. i, cap. vi, art. v, § xii). But the claim of S. Gregory's authority for it is hardly historical.

(b) sit candor, etc. Wisd. vii, 26. For an interesting but different application of this quotation see Cutts, Parish Priests, p. 432.

p. 11. (a) superaltaria. The mensa, as we now mostly call it, was then apparently often moveable¹ and sometimes taken (? during repairs in the Church) for very undesirable purposes.

(b) non molantur super ea colores. Cutts (op. cit., p. 284) quotes from an inquiry made in 1253 to the same effect.

(c) rectores ecclesiarum. See above p. 217.

p. 12. (a) mutuum dent, etc. S. Luke vi, 35.

(b) coronam et tonsuram, i.e. the Roman coronal tonsure (see Dict. of Xian Antiq. s.v. Tonsure).

(c) scactalis = checked: the word again occurs in a similar phrase on p. 57, de sandalo scaricato de viridi et rubio which tallies with what we gather from Ducange (quadris diversi coloris distinctus): he too quotes the word (in various spellings) in connexion with red and green shoes. Probably a[ut] here should be et. Cutts (op. cit., pp. 169 f.) gives two instances of clerks with red shoes.

(d) cappis clausis. The surplice was a later developement of the alb, made fuller so as to go more comfortably over the fur-lined tunic (hence derivation). The cappa was a large overcovering vestment used in procession and in choir and could be fastened up in front (clausa). Cutts, op. cit., pp. 193 f.

(e) de templo, etc. S. Luke xix, 45, 46.

(f) Scotthales, often called "Church ales," because held in or in connection with the Parish Church: "scot" here has the meaning "payment, especially a contribution to a common fund into which it is shot" (Skeat). These parish revels were continued even until the Canons of 1603 were issued: for Canon lxxxviii forbids "Plays, Feasts, Banquets, Suppers, Church Ales, &c.....to be kept in the Church, Chapel or Churchyard." They were no doubt liable to abuse, though their original purpose was an innocent and even desirable one (see Cutts op. cit., pp. 316 ff.).

p. 13. (a) cum v. cillis suis. There was usually an annual visit from the chapelries of a parish to the mother church (also from the parishes of a diocese to the cathedral, if possible) when the people walked with banners flying. This is not forbidden here; only precautions are to be taken against unseemly rivalries and scuffles for precedence, etc. (see Cutts, op. cit., pp. 121 f. and 310 f.).

(b) Oxonienſis concilii. See above, p. 215 footnote.

p. 14. (a) statutum conciliorum. See above, p. 215 footnote.

(b) cappis manucatis et præcipue haregotis, manucatis = with sleeves. Cutts (op. cit., p. 169) gives two pictures of clergy from a S. Alban's MS. which seem to show gowns (togæ) of this kind. haregotis: Ducange quotes haregotis as vestis species.

(c) transfiguratis - glorified, resplendent? Ducange quotes transfiguratus in vestibus = disguised in dress.

(d) due candele ... lampade. Two candles on the Altar at Mass were not usual till the 13th century; previously one (if any) had been more usual. Lights above or around or before the Altar (especially on the Rood) had from early times been used. The lamp here mentioned perhaps was the one on the Rood (see articles Candlesticks and Lights in Prayer-book Dictionary).

p. 15. (a) constit....Othoboni. See above, p. 215 footnote.

(b) minucio = blood-letting.

p. 16. (a) Houres. There was formerly a free chapel of S. James in this ancient hamlet, which was about a mile from Gorton church. It was connected with Ramsey abbey. (See Lysons' Camb., p. 44; Evelyn White, Churches of Cambs., p. 82; and Babington, Anc. Cambs., C. A. S. publis, 1883, pp. 35 and 40.)

‘Indulgences for three years to S. James’s chapel, Hows in par. of Gyrtton’ (Bp Reg. 1463/4).

est dies synodi, etc. Cf. Const. Synod. Odonis episcopi Paris. 1198 (Harduin Concil. vi, p. 1937):

“Fit Iovis in luce synodus quae proxima Laec lux Iovis hac replicat tertia Pascha sequens.”

(b) These verses are obviously one of those attacks on the various orders of friars, with which we are familiar elsewhere, but it is almost impossible to get much sense out of them and I have failed to trace them to an older source. They are therefore probably “original,” though they hardly redound to the author’s credit.

(c) The reference is to 1 Thess. iv, 13 (or 11 Cor. i, 8). The phrase does not occur in Ephesians.

p. 17. (a) mirabile misterium. The only light that comes to me on these two paragraphs is that vi Kal. Apr. is in old Kalendars often noted as the (traditional) First Easter, and viii Kal. Apr. as the First Good Friday, but why the Kalends of Aug. (= S. Peter’s Chains), iii Kal. Feb. and iii Kal. Dec. enter into the “wonderful mystery” I cannot think. Inciderit here stands for occiderit = “kill.” Hampson (Medii Aevi Kal. pp. 107 f.) quotes a passage from Bede (Op. i, p. 467) which contains somewhat similar information, if such it can be called, but he too vouchsafes no explanation of the mystery: see also East Anglian, n. s., xi, pp. 312 f.

(b) R. de Fodringheg. See Exeкурс A, p. 286.

(c) ascripticios (sc. glebae) = serfs or villeins. See Ducange, s.v.

(d) Nicholai de Tyngewico medicus.

p. 18. (a) Littera, etc. It will be noticed that, in the present arrangement of the leaves of the MS., this letter and the short document that follows together with the former portion of the dieta in visitatione had become widely separated from the latter portion (see Introduction, p. xxix). Our present restoration enables the reader to have an unbroken conspectus of the arrangements made for the Archbishop’s visitation of the diocese of Ely in 1277.

(b) Frater Robertus. This was Archbp R. Kilwardby, a Dominican (hence frater) (1273–1279).

p. 19. (a) perhendinabit = “take a day off and rest” (lit. “put off till the day after to-morrow”): see Ducange, s.v. Does the thrice repeated “per clericos” mean that the parish clerks attended instead of the incumbents themselves? or that the Abp sent his clerks as deputies?

p. 20. (a) For the Master of Glomery see Excursus B, pp. 289 ff.

(b) Hugo de Balsham See p. 213.

(c) glomerellos = grammar boys. So also at Bury S. Edmunds in the school founded by Abbot Samson, where the Magister scolarium had somewhat similar rights to the Master of Glomery. See Rashdall, Hist. of Med. Univ., II, p. 555, n. 3. He quotes the French form "glomeriaus" from a poem II, p. 138. For the derivation see Excursus B.

(d) domorum...taxatarum. See Rashdall, op. cit., II, p. 399. "The taxation of Halls by a joint board of burgesses and Masters is a custom which was established from the earliest times in all mediaeval Studia": cf. ibid., p. 467.

p. 21. (a) stacionariis = keepers of stalls for books on hire, or possibly men who undertook to write letters for the illiterate. For an interesting account of the various tradesmen, here mentioned, at Paris see again Rashdall, op. cit., I, pp. 415 ff.

p. 22. (a) a latere studere etc. This seems to mean "at the same time" (a latere, side by side) "to study and attend classes (or schools)." But perhaps a latere = ἐκ παρέρργου (secondarily) as opposed to principaliter.

(b) ingressus sit. The reader will find light thrown on these regulations in Rashdall, op. cit., II, pp. 605 ff.

p. 23. (a) Downham (mod. Downham in the Isle). Remains of the Bishop's palace afterwards built here by Bp Alcock still stand.

p. 24. For Advocates and Proctors see Introduction p. xix.

(a) Mag. Adam Elyot was imprisoned by the University authorities in 1293 and liberated by the town (Cooper, Annals, I, p. 67). He had a stone house in S. Andrew's parish, Camb. in 1295 (Clark, Memoranda of Barnwell, p. 286), and land in Barnwell fields (Stokes, Outside Barnwell Gate, pp. 11 f.).

(b) Mag. Rob. de Will. de Abiton. "Robt. fil. Rich. de Abiton" in Fulbourn (Cambs. Fines, p. 36) in 1255: "Will. de Abiton" (p. 43) in 1271-2.

(c) Mag. Joh. de Selford held a messuage in S. Sepulchre's parish, Camb. in 1295 (Clark, op. cit., p. 285).

(d) Mag. Henr. de Trippelowe is mentioned three times in Cambs. Fines, viz. in 1325 (p. 93), in 1329 (p. 95) and in 1330 (p. 96): see also A. Gray, Priory of S. Radegund.

(e) Mag. Will. de Warewik. "W. de Warewyk and Alice his wife" in Burgh and Dullingham in 1300 (Cambs. Fines, p. 66); again in Brinkley in 1313 (p. 80). It may be only a coincidence that the Earls of Warwick owned the manor and advowson of Whittlesford at this time (see p. 67).

(f) Mag. Robt. de Cotenham. Thomas de C. in Camb. in 1274 (Camb. Fines, p. 49).

(g) Mag. Joh. Laurence is mentioned in connexion with Fulbourn in 1325 (Camb. Fines, p. 93) and Wm L. in 1327 (p. 94).

p. 25. (a) Mepham. Simon Mepham (Archbp of Cant., 1328–1333) issued his constitution Ad eo quorundam in 1328: the section item quia locorum is given by Lyndewode (lib. 3, tit. 13). For the inventarium and another portion of the section see below, p. 161.

(b) Mag. Johu Grays (or Grey) was rector of Balsham 1316, probably till 1363: on two occasions he had licence of absence, the second time for two years (Bp's Reg.).

(c) W. De cap. See p. 174 note.

(d) apud seghall. This was a building near the town bridge (still standing a few years ago): sedge used to be stored in it: see Cantabrigia Depicta (1763), p. 16, "sedge with which the Bakers heat their ovens, 4 shillings per hundred sheaves." John de la Seghalle had land in S. Clement's parish (circ. 1465): see Gray, Priory of S. Rad., p. 123.

(e) Pygocote, a hamlet in Tadlow (see below, p. 101 a).

p. 26. qui facit incestum, etc. These lines are printed with small variations in Sarum Brev. (Paris, 1499) after the Common of Saints: cf. Odo of Paris, Synod., 1198 (Harduin, Concil., vi, col. 943).

(a) de capellis. The documents founding three of these are on pp. 4 ff., 168 ff. and 198 ff. (viz. Badburham, Gt Shelford and Histon). At Long Stanton All Saints' there was also a chapel called "Cheynes," afterwards taken over by the Hattons (Evelyn White, op. cit., p. 126), but the latter part of this list does not seem to refer to chantries but only to appropriated parish churches.

(b) Philip de Colville of Cambridge, son of Henry de C. of Oxford, had dealings with Jews, etc. (Stokes, Studies in Angl. Jewish Hist., pp. 154 f.), see also pp. 209 ff. of MS.; mentioned in 1272 (Camb. Fines, p. 47), in 1280 (p. 52) and in 1287 (p. 58). His father's name also occurs six times in the same book. See Rot. Hund., ii, 364, 513, etc.

(c) W. de Mortuo Mari (= Mortimer). This family were lords of the manor of Kingston (see e.g. Camb. Fines, pp. 101 f.); see note a on p. 125 below.

(d) Trompstone, appropriated to the Priory of Haliwell in 1344 (see below, p. 91 b).

(e) Wygham, appropriated to the Monks of Ely by Bishop Northwold (1229-54) for the use of the Chamberlain (Bentham, Hist. of Ely Cathedral, p. 128). (See below, p. 146.)

(f) Gransete, appropriated to S. Benet's College about 1379 (see below, p. 99 d).

p. 27. (a) Sentencia generalis. Various forms of this excommunication were issued, based upon the Constitution of Stephen Langton at the Council of Oxford, 1222. The sentence was to be read to the people as a rule four times a year, here only three times. It seems generally to have been delivered in an English translation (see Wordsworth, Salisbury Processions, pp. 44 ff.). We have a reminiscence of this custom in the "general sentences" at the Communion on Ash Wednesday in our B.C.P.

(b) falsarios et tonsores = forgers and clippers of the coinage.

p. 28. (a) Amen dico, etc. S. Matth. xxiv, 47. Above Psalmus: Deus ultionum is the 94th. For the couplet which follows about the change of indiction see note b on p. 7.

p. 29. (a) cantaria sci Nicholai. Wm de Lolworth of Cambridge, clerk, founded a chantry in 1323 at S. Clement's with two chaplains, who were to celebrate Divine Service daily at S. Nicholas's altar. This foundation was afterwards augmented by Wm de Horwode (Cooper, Mems., III, p. 263). The latter was a benefactor to Corpus Christi College and there was some connexion between that college and a chantry at S. Clement's (see Masters, History of C. C. C., pp. 12, 24 and App.). When S. Catherine's Hall was founded in 1473 by Woodlark, he purchased property which belonged to a chantry of SS. Mary and Nicholas in this church (Willis and Clark, II, pp. 71 f.) and this looks as if the cantaria see Marie here mentioned was perhaps served by one of Lolworth's two chaplains. In 1402 the nuns of S. Radegund gave the vicar of S. Clement's a messuage for the chantry of S. Mary (Gray, op. cit., p. 28) and another of their deeds also mentions this chantry (p. 124). [Dr Stokes is my informant.]

(b) Wm Foster, not given in the list of officials in Hert's supplement to Bentham's Ely p. 34, but that list is meagre.

(c) John Asteley. A knight of this name is mentioned in 1460 (Cumbe Fines, p. 155) who was possibly this man's son or relative.

(d) cantaria see Marie. See note (a) above.

Petri iuxta castrum, the earliest church site in Cambridge, anterior to S. Benet's (Evelyn White, op. cit., p. 37).

Johannes de Rudburne. This may be John Rodbourne, a Preaching Friar, of London, who occurs in Bp's Registers in 1345.

(e) Ric. Tulget, of Camb. in 1316 (Cambs. Fines, p. 109). His son (†) Robert was patron of Childerley Magna in 1349: and Robert Tuillert (perhaps his father) signs a document in 1309 (Stokes, Early Univ. Prop., p. 184). See also Clark (Mem. of Barn., pp. 284 f.) and List of Mayors and Bailiffs (Maitland, Township and Borough, pp. 134 ff.).

(f) Reg. Chaudeler. "John C." at Whittlesford in 1381 (Cambs. Fines, p. 131).

p. 30. (a) All Saints' next the Castle was an earlier church and stood nearer to S. Peter's than "All Saints' in Jewry" (p. 32), the site of which is now marked by a stone cross in the space by the new Divinity School, the new church having been built opposite to Jesus College (1864) (Evelyn White, op. cit., pp. 21 f.).

p. 31. (b) All SS. next Castle. The impropriation dates from the Priorate of Jolan de Thorley, 1254-1264 (Clark, Mem., p. 71: see also Rot. Hundr., II, p. 392, and Cambs. Fines, p. 9).

(c) Walter de Polarik.

(d) u. rorem Joh. But. He was mayor of Cambridge in 1286 (Clark, Mem. of Barn., p. 166) and rented two houses in Camb. (p. 284).

(e) S. Sepulchre. The living belonged to the Prior of Barnwell before 1279 (Rot. Hundr., II, p. 392), so that the addition by E¹ can only be by way of correction, not to indicate a recent alteration.

(f) Roger de Trumpiton, mentioned again as a donor to Girton (p. 81) and to Trumpington itself (p. 91): the latter in a later hand, the former in the same hand as here. He is perhaps the Sir R. de T. († 1289) whose famous brass is still in Trumpington church.

p. 32. (a) monialibus see Rad. This living was given to S. Radegund's by Sturmi of Camb. about 1180, and S. Clement's, which was already theirs (Rot. Hundr., II, 393), was assigned to their Almoner in 1215 (Cambs. Fines, p. 9): see Gray, op. cit., pp. 24 ff. It was a Benedictine nunnery founded 1130, and is now occupied by the College of Jesus founded by Bp Alcock, 1497. Queen Radegund (519-587) was wife to Clothaire I, King of the Franks: she founded a house of nuns at Poitiers. Her life is described by Venantius Fortunatus, who composed the famous hymn veixilla regis in her honour. Her ideas of wifely duty were similar to those of S. Etheldreda (duos mulier frustrata maritos).

p. 33. (b) seolaribus sancti Michaelis. The appropriation dates from 1324 (Cambs. Fines, p. 91), the year when Michaelhouse was founded by Hervey de Stanton (see p. 251). Rashdall, op. cit., II, pp. 562 f.

(c) Robert le Bedel. See Stokes, Esquire Bedells, pp. 53 and 54.

(d) cust. et scol. aule dom. Regis. King's Hall had existed before 1316 but was put on a permanent footing in 1337 by Edward III, and together with Michaelhouse was merged in Trinity College in 1546 by Henry VIII; see Rashdall, op. cit., II, pp. 561 f. The appropriation was effected in 1343

(e) Thomas quondam Bedellus. See Stokes, op. cit., p. 50, Cambs. Fines, p. 48 (in 1273), and Clark, op. cit., p. 287.

Elias de Cryneston. This must be "Elyas de Seeymstone" who held a messuage ad portam ecclie B. Marie (Clark, op. cit., p. 287).

(f) Ric. Batheun in n. was bailiff of Cambridge. His father had a house belonging to the Anglesey abbey at the end of the thirteenth century by the Trumpington gates (Stokes, Outside Trumpington Gates, pp. 3, 6 and 12). Wm Bateman occurs at Harlton on p. 105 below.

(g) Nicholas le Barber, a citizen of considerable repute according to Stokes, Early Univ. Prop., p. 173: mentioned in 1308 (Cambs. Fines, p. 75).

p. 34. (a) S. Johu's, Milastrete, was assigned

(b) to the Almoner of Barnwell (?) in 1216 (Cambs. Fines, p. 11). It belonged to the Priory in Edward I's time (Rot. Hundr., II, p. 393). The church has long ceased to exist. Mill street used to run through King's parallel with the river.

p. 35. (c) Simon de Berton.

p. 34. S. Edward's. Dugdale makes no mention of the appropriation of this church to Barnwell priory and it is not in the list of their livings at the Dissolution, but Rot. Hundr., II, p. 392, includes it among the Cambridge churches claimed by them in Edward I's time.

p. 35. dñs Willielmus vic. Is this "Wm. de Bingham" who was rector here before 1317 and afterwards rector of Horseheath?

(d) Elena de Cotenham: see above, p. 24 f.

p. 34. (f) Canons of Derham. There was a house of Premonstratensian Canons at West Dereham since 1188. Holy Trinity church was given to them by Wm of Yarmouth, a vintner, before the reign of Edward I (Rot. Hundr., II, p. 393; Parkin, Norfolk, VII, p. 331).

p. 35. (g) Matilda de Lyngwe. See below, note, p. 49 d.

p. 36. S. Andrew's was given to the Convent (of Ely) by Absalom, then Rector and Patron of the same, and was soon after appropriated to the Sacrist by Bp Geoffrey de Burgh (1225-9) (Bentham, Hist. of Ely, pp. 127 and 146).

p. 37. (a) W. de Wilberham, probably a member of a Cambridge family, of which several members are mentioned by Stokes, Outside Trumpington Gates, pp. 10, 12, etc.: see also Cambs. Fines (p. 20 etc.).

(b) W. de Thoresby, rector of Thorgranby. One of this name is mentioned as rector of moiety of Cotgrave, co. Notts, whose will was proved June 21, 1347 (Raine, Fasti Ebor., I, p. 450), and another later Wm on same page. "Wm de Thorgranby chaplain" occurs in a Yorkshire Fine in 1336 at Escrick (Yorkshire Fines, p. 106).

(c) in crastino sc̄i Georgii, viz. Ap. 24.

(d) Joh. Rydere. "Wm, son of John le Rydere of Cambridge," is mentioned at Trumpington 1313 (Cambs. Fines, p. 80), and the same surname occurs at Dukesworth (Duxford) two years later (p. 83).

(e) Alani. His name occurs as Rector in Rot. Hundr., II, p. 373, and elsewhere. He was Rector in 1273.

(f) Wm de Stanton, mentioned as parson of S. Benet's, Cambridge, in 1306 (Cambs. Fines, p. 72). "Mast. W. de St." was a brother of S. John's Hospital in 1352 (Stokes, op. cit., p. 21), but this is probably not the same.

(g) John de Bedeford, Rector 1320: there is a "Mag. J. de B." at Steeple Morden in 1305 (Cambs. Fines, p. 70).

(h) John Rayson of Fulbourne, priest, was admitted rector of S. Benet's Dec. 23, 1352, on the presentation of Sir Guy de S. Clare, Henry de Tangmer, Will. de Horwode and Will. de Wyvelingham, patrons, and held the living till his death in 1382. He was one of the first two fellows of Corpus: his seal is given opposite p. 41 of C. A. S. Proceedings, no. LXI, and his gift of a paten to the church on p. 112 (but not this missal); cf. Masters Hist. of C. C. C. ed. Lamb, p. 39.

p. 38. (a) S. Botulph's was appropriated to Barnwell Priory in the time of Eustace, Bp of Ely (1198–1215). The advowson was sold to Lady Pembroke c. 1347 and by her to Corpus 1353, transferred to Queens' 1460.

p. 39. (b) Henricus was instituted 1287: mentioned Rot. Hundr., II, p. 374.

(c) Elena Scherewyut, wife of Reginald Scherewind in 1259 (Cumbs. Fines, p. 38). The man is mentioned as a Cambridge resident in Stokes, Outside Trumpington Gates, pp. 19, 46, 47. Elena Sch. had a shop in the Market-place ubi vendunt lineam telam (Clark, op. cit., p. 288), and held nine acres of land at Barton (ibid., p. 302).

(d) Thomas (de Abyton) was instituted in 1320.

(e) John Gogging. This was another well-known Cambridge family. "John, son of Bartholomew G. of Camb." in 1284 (Cumbs. Fines, p. 56): "John, son of Michael G." (Stokes, Outside Trumpington Gates, p. 47), also "Hervey, son of John Goging" (ibid.). See Rot. Hundr., II, 377, 384.

(f) scol. dom. sancti Petri. S. Peter's church, outside Trumpington Gate, was appropriated to Peterhouse 1284: it fell in 1350 and the present (unfinished) church of S. Mary the Less (or de Gratia) was erected on the site and was used as the college chapel till 1632 (Evelyn White, op. cit., p. 34). Before 1284, it had belonged to the Hospital of S. John, which had its headquarters near S. Sepulchre's Church but possessed two hostels (or offshoots) situated towards the northern end of Trumpington Street, which were afterwards absorbed into Peterhouse. The advowson is said to have been given to the house by Henry Fitz Segar in the reign of Rich. I (1189–99). See Stokes, op. cit., pp. 3 ff.

p. 41. (a) de dono Principis. Prob. the Bp is meant, as he had a house here and the church was his peculiar.

(b) W. Brytwith.

(c) Alan de Ditton. An acolyte of that name appears in 1376 in the Bishop's Registers, and that is not too late for the script (see Introduction, p. xxxvi).

p. 40. (d) Hospital of S. John of Cambridge. This was the house already referred to above (p. 39), a House of Augustinian Canons with seculars and scholars attached. These latter were removed by Bp Hugh de Balsham¹ in 1284 and settled in his new college of Peterhouse (see Rashdall, op. cit., II, 559 f.). Afterwards the present college of S. John the Evangelist took the place of the old Hospital in 1511. Horningsey was appropriated to it by Bishop Eustachius (1193—1214). The exact date is not known (Clay, Horningsey, pp. 32 f., and Baker-Mayor, p. 19).

(e) W. de Horres held land of W. Muschet in Clayhithe in 1279 (Rot. Hundr.), Clay, Horningsey, p. 36.

(f) Steph. Seggn (rector of S. Leonard's, Shoreditch). The Segins seem to have been a Ditton family: members are mentioned in 1245 (Cambs. Fines, p. 27) and in 1313 (p. 80). Alice, widow of Alan Seghyn, of Fen Ditton, temp. Edw. II, mentioned in Gray's Priory of S. Rad., p. 123, and Clay's Horningsey, p. 13.

p. 43. (a) Warini piscatoris. Does "pisc." represent "le Pescur" or "le Pestur" of the Cambs. Fines (pp. 37, 40, 48, 59 and 80)? "John Fysmonger" occurs ibid., p. 27 (in 1245).

(b) armis Francie (also on p. 139) = "fleurs de lys." For another instance of an heraldic device being used as an ecclesiastical decoration see p. 147 of this book: see also Chr. Wordsworth, Notes on Med. Sevc., p. 267.

(c) Thomas rect. of East Hatley. "T. parson of the ch. of Esthattele" in 1348 (Cambs. Fines, p. 111). "Thomas de Alston of Fulbourne" was rector 1344—circ. 1348. For the book he gave and the book mentioned above, tractatus super confessionibus, see Excursus F, p. 300.

p. 42. (d) S. Vigor, Bp of Bayeux, circ. 511—537: commemorated Nov. 1. All SS. stood in the same enclosure with S. Vigor (with a distinct parish) till the steeple fell 1766 and destroyed the rest of the church (Evelyn White, op. cit., p. 77).

p. 43. (e) John de Teneulle. "Adam de T. of Carleton" occurs in 1316 (Cambs. Fines, p. 84).

(f) Will. de E., Preb. of S. Paul's, Baron of Exchequer, chapl. to Edw. III, died 1390. His large brass effigy under a canopy still remains in the chancel (Evelyn White, op. cit., p. 78).

(g) Rad. Grym, rector circ. 1349—91. His tomb is thought to be one of the others still remaining in the church. Others of the name at this time were John G. bailiff of Camb. (Stokes, Outside Tr. Gates, p. 12), Everard G. in 1260 at Hoketon (Cambs. Fines, p. 39), and John G. of Trompiton, priest 1349 (Bp's Reg.), vicar of Impyngton.

p. 44. (a) Sautre (now Sawtrey) in Hunts. There was a Cistercian House here founded by Simon Earl of Northampton in 1146. The date of the appropriation is not given by Dugdale (op. cit., v, p. 522).

p. 45. (b) R. de Filly is mentioned in 1303 at Fulbourne (Cambs. Fines, p. 69).

(c) Rich. Frebern. "Henry and Robert F." at Fulbourne in 1346 (Cambs. Fines, p. 109).

(d) Matildis Wyn. "Walter Wyne" (or "Wyn") is mentioned at Cambridge three times in Cambs. Fines (pp. 59, 63 and 65).

(e) John Hawkston.

(f) Joh. Malebraunche in 1295 represented the scholars of Peterhouse (Stokes, Outside Trump. Gates, p. 28). "Nicholas M. of Wysbech" had licence of oratory at his house in London, 1337 (Bp's Reg.).

p. 46. Stowe. It is somewhat curious that the title of this parish does not include Quy here, as Quy is apparently the earlier name (M. de Quoie mentioned p. 89 below). Stow-cum-Quy was appropriated to Barnwell Abbey in 1457 (Dugdale, Monast., vi, p. 85).

p. 47. (a) R. de Curston. This is the earliest certain reference to a donation in these inventories, as Ralph de W. was Archdeacon 1270-1288 (see p. 286). The script of the entry (C) points to a date about 1304 (see Introduction, p. xxxv). A hundred years later we find "Robert Curson" at Hinxton in 1385.

(b) Thomas de Paerston, rector of Stow in 1340 (Bp's Reg.).

p. 46. (c) S. Ciricus de Swafham Prioris. This Saint was son of S. Julitta the martyr of Antioch (June 16). The church was in the same yard with S. Mary's, which is inventoried next (see Evelyn White, pp. 172 f.). It was appropriated to the Prior of Ely by Bp W. de Kilkenny (1254-7) (Bentham, Ely, p. 149; see also Cambs. Fines, pp. 23 and 39).

p. 47. (d) Hugo. Possibly the same as Hugo Glanville below (p. 49).

p. 46. (e) Prior of Anglesey. This was a cell of Augustinian Canons founded by Henry I. The remains of the house are still to be seen in the parish of Lode. This appropriation and that of Bottisham are not given by Dugdale, but see for this one Cambs. Fines, p. 35 (1253), which may refer to it.

p. 48. (a) appropri. monialibus. This other church of

S. Mary's, Swaffham, was appropriated to the Benedictine nuns eiusdem ville probably in 1190 when they were first settled there. The parish was called S. Bulbeck from a former Norman owner (Skeat, Place-names of Cambs., p. 23).

p. 49. (b) Hugo Glauurile, mentioned as clerk in 1332 at S. Bulbeck (Cambs. Fines, p. 99) and in 1339-40 (Bp's Reg.). Licence of oratory in his house was granted to one of this name in 1347 (Bp's Reg.). The de Glanvilles (or Bulbecks) were the owners of the land.

(c) bona cista. There is, curiously enough, still a "good chest" in the church but of much later, Flemish (?) workmanship, described by Mr Evelyn White, op. cit., pp. 171 f.

(d) Thomas Botk. de Lenn. Possibly the addition of "Botkesham" to this name is a scribe's error. "Eustace fil' Roger de Lenne of Swafham...in Swafham" occurs in 1297 (Cambs. Fines, p. 66): also "John de Len" in Cambridge (p. 64 and p. 71), "Will. de Lenne" (p. 70), and in our own MS. (p. 35) "Matilda de Lynne," and perhaps (p. 147b) "Alice de Linea," all which seems to indicate a family of that name in the neighbourhood.

p. 48. Boteksham, ? appropriated to the Prior of Anglesey in 1218 (Cambs. Fines, p. 71): previously it seems to have belonged to the Abbot of Nutley, Bucks. (Dugdale, Monast., vi, p. 278.)

p. 49. (c) Will. Marescall was vicar of B., and died there in 1393. He had also held Holewell, Lincs. (But the script C² and the next name (q.v.) do not very well agree with this date.)

(f) Will. le Hert, mentioned at Stow iuxta Anglesey in 1307 (Cambs. Fines, p. 74).

(g) Elyas de Bekyngham is four times mentioned in Cambs. Fines, pp. 48, 53, 57, 70. He was a Justiciar of the Common Pleas and said to be (with one exception) the only honest judge in the reign of Edw. I (ob. 1305). His brass, of which only the matrix remains, still retains the inscription in Lombardic characters (Evelyn White, pp. 13 f.).

(h) Robt. de Southham. "John de S." at Newmarket and Cheveley in 1340 (Cambs. Fines, p. 104).

(i) Will. Gode of Ely had licence of oratory in 1344 (Bp's Reg.).

p. 50. (a) appropriata templariis. They were suppressed in 1312, when Gt Wilburham went to the Hospitallers though the change is not here mentioned as it is at Wendy (p. 108).

p. 51. (b) Walter vicarius. This is (2) of the three (1) Walter de Fyningham presented by King 1213 (Patent Rolls), (2) Walter Osbern, vic. in 1325 (Cambs. Fines, p. 93), (3) Walter de Middleton presented by Prior of Hospitallers 1351 (Bp's Reg.).

(c) Joh. Smyht (a less common name then than now perhaps). "John Smyth of Kertling" occurs in 1365 (Cambs. Fines, p. 123).

(d) Rog. Loveday. His son William mentioned in 1325 (Cambs. Fines, p. 93).

p. 50. (e) monachorum de Theford. The Cluniac house is meant, founded by Roger Bigod, Earl of Norfolk in 1103. "The church once belonged to S. Wendrille's in Normandy" (Evelyn White, op. cit., p. 65). The appropriation was confirmed by John de Scalariis in 1271 (Cambs. Fines, p. 45: see Dugd., Monast., v, pp. 145, etc.). First the Templars and then the Hospitallers had a Preceptory here.

p. 51. John Kniut. The name (John Knyvett) occurs six times in Cambs. Fines in connexion with Fen Drayton and Conington but the only date that suits here is 1292 (p. 60).

(f) Thos. D. mon. Ely.

(g) custodie = "costers" or curtains, sidewings to protect the altar (see pp. 107 c and 142 b).

p. 50. Stetchworth was given to the Monks of Ely in the tenth century. (Bentham, op. cit., pp. 86 and 93.)

p. 51. (h) Rich. Matfrey. The Matfreys are a family six times mentioned in Cambs. Fines; in particular "John Matfrey of London" at Dullingham in 1304, p. 70 (and pp. 96 and 103). "Rad. Matfrey" held land at D. (Clark, op. cit., p. 258).

(i) Enman de...milane. ?Hamelyn (see Cambs. Fines, p. 73) or Chamberlain (p. 32 etc.); or is it possibly "Emma le Newman" (p. 50)?

p. 53. (a) Joh. de Borw. This member of the family died about 1384. For an account of tombs and effigies still in the church of Borough Green see Evelyn White, op. cit., pp. 11, 12.

p. 52. (b) Prior of Binham. The Benedictine house (temp. Will. 1) at Binham in Norfolk had a cell at Westley Waterless. It was itself an offshoot of S. Alban's. In 1250 Innocent IV confirmed to them the grant of this living (Dugdale, Monast., III, p. 342): see also Cambs. Fines, p. 11 (1217). The present church there is the remains of the ancient monastic church.

p. 53. (c) militis predicti, i.e. John de Krec. There is a fine brass of Sir John de Creke and Joan his wife (1324) in the church: see also Camb. Fines, p. 71, in 1304, p. 88, in 1320; in 1353 his son (?) "Mag. John de Crek" is mentioned in connexion with the Manor (p. 114): in 1350 he was rector of Spofford (Bp's Reg.).

(d) Henrici.

(e) Kastre. This is probably one of the Caistors (Norf. or Lincs.) or Caister (Norf.) or Castor (Northants.).

p. 55. (a) de solemp. corporis Christi. The observance of Corpus Christi was probably not introduced into England before 1320, though it had been decreed at Rome in 1264 (see Chr. Wordsworth, Salisbury Processions, p. 260, and Littlehales and Wordsworth, Anc. Ser. books, p. 134). See also Tracts of Clem. Maydeston, pp. xx f. (H. B. S.). The new sheet (quaternion) required for the service is also entered at Waterbeach (p. 75) and at Doddington (p. 147).

(b) Simon rector. "Simon de Nostertield" (a hamlet in Shudy Camps) was rector of Horseheath in 1298 (Camb. Assize roll 96) and in 1310, cf. C. E. Parsons, All SS. Ch. Horseheath, p. 68. His father, Nicholas de N., occurs in 1277 at Shudy Camps (Camb. Fines, p. 50).

p. 54. (d) Abbat of Waltham (see p. 66). The appropriation was made in the reign of Henry II by Julia de Sudecampe (Dugdale, Monast., vi, pp. 66, 67: see also Camb. Fines, p. 9 (1215)).

p. 55. (c) Thomas Stasi. The same name in 1429 on p. 166.

(e) Joh. Gauclok. "W. Gauclok of Overe" in 1382 (Camb. Fines, p. 133).

p. 57. (a) Hubert rector.

(b) obele here, is. What these were is very obscure, ! brass pins.

(c) Robert de Wantow (Galfrid Wantoun's wife is mentioned at Newton in the Isle, p. 121). Robt de W. is mentioned in connexion with the manor and advowson of (Long) Stowe in 1339 (Palmer, Divers Counties' Fines, p. 8). Roger de W. (Marshal to Henry III) mentioned in Clark, op. cit., pp. 84, etc. John de W., Knight at Fordham in 1313 (Camb. Fines, p. 107).

(e) Joh. Kyngiston. At Berkelawe in 1377 (Camb. Fines, p. 130) and in 1383 (p. 134).

(f) Mag. Stephani, i.e. de Haselinyfeld, as twice below, was Chancellor of the University in 1300 and a benefactor to it.

(g) John rector. John de Lavenham was rector in 1339 and John Le Hunte in 1340, unless these were both the same, but the script is rather early for their date.

(h) Baldwyn Maners. "B. de Maneriis" occurs in Suffolk Fines (Rye, p. 139) in 1317: see also Clark, op. cit., p. 263 and Rot. Hundr.

(i) John Pelham was instituted in 1347, and had leave of absence in 1349 (Bp's Reg.).

p. 58. (West) Wrattling, appropriated to the Monks of Ely by Bp Nigel (1133-74) for the Infirmary (Bentham, op. cit., p. 129).

p. 59. (a) Joh. Bregham. "L. de Bregham" had licence of private oratory at West Wrattling in 1339 (Bp's Reg.): mentioned also there in 1352 (Cambs. Fines, p. 111).

(b) tarde = "lately." This meaning is not given by Ducange.

(d) Joh. Richard. "Roger Rixpande of Wrattyngges" in 1315 (Cambs. Fines, p. 83). "Phil. Rikespand in Oxcroft" (nr. Wrattling) (Clark, op. cit., p. 257).

(e) Joh. le Moniere. We have "Thomas fil. Richard le Monner" in 1297 at Wilbraham and "Walter le Mouner of Lynton" (Cambs. Fines, p. 65), or perhaps he is "Dns. J. le Monye" at Stow-cum-Quy (Rot. Hundr., II, p. 495, see also Suff. Fines, pp. 116 and 118).

(f) Agnes Bra succeeded her father Hugo in the Manor which she held in 1278 (Clay, Landbeach, p. 23). Her daughter occurs at Landebeche in 1331 (Cambs. Fines, p. 99). We have "Anselm le Bray" at Ickleton (p. 71 a).

(g) immarium (iniciarium?). Hymnaries are entered in several other places (see Index s.c.), but it is possible we are to read iniciarium (= a list of beginnings of capitula?), though I do not find such a book elsewhere.

(h) Belot. For some account of this book see Excursus F, p. 300.

(i) R. de Hecham. The family of "de Hecham" are often mentioned in Suffolk Fines (Rye), and this rector may have been a member.

(j) de quarto cest. See above, p. 233.

(k) Hugo Beletti. See above and on p. 118. iniciarium, see above, (g).

(l) Rad. Westwode. The surname occurs in Suff. Fines, pp. 267 and 283.

p. 60. Willingham. This parish is now consolidated with Carlton, and is not to be confounded with the other parish of that name (p. 82). Mr Evelyn White (p. 41) calls this "an ancient chapelry," but it appears here with a rector, etc. The older name of the other place is really "Wyvelingham."

p. 61. (a) R. Spink.

(b) I. episcopi. Probably this is either John de Ketene (1310-1316) or John Hotham (1316-1337) as D^r has added the note of the gift, and his work appears to cover the years 1316-1340 (see Introduction, p. xxxv).

(c) Hug. Blawerlee. This strange surname seems to occur again at Wysbech (p. 119 e) as "Walt' de Blawevelece"; the name "Geoffrey Blodewell" occurs three times at Balsham in Camb. Fines (p. 155) in 1458-9 and that may have been the later development of the name here, which, according to the script, belongs to 1340-1365. "Blancheville" and "Blumevill" are names in Suffolk Fines (Rye).

Ds Thomas Ace. Stephen Ace held land in Camb. 1279 (Stokes, Outside Tr. Gates, p. 6).

(d) Rog. de Hunsingfeld, rector between 1280 and 1320 (Petworth MS.); the name should no doubt be Huntingfield. See below, p. 103 d.

(e) Will. de Hausthorp, fellow of Peterhouse; rector about 1330; resigned Wardenship of Wisbech Hospital 1334; d. at B. 1346.

(f) John Sleford was master of the Wardrobe to Edw. III (Evelyn White, p. 5), also chaplain to Queen Philippa, Canon of Wells and Ripon, Prob. of S. Stephen, Westminster, and Archd. of Wells. There is a fine effigy brass to him in the church (1401). The Camb. Fines mention him in 1375 (p. 128) and in 1390 (p. 137).

(g) pecia columpne. This is the only relic specified in these inventories though the bare word "reliquie" occurs below, p. 63, at Linton. [Much of my information about Balsham comes from the Rector, Mr Burrell.]

p. 62. (a) Sci Jacuti de Britannia. The tithes were given by Conan, Earl of Richmond, in or before 1171, to the Abbey of S. Jacut de Lisle in Brittany. The house was suppressed in 1139, when Linton was made over by Henry VI to Pembroke College then much reduced. The Vicar was usually called Prior as being one of the monks sent over to live and work in the parish and collect the tithes for the alien monastery, but there was no community (or "cell") there: see Hamilton Thompson, English Monasteries, pp. 10 f.

p. 63. (b) reliquie. See note g on p. 61 above.

(d) Thomas Lynton.

(e) Thomas Bander.

(f) Joh. Berford, instituted to the Rectory in 1339 (Bp's Reg.); "Edm. de B. at Horseth" in 1322 (Camb. Fines, p. 89, see also pp. 64 and 81).

(g) duas acras terre, etc. For this and other notes of church land, see Excursus F on p. 297.

(h) John de Hygenham. "J. de Hengham" was rector of H. circ. 1311 (Cal. Pap. Letters). The name "de Hengham" occurs several times in Suffolk Fines.

p. 62. (i) capella de Linton. This was the chapel of S. James at Little Linton, which Stephen, Earl of Richmond, gave in or before 1137 to the Abbey of S. Mary's, York. See inquisitio ad quod damnum (1308). [There was another chapel in the parish at Barham given to the Friars in 1293.]

(j) per religiosos adquisita = procured by the good offices of the monks: see n. i above.

p. 65. (a) Prior de Hattefeld. The Benedictine priory of H. Regis (or Broadoak) was founded by Alberic de Vere 1135. Dugdale (Monast., iv, p. 433) speaks as if the appropriation dated from at least the 13th century, but the entry here suggests that it was not made till the middle of the 14th.

(b) W. Breton. "Rich. le Breton at Little Abyton" in 1285 (Camb. Fines, p. 54).

(c) W. Sprotteforth. "Ranulfus de Sprotteford" is a jurat in Wytlisford Hundred (Rot. Handr., ii, p. 570) and "Sprottesford" occurs in Camb. Fines, pp. 58 and 100, also "Alex. Sprotfurth" in 1567 at Willingham, Palmer, Divers Fines, p. 72.

(d) Prior de Penteneye in Norfolk. A priory of Augustinian Canons was founded here by Robert de Vallibus in the reign of William I. The date of appropriation is not given by Dugdale (Monast., vi, p. 69).

(e) Thomas...decani was rector of S. Botulph's 1320-1335. The Rural Dean of Camb. is mentioned also on p. 175.

(f) Gilberti.

(g) Dom. I. Creyt. One may take it for granted that this lady is Joan, wife of John de Crek, mentioned above, p. 53: she occurs by name, Camb. Fines, p. 88, in 1320.

p. 66. (a) Badburham was appropriated to Waltham Abbey in the reign of Henry II by Geoffrey de Scallariis (Dugdale, Monast., vi, p. 66).

p. 67. (b) Robt. de Kyркеby. "Robt. fil' Roger de K." in 1312 at B. (Camb. Fines, p. 79). This family at B. often occurs in the Camb. Fines. ? Was the Bp (John de K.) a member of it.

(c) Inuonil' de Deilerie? This is perhaps the most incomprehensible name of all in our MS. "Sir Emilius de Warwick" or "Emilius de Derbe, vicar of the rector," has been suggested, but neither is at all convincing or to me even plausible. "Warwick" occurs a few lines further down in D.'s hand. It has also been suggested that "Deilevic" stands for Dulwich: but the medieval forms are not much like (Dylawys, Delawys, Dilewisse, Dilwisshe). Is it perhaps Deyvile (see p. 213)?

(d) Ral. de Brokton instituted Rector between 1380 and 1400. "R. de Breghton" (Cal. of Pat. Rolls).

(e) comitissa de Warwick. The earls of W. were owners of the manor and advowson of Whit. from 1309. In 1392 they gave the advowson to the Church of S. Mary, Warwick, and it now belongs to Jesus Coll., having been given to them by Bp Thirlby (1554-59) together with Fordham, Gilden Morden, Comberton, Hinxton and Swavesey (Bentham, op. cit., p. 192). The manor after the death of "the Kingmaker" passed to a niece who married a Huddleston. [Information from my friend the Vicar, Rev. R. Letts.]

p. 68. (a) Duxford S. John was given by the Foundress to Clare Hall in 1346 (see Wardale Hist. of Coll., p. 4).

p. 69. (b) Walter, not hitherto found among the rectors of S. John's: but we have "Walter de Berton capellanus at Dukesworth" in 1303 (Camb. Fines, p. 69).

(c) Hugo Chapman.

(d) John de Hyngeston, rector of S. John's, D., in 1338: he incurred ecclesiastical censure for continued non-appearance on summons in 1339 (Bp's Reg.).

p. 68. Duxford S. Peter. The advowson came into the hands of Corpus in 1715 under Archbp Tenison's will, and of Clare by purchase in 1869.

p. 69. (e) Robt. Gose. ? "Simon and John le Goyz of Dukesworth" in 1315 (Cambs. Fines, p. 82): "Andreas le Goys" (Clark, op. cit., p. 256).

(f) Gilbert.

p. 68. (g) organi optimi. See Excursus F, p. 301.

p. 70. (a) Ikelington. The date of the appropriation to the Prioress there is not known. The house of S. Mary Magdalene consisted of Benedictine nuns and was founded about 1140 or 1190: several prioresses are mentioned in Cambs. Fines (viz. pp. 36 and 59) and elsewhere: see A. R. Goddard's paper in C. A. S. publications 1904, pp. 186 ff.

p. 71. (b) Anselm le Bray. "Ansillmus le Bere" held land in Ickleton from the Prioress in 1279 (Rot. Hund., II, p. 586) and "Ansellus de Bray" held land in Long Stanton (ibid. 466 f.): see p. 59 f.

(c) cantus organici. See Excursus F, p. 300.

(d) Galfridi Dolle. "Ds. Jeffrey Dolle chapl." in 1377 (Arundel's Consist. Court-book).

p. 70. Hengeston was appropriated to the Canons of S. Giles, Barnwell, by Pycot's original charter (1092): Clark, op. cit., p. 40.

p. 71. (e) Adam capellanus.

(f) Juliana de Stroutte. This is possibly "Juliana, wife of Stephen Bonenfaunt" mentioned both at Hinxton and at Ickleton in 1254 and 1256 (Cambs. Fines, pp. 35 and 36).

p. 73. (a) monialibus de Blakebergh. A house of Benedictine nuns was founded at B. in the parish of Middleton, Norfolk, by Roger de Scalariis in the reign of Stephen or Henry I. This is the only date of an appropriation (1387) given in the MS. and serves to fix the date of F³ hand. (Introduction, p. xxxvi.)

(b) Ric. de Loudham. "R. de Ludham" is rector of P. in 1294 (Cal. Pat. Rolls).

(c) summa Remundi. See Excursus F, p. 300.

(d) dni Arnger militis. See Cooper Annals, I, p. 68, Clark, op. cit., p. 131, and Cambs. Fines, pp. 31 and 47.

p. 72. (e) Sauston. The date of the appropriation to the Knights Hospitallers does not appear to have been ascertained. At the dissolution Henry VIII gave it with that of Shingay to Sir Richard Long (Lysons, Cambs.): see pp. 106 h and 108 a.

p. 73. (f) Kenteys. This surname occurs several times at Sawston (temp. Edw. I) in Rot. Hundr., II, pp. 576 ff.: see also Cambs. Fines, p. 19, where it takes the Latinized form "de Kancia."

(g) Ierosolimitani. See above.

p. 74. Ds de Moyne. See Rot. Hundr., II, p. 403, at Chesterton.

(a) Chesterton was appropriated to the alien Abbey of Vercelli (in Lombardy) in 1217: see Mr J. E. Foster's interesting paper in C. A. S. Proceedings (1909), vol. XIII, pp. 188 ff. In 1408 it was taken by the King (I) and given to the Prior of Barnwell: and now belongs to Trinity coll. as successors to King's Hall, to whom Bp Bouchier assigned it in 1450 (see pp. 205 ff.).

p. 75. (b) Radulphi rectoris. "Ralph Cosyn, parson of the Church of Middilton" in 1319 (Cambs. Fines, p. 87). This surname occurs also at Barton and elsewhere in the county about this time.

p. 74. Watirbeche. Picot had given part of the tithe to the Canons of S. Giles: they were allowed as appropriators by Bp of Ely before 1196; subsequently the Master of the Temple claimed the advowson but his claim was disallowed 1278/9 (Clark, op. cit., pp. 66, etc.).

p. 75. (c) Joh. de Statuton. One of this name was chapl. at Over or Willingham in 1367 (Cambs. Fines, p. 123). Hervey de St., p. 117 e and Wm de St., p. 37 f, also occur.

(d) Thomas atte Priores. Clay, Waterbeach (p. 41) proposes to identify him with "Thomas Parsons of Ely" (1420), but this is due to a misreading of the MS. and the date will not do.

(e) quoysers. See note a to p. 55.

p. 76. Landbeach was appropriated to Corpus in 1390 (Cambs. Fines, p. 137).

p. 77. (a) de usu Sarum. This is the only mention of the use of Sarum, but it was gradually spreading throughout England during the 14th century and I think it likely that the epithet "novum" which occurs so often in these inventories, especially in connexion with "ordinale," usually indicates Sarum use: see Frere, Use of Sarum, I, p. 13-42, and Chr. Wordsworth's art. on Use in Prayer-book Dictionary and Excursus F, p. 299.

(b) I. rectoris. "John le Chamberlain" is parson in 1294 (Cal. Pat. Rolls): see Cambs. Fines, p. 40, where "Walter de Ch. by Wm le Ch." is mentioned in connexion with the advowson in 1261. "John de Herdwyk parson at L." in 1329 (p. 96) is too late for the script (B¹).

(c) Bartholomew.

(d) Nich. de Cantabr., rector of C., received licence of absence 1349-50 and licence of private oratory in 1352 (Bp's Reg.).

(e) historia Theophili. S. Theophilus the penitent of Adana in Cilicia died 538. His was a favourite legend in the middle ages though of doubtful authenticity. He is usually commemorated on Feb. 4, but Whytford's Martiloge mentions him among the "addieyons" on Oct. 13, "a Confessour that forsakyng his baptyum made thereon an obligacyon unto the Devyll but by the helpe & myracle of our blessed lady he was reconsyled & made unto her this sequens Ave Maria¹, wherein is mencyon made of hymselfe by name." See also Owen, Book of Saints, p. 75.

p. 78. Impington was appropriated to the Prior of Ely for the use of the Precentor by Bishop Nigel (1133-74) (Bentham, op. cit., p. 128).

p. 79. (a) Rud. de Croperia was rector about 1260 (?) and had a dispute with the monks of Barnwell about the tithes (see Clark, op. cit., pp. 142 ff.).

p. 78. (b) Histon S. Etheldreda. The church no longer exists but some of the materials, which were found in Madingley hall, have been introduced into S. Andrew's church. The appropriation was made in 1268 (Eggesham Chartulary, published by Oxf. Hist. Soc., vol. II, p. li: see also Cambs. Fines, p. 28, and Dugdale, Monast., III, p. 5).

(c) The house was founded in 1109, and full information can be found about it in the work above quoted as well as in Dugdale. For the chapel of S. Mary in S. Andrew's church see pp. 198 ff.

p. 79. (d) Petrus vic. He was presented to the living by the Abbat Feb. 1279 (op. cit., vol. I, p. 290).

p. 81. (a) Roger de Tromp. See p. 31 f.

(b) Nichs. de Emp. He appears at Impeton in 1271 (Cambs. Fines, p. 46) and "Nichs. de Impinton chaplain" appears at Milton, &c., in 1320 (p. 87).

(c) John Boreton. One of this name (with others) occurs at Westwick (Oakington) and at Lolworth in Rot. Hundr., II, pp. 407

¹ The allusion is to a sequence given in Sarum Brev. (edn Procter and Wordsworth, fasc. II, p. 517), where these words occur:

Tu mater es misericordie
Theophilum reformans gratie

and 457 : also "W. de B. chaplin" at Mildenhall in 1319 (Suff. Fines, p. 145) and "John B." again in 1330 (p. 167).

p. 80. Hokiton (now Oakington). The famous abbey of S. Guthlac, Croyland, was founded by King Ethelbald in 716. The monks held the manor and advowson of Hokiton, together with the manors of Cottenham and (Dry) Drayton in this county, at least since the reign of King Edred († 955) : see Dugdale, op. cit., II, pp. 115 and 118. For the two copies of Inventory v. Introd. p. xxxiii.

p. 81. (d) Walter appears as vicar about 1276 (Rot. Hundr., II, 450).

p. 80. Joh. Aleyn receives dispensation super defectu natalium to take orders, 16 Mar. 1374/5 (Bp's Reg.).

p. 83. (a) Adam de Lynham, a Bishop's clerk, presented April 1312 : he also held Feltwell from 1337.

(b) Alan Hotham (? a relation of Bishop J. Hotham, 1316–1337) from dio. of York was instituted 1318 (Cal. Pap. Letters) : he also held Derham with chaplaincy of Hoo and died 1351.

(c) Oculus Sacerdotis. See Excursus F, p. 300.

John de Gos, ? another member of the le Goyz family, several of whom occur in the Cambs. Fines : see p. 69*f*.

(f) Laisthorp. "John de Laithrop" had licence of absence 1337 (Bp's Reg.).

p. 85. (a) Dean of Astley. Astley was a collegiate church in Warwickshire founded in 1313 by Sir T. de Astley. Stanton All SS. was appropriated to it in 1381/2 (Dugdale, Monasticon, VI, p. 1371), but the Dean presented Rich. de Broughton to the living in 1350 (Bp's Reg.), so his right of presentation was older. See p. 29*c*.

(b) dni Fulconis. The Forest Plea Roll, 1286, gives "Fulk de Penebrugg" as "parson of Stanton" (see Cambs. Fines, p. 120, for the surname).

(c) Joh. Walerwayn (= ? Welwyn in Herts.). "John son of Rich. Walwain" in 1234 (Suffolk Fines, p. 38), but that seems too early. "John de Eyland" was rector of Welwyn in 1352.

(d) Joh. de Hamslope, "parson of Long Stanton" in 1339, has licence to perform Divine Service "where he thinks best in the parish, the church having been destroyed by fire" (Bp's Reg.). So late as 1397 (Cambs. Fines, p. 140) "John Hampslap clerk" occurs in connexion with Brentele and Westley Waterless. If he were quite young in 1339, he might easily have survived till 1397.

(e) Liber Hugucii. See Excursus F, p. 300.

(f) Pars Oculi. See ibid., p. 300.

(g) Ric. Large.

p. 84. Drayton. This is "Dry Drayton": "Fen D." is on p. 134.

p. 85. (h) Joh. de Baston. We have also "Rad. de Beston," p. 123 d. Baston and (de) Beston occur seven times in Cambs. Fines, but no John or Ralph.

p. 86. Madlingele was one of the original donations to the Canons of S. Giles by Picot (see Clark, op. cit., p. 40).

p. 87. (a) Albert does not occur in Mr Crosby's List of Incumbents of Madingley (E. D. R.).

p. 86. Stapleford seems to have belonged to the Monks of Ely from 955 onwards (see Bentham, op. cit., p. 70: also Cambs. Fines, pp. 23 and 31).

p. 87. (b) Joh. de Ely. See Cambs. Fines, p. 97.

(c) Mag. R. rect. This is probably "Mast. Richard de Otringham parson" of Gt Shelford (Cal. Pat. Rolls), to whom in April 1298 a commission of officialty is issued in vacancy of see (Archbp Winchelsea's Reg., f. 241 b): see Cambs. Fines, pp. 79 and 80.

(d) rachamas. See Index (B), p. 309.

(e) W. Lenne Regis. "Will. Thriford alias dictus de Lenne," rector of Simondesburgh, Sarum, was collated to Gt Sh. in 1392. "W. de Lenne" occurs much earlier in Cambs. Fines, p. 70. See p. 49 d.

p. 89. (a) Elanora Frivele. Perhaps this is "Alienor de Selford" in 1234 (Cambs. Fines, p. 20) but that is almost too early for the script (B). (See Introduction, p. xxxiv.) In 1346 "John de Fryvyle and Elena his wife" occurs (Cambs. Fines, p. 110) but this again is too late for B. Evelyn White (op. cit. p. 154) dates the effigy of a Sir John de Freville between 1307 and 1327: this Eleanor may have been his wife.

(b) Henr. de Stoke. This name occurs as "chaplain" in connexion with Hardwick and Toft in 1343 (Cambs. Fines, p. 107). See also at Hauxton below, p. 91: the entry (erased) here is nearly identical with that and was probably made in error.

(c) Ric. Cook. "Wm. Cok of parva Schelford" occurs in 1329 (Cambs. Fines, p. 96) and there is a "Robt. Cooke parson of Little Shelford" in 1400 (p. 141). Richard C. was probably a relation of these.

p. 88. Trippelawe was only appropriated to Peterhouse about 1284: hence the doubt about it suggested by the non crossed out.

p. 89. Agnes de Warrinton. This is no doubt a mistake for "Barrinton" as the "de B." family held land in Triplow (Clark, op. cit., p. 250, and Cambs. Fines, p. 13) and Agnes de B. occurs there twice in Rot. Hundr., II. 543 f. in Edw. I's reign.

(d) I. vicarius. "John de Hyndryngham" vicar in 1298 (Assize Roll).

(e) Matilda de Quoie. The "de Quoie (Queye)" family are several times mentioned in Cambs. Fines, but no Matilda.

(f) de opere Lenoycen. See Excursus F, p. 302.

(g) Joh. le Parker.

Henry. "H. Walter late parson of F." in 1394 (Harl. Chart. 50, I, 16).

(h) Alex. Dougre.

(i) Robert de Henle came here by exchange from Ross in 1342: had a year's leave of absence in 1343 (Bp's Reg.).

p. 90. Neuton, a chapelry attached to Hauxton appropriated to Prior of Ely by B. Hervey (1109-1133) (Bentham op. cit., p. 134).

p. 91. (a) Henr. de Stoke. See p. 89 b.

(b) Prioress of Holywell. Simon de Montacute, Bp of Ely (1337-45), gave the presentation of T. to the Benedictine nuns of Holywell in S. Leonard's parish, Shoreditch: it was appropriated in 1344 (Dugdale, Monast., IV, p. 391): see Cambs. Fines, p. 104.

(c) Nicholas. ? "Nich. de Drayton, chaplain" at Tr. in 1316 (Cambs. Fines, p. 83).

(e) Anys Tykencote. This is no doubt "Avicia formerly wife of Hugh de Tykencote at Trumpeton" in 1348 (Cambs. Fines, p. 112: cf. p. 109).

p. 92. Hardleston (= Harston) was appropriated to the Canons of S. Giles by Picot in 1092 (Clark, op. cit., p. 40).

p. 93. (a) Era de Tynetot. The Tiptofts were owners of Harston manor before 1300, Clark (op. cit., p. 126) and onwards, e.g. in 1369 (Cambs. Fines, p. 122).

(b) Rich. vic. It is tempting to conjecture that this is

"Richard de Ware, parson of the church of Harleton" (in error for Hardlestone) in 1304 (Cambs. Fines, p. 70).

(c) Adam Prat. There were Prats at Long Stowe (Cambs. Fines, pp. 83 and 102, see also p. 136).

(d) Foxton was appropriated to the Prior and Canons of Ely by Bp Hugo de Balsham in 1275 (Bentham, op. cit., pp. 128 and 150). The correction "elemosinar" in F's hand suggests that it was not assigned to their Almoner at first, though Bentham states that it was.

(e) Reginald vic. Mr Crosby quotes from a Petworth MS. (Hist. MSS. Commiss. Report, p. 77) "Reginald de Ely" presented in 1335 to F. by Prior and Convent of Ely: and his name occurs also in a Gaol Delivery Roll. But the date conflicts with ours (1308).

(f) Thom. de Foxstone.

(g) Thom. Mutimur.

p. 92. (h) Shepreth was appropriated to the Benedictine nuns of Chatteris by Bp Eustace of Ely († 1220), Dugdale, Monast., II, p. 615. The house, which was founded about 980 by Alfwen wife of King Athelstan, was completely destroyed by fire, circ. 1304-10, and not rebuilt for some 30 years.

p. 93. (i) Will. de le Hay. One of this name, styled miles, had licence of oratory in Shepreth from the Abbess of C. (Dugdale, loc. cit.). "John de la Hay chivaler" was Lord of the Manor of Shepereth about 1329 (Cambs. Fines, pp. 97, 98, 100 and 103): cf. p. 133 a.

p. 95. (a) Nich. quondam rector. Malton is now absorbed in Orwell and the Church ruined.

(b) Barrington was appropriated to S. Michael's house in 1327 (i) (Cambs. Fines, p. 95).

(c) Joh. de Langele, vicar of B., was licensed Dec. 8, 1349, to absolve his parishioners in all cases reserved to the Bp, the five excepted (Bp's Reg.): for these five see p. 26; cf. Intro. p. xvii.

p. 96. (a) Haslingfeld was appropriated to the (mitred) Abbat of S. Mary's, York (founded by Will. II, 1089), by Roger de Sumery in the reign of Henry II or earlier (Dugdale, Monast., III, p. 534).

p. 97. (b) John de Woketon, vicar of H. in March 1355 (Cal. Pap. Reg.), still there in 1361. "John vic. of H." is appointed Penitentiary for the deanery in Sept. 1337 (Bp's Reg.). This is hardly likely to be "de Wokton" but it may be "J. Malerbe" or "J. Lovel" in what appears to be an earlier entry.

(c) Joh. Malerbe. See above: "Michael Mallherbe" occurs at Cambridge (Cambs. Fines, pp. 2 and 22).

(d) John Lovel. See above, and again p. 105 a.

p. 99. (a) Barton, appropriated to the Prior of Merton (in Surrey) in 1202 (Dugdale. Monast., vi, p. 246: see also Cambs. Fines, p. 9 in 1215).

Nicholas vicar. One of this name succeeded John le Blund as vicar of B. in 1253 (Assize Rolls).

(d) Grantchester, appropriated to S. Benet's Coll. in 1379 by purchase.

(e) Thos. de Pateshull, rector in 1324 (Masters, Hist. of Corpus, p. 14): brother of Sir Walter de P., Lord of the Manor.

(f) Jacobus Grancete. There was a manor of Jak (or Jakes) in G. (sometimes called Andwyl): see Cooper, Annals, i, p. 120 (in 1381).

(g) Ric. Titeshall occurs as rector in the deed of appropriation 1379, appointed by his predecessor.

p. 98. Cotes = Coton now, not Coates near Whittlesey,

p. 99. (h) Ric. Wymark.

p. 100. Cumberton, appropriated to the Canons of S. Giles by Picot, 1092 (Clark, op. cit., p. 10).

p. 101. (a) Domina Merk. "Isabel' de Merk" at Royston in 1279 (Cambs. Fines, p. 51). We have also "Wm. de Merks" at Cumberton in 1251 (p. 33). I have little doubt this is "Willelmus Bercarius" father or son who held land in C. (Clark, op. cit., p. 300). See Rot. Hundr., ii, pp. 654 f.

Reginald vic. "Reg. de C." occurs in 1298 (Cambs. Fines, p. 66) but there is nothing to suggest he was this man.

Joh. Dyngue was vicar of W. and dean of Brunne in 1377: in March 1378 he was instituted to S. Edward's, Cambridge: in 1381 he exchanged with a Mast. John de Eggemere. John Dyne occurs again as vicar of S. Edw. 1406-1431; this was a junior man, as in July 1382 John D. senior was presented to the chantry in Boxworth church (Bp's Reg.). [Information from Mr Crosby.]

(b) R. Peverel. The surname occurs several times in Cambs. Fines: also Robt Peverel and Rich. P. in Hunts. (Rot. Hundr., ii, pp. 628 and 631).

(c) Gilbert le Rous, rector in 1337 (when he appears in an assault case) and up to 1345 (Bp's Reg.). For an account of this family see Stokes Outside Trump. Gates, pp. 35 ff.

(d) Joh. Cokenach. In Nov. 1377 John Cokenache of Coventry (Lichfield dio.) was collated to W. (acolyte and sub-deacon 13 March 1377-8: deacon June 1378: priest Sept. 1378). (Bp's Reg.)

Strangely enough the Camb. Univ. Libr. MS. 2452 gives another John Cokenache as parson of W. in 1306 (! an error). [Mr Crosby's information.]

p. 102. (a) Arrington. The date of the appropriation is not known but in 1402 the Prioress states that her house only held two livings with cure, viz. Ickleton and Arrington (Dugdale, Monast., iv, p. 439).

p. 103. (b) R. atte Lane. "Robt. fil' William atte Lane of Wykes and Agatha his wife" occurs in 1293 (Camb. Fines, p. 61): this may be his son.

(c) Rog. Deplam. "John de Deplam" in 1360 (Suffolk Fines, p. 227).

(d) Rog. de Huntingfeld. See p. 61 d. It does not appear that one of this name was ever "rector of Orwell," nor, as Cole MSS. assert, of Barton in 1256. Is it not possible that a layman (who may also have been styled "Magister") is meant? Roger was a frequent name in the family. "Roger de H. succeeded his father in 1286 and died in 1301" (Raven, Suffolk, p. 78). "Roger de H." is connected with Harleton in 1313 (Camb. Fines, p. 80), and "Roger de H. junior" with Orwell in 1338 (p. 103). "Rog. son and heir of Will. H." in 1316 (Redstone, Nomina villarum co. Suff., Suffolk Inst. of Archaeol., vol. xi, p. 187).

(e) bord' Alissandre. See Index (B), p. 308.

(f) Eliseus (Elisha, not Elijah strictly): "Elias Chancellor of Arlichsey priest" was presented to Orwell rectory in Feb. 1347-8 by Sir Edw. de Kendale and John de Wylie, rector of Walton-on-Thames. When he was admitted in July 1349, he is given as "Elyas le Chaunceler."

p. 104. Crawden. It does not appear when Croydon was appropriated, but some of the tithe was given to the Canons of S. Giles by Picot in 1092 (Clark, op. cit., p. 40).

p. 105. (a) Rud. Lovel. This name occurs at Harleton in Rot.

Hundr., II, pp. 562 f. and again in 1290 (Camb. Fines, p. 60; see also pp. 97 and 133).

(b) W. Bateman occurs at H. in 1381 (Camb. Fines, p. 132; see also p. 135). See above, p. 33 f.

(c) Ric. Kellishill. "R. de K." in connexion with the manor of H. in 1312 (Camb. Fines, p. 106) and "Rich. fil' Rich. de K. knight" in 1348 (p. 111); see also Cooper Annals, I, pp. 98 and 100.

(d) Herr' Chaler = Henry d'Eschalers, who succeeded J. Lacy in 1330 as parson of H. He is mentioned as much in debt (1341-7). (Bp's Reg.)

There is an interesting entry, in which R. de Huntingfield, Ric. de K. and Hen. d'Esch. are all mentioned, in Bp's Reg. May 1349, about a dispute as to the right of presentation of his successor (Roger de Tyffield).

Richard is Rect. in 1288 and "Rich. de Stow" in 1298; in July 1374 there is a "Rich. de Stow," rector of Hardwick, who has five years leave of absence (Assize Rolls).

(e) W. Tykhill, "parson of E. H.," is dispensed of illegitimacy in 1333 (Papal Letters): see also Bp's Reg. 1354 (?).

Reginald: "Reg. Outlawe of Brunne, rect. of E. H." exchanged in 1341 with Thomas de Eure of Blakolmslee.

(f) Thomas Upton. The surname recurs at Boxworth (p. 139 n.). There is no T. Upton found at E. H. so far; but T. de Eure of last note exchanged for Queryngton in 1343 and T. de Alston (or Aston) of Fulbourne was rect. of E. H. in 1344 and 1347.

p. 106. Tadlow was one of the livings given to the Canons of S. Giles by Picot in 1092 (Clark, op. cit. p. 40).

p. 107. (a) Robt. Shepherd. "Robt le Shepherde of Pyncote" at Esthattele and Clopton in 1343 (Camb. Fines, p. 108). Pyncote was in Tadlow (see above, p. 25 d).

(b) Joh. Baulerwyne had licence of oratory for his manor of Tadlow in 1347 (Bp's Reg.).

(c) custodie, cf. p. 51 g.

p. 106. Clopton is now consolidated with Croydon, the church having been taken down in 1591 (Evelyn White, op. cit., p. 57).

p. 107. (d) Hugo de Clopton. "Hugh Hasilden, clericus" presented by Rich. and Thos H. in Jan. 1392, is too late for the script.

(e) Robt. de Lyndeseye. This may be Robert Taylor, who died rect. of Cl. in Jan. 1392/3.

p. 106. (f) Kneesworth is now a hamlet of Bassingbourne, and the "capella" has disappeared.

(h) Shingay was originally the property of Roger, Earl of Arundel and Shrewsbury. In 1140 his daughter Sibylla de Reynes founded a Preceptory of Knights Hospitallers there, to whom she gave the manor (Lysons, Camb.): the appropriation therefore probably dates from about 1140. The chapel of the Preceptory was used as the church of the parish (Evelyn White, p. 156), but becoming ruinous, it was destroyed in 1820, and a new church has since been built and annexed to Wendy. Unless this original entry is incorrect or was made after the suppression of the Templars, Mr White would seem to be mistaken in saying that the Hospitallers took it over from the Templars in 1312: see Wendy below.

p. 107. (i) Will. Kylman exchanged Shingay for Tadlow in 1379, and in 1385 exchanged again to Idelstre in dio. of Line. (Bp's Reg.). "Thos. K." of Shingay occurs in 1328 (Bp's Reg.).

p. 108. (a) Wendege passed from the Templars to the Hospitallers in 1312. One of the three manors at W. had been given to the Knights Templars by Sir Robert d'Engayne in or before the reign of Edw. I (Lysons).

p. 109. Robert vic. "Robert de Smethfield" was vicar of W. in 1308 (Land Revenue records).

(b) templum d[omi]ni. What this was does not appear, but it naturally connects itself with the Templars to which the church once belonged and with the other strange expression velum templi which so puzzles one in these inventories. See Excursus F, p. 302.

p. 108. (c) Waddou was appropriated (though it is not stated here) in 1351 to the King's new college of S. George's, Windsor.

p. 109. (d) Ric. Natesby, rector of moiety of Rotherham, presented to Whaddon in Feb. 1344 by Earl of Warwick: mentioned as clerk of Ely dio. who had died before 1353 (Bp's Reg.). The surname occurs at W. in 1349 and 1368 (Camb. Fines, pp. 112 and 124).

p. 108. Melreth was appropriated to the Prior of Ely by Bp Hervey (1109-1133) for the hostelry (Bentham, op. cit., pp. 128 and 134: see also Camb. Fines, p. 7).

Roger was vicar there in 1288 (Assize Roll).

p. 110. (a) Hospitale de cruce Roys. The Lady Roesia, wife of Eudo Dapifer, the Norman, set up a wayside cross where the Icknield Way crosses Ermine Street, and there 100 years later the Priory of S. Thomas of Canterbury was founded soon after his martyrdom by Eustace de Mark and called de cruce Roesie. This was the origin of the modern town of Royston (Conybeare, Hist. of Cambs., p. 113).

(b) Abbington (in the Clay or iuxta Shingay), now called A. Piggotts from the family of that name who became the chief landowners in the 15th cent.

p. 111. (c) Alan rect. "Alan le Moigne" of Abb. occurs twice in 1311, Cambs. Fines, p. 78: possibly this is his son.

(d) Roger de Goldborne was rector of Bassingbourn, 1375, till his death in 1379/80 (Bp's Reg.).

p. 110. (e) Capella de (Step̃) Mordon. This can hardly be the "capella de Redreth" in Guilden Morden parish which is entered (by B¹) on the next page and has quite a different set of books, &c. Is it Odsey? Clark, op. cit., p. 196, has "Stapel mordane cum capellis" in 1256.

p. 111. Ivo Ewerard. The surname occurs at Grantchester in 1285, at Impington and Histon in 1419, at Wysbeche in 1483.

p. 112. Guilden Morden was part of the original donation of Picot to the Canons of St Giles in 1092 (Clark, op. cit., p. 40).

p. 113. (a) Will. Oseberti. "W. Osebern tenet de Will Knotte" about 1230 at Guilden Morden (Clark, op. cit., p. 290): "John son of Osbert v. William Osebern" and wife and son at Tatington in 1280 (Suffolk Fines, p. 80, and elsewhere). Whether Osebert here and Osbert there is an error for Osbern is uncertain, but it seems likely, Osbert being a Christian name. See also Cambs. Fines, pp. 91, &c.

(b) Will. Moins. "Will. Moigne and wife" at Little Shelford in 1329 (Cambs. Fines, p. 96).

(c) W. Brith? — "Brid" as on p. 83 above and on p. 165 (R. Bryth): cf. also Cambs. Fines, p. 115 (J. Bryght).

(d) Roger Pryget.

Robert Iohrar? — Sudbury. "John de Sudbery chivaler" occurs in connexion with "Mordene" in 1323 and 1337. Cambs. Fines, pp. 90 and 102. Or perhaps "Arneburgh" is meant (see pp. 124 and 127: in the latter place "Robert Arneborough" in 1483 occurs).

p. 112. (e) Redreth capella, ? dedicated to S. Etheldreda: no trace of the building left but some beams in a farmhouse north of church are said to have come from it. It was given by Picot to the Canons of S. Giles in 1092 (Clark, op. cit., p. 40).

p. 113. (f) Joh. Haldin = Aldin (as below).

(g) Warin Bassyngbourn miles. See Cooper, Annals, i, p. 71. The de B. family often occurs in Cambs. Fines, and two Warins (see e.g. p. 131 in 1377). "Henricus" just below may also be one of the family as no rector of that name appears. "Radulphus" may be "R. de Standon parson" in 1295 (Cal. Pat. Rolls).

(h) Peter "de Abyton" was rector between 1304 and 1318 (?) (E. D. R.).

(i) Alicia de Hallingbury. Gt and Little H. are in Essex.

(k) Joh. Aldene? = Joh. Haldin above.

(l) Joh. Coke. In 1381 "William Cook" was chapl. of Step. M. and dean of Shengeye (Arundell's Consist. Court book) but the date as well as the name is wrong for this entry by "C" (see Introduction, p. xxxv). See Cambs. Fines, p. 106.

p. 115. (a) Littlington was appropriated to Clare by the Foundress in 1336 (see Wardale, Hist. of Clare, p. 3).

(b) de dono comitis. ? Either Lady Elizabeth's father Gilbert, Earl of Gloucester and Hertford (d. 1295), or her brother, who fell at Bannockburn in 1314. They owned land in Litlington before 1336 (see Clark, op. cit., p. 248).

dom. Martini capell. "John Martyn senior of Lytlington" in 1378 (Cambs. Fines, p. 130).

p. 114. Meldeburne appropriated to the Prior of Ely by Bp W. de Kilkenny (1254-7) (Bentham, op. cit., p. 148).

p. 115. (c) Jeorgius, "vicar of the church of Myldeburn" in 1305 (Cambs. Fines, p. 71).

Wodcok.

Margt. Herlewe (= Harlow in Essex). The vicar of Witham (Rev. F. W. Galpin) tells me of W. de H. who in 1285 was parson of Theydon Mount and of Walter de H., his wife Joan and daughter Agnes 1327.

(e) Thomas atte Grene. The surname occurs at Abbington (Piggotts) in 1320 and 1337 (Cambs. Fines, pp. 88 and 101).

Joh. vicarius. Either John de Haverhill vic. 1322, 1337 (Cambs. Fines, p. 102) and 1339, or John Paynell d. vicar in 1364 or John Wesenham vic. 1377-1384.

p. 117. (a) Adam de Melkesham. "Richd. de Melkesham" (two different ones) at Elm in 1229, 1297 and 1298 (Camb. Fines, pp. 14, 59 and 65).

(b) Joh. de Wytel[sey]. "J. de Whittleseye junior, a monk of Thorneye" was collated to Linton "Priory" in June 1355 (Bp's Reg.). Possibly the one here is "John de W. senior" as the date is rather late for C's hand. (See Introduction, p. xxxv.)

(c) I Nyker de Ely. Bentham, Ely, p. 273, speaks of Nicholas of Ely as being rector of Elm (1254), and Bp of Worcester (1266) translated to Winchester (1267): also a Court book of 1316-1330 mentions another Master Nich. de Ely as rector.

Hugo vicarius. "Hugh de Keten" was vicar in 1319, 1322 and 1324 (Bp's Court Roll): see Parkin, Hist. of Norf., vol. viii, p. 409 (in 1303). Perhaps a relation of John de Ketene, Bishop of Ely (1310-1316).

(d) liber De ecclesiasticis. See Excursus F, p. 300.

(e) Hervey de Stanton, son of Walter de St., was collated to the rectory in 1332 (Cal. Pat. Rolls). In 1339 he was executor of the will of Hervey de St. late of the churches of S. Peter's York and S. Andrew's Wells (Bp's Reg.). He was the founder of Michaelhouse (1324) and died Master of S. John's Hospital, Duxford, in 1351. He seems also to have been called Aungier (see Cooper, Annals, i, p. 80): cf. Camb. Fines, pp. 90, 91 and 94 and Stokes, Outside Trump. Gates, pp. 44 f.).

(f) W. Strete. One of this name was chaplain of Gisor's chantry, S. Martin's in the Vintry, London, collated to Little Abington: thence he exchanged to Wardone (Warden) in the Isle of Sheppey, Nov. 1402, and thence again in Feb. 1402-3 to Pampisford.

(g) W. Petworth was instituted to the rectory about 1370: in Feb. 1373 he had licence to hear his parishioners' confessions and to have a private chapel in his house. In June 1379 he witnessed the Archdeacon's obedience. He and the vicar had a dispute about wax tapers at Easter 1382. In 1395 he was assaulted by the then vicar. In 1401 he was still rector. See also Parkin, Hist. of Norfolk, vol. viii, p. 408.

p. 116. (i) Enymeth (now Emmeth) is no longer appropriated or annexed to Elm. It is in Norfolk but under the archidiaconal jurisdiction of the Bishop of Ely. Cf. Clark, op. cit., p. 191.

p. 117. (k) Roberti Hereward militis. "John fil' Rob. Hereward" is mentioned in 1308 in connexion with Sawston and Babraham (Camb. Fines, p. 74) but this is probably a later Robert Parkin, Hist. of Norfolk (op. cit.), makes no mention of the Herewards here: but they were in various parts of the county.

Hugo vic., no doubt the same as the one mentioned above. See Suffolk Fines, p. 244 (1373).

(l) cappella sancti Thome (probably of Cant.). The present dedication of the Church is S. Edmund. Is this a chantry? but if so, why "predicta"? Parkin (op. cit., p. 409) says there was a chantry of S. Mary in the church and various images but not S. Thomas: also a free chapel in Berking hamlet standing in 1389.

(m) W. Petworth. See g above.

p. 118. (a) Wysebech was appropriated to "the Church of Ely" by Bp Hugh de Balsham (1257-1286) (Bentham, op. cit., p. 150).

(b) Belet: see Excursus F, p. 300.

p. 119. Walter vic. This is most probably "Walter de Blaw." mentioned below, though the entry is in an earlier hand.

(c) Hugo Bardolf. This member of a well-known Norfolk family occurs in Rye Suffolk Fines, pp. 93 and 116.

(d) Marg. Pas. See p. 147 i.

(e) Walter de Blawecielee. See p. 61 c above. "Walt. de Blacolvelse M.A." is perpetual vicar of W. in 1318 when he resigns and goes to Sudburne (Suff.) 14 Kal. Jul. (Pap. Letters). In 1330 "Walt. de Blakhulmsle" is called late vic.: he left a rent of 12*d.* to find "j lampedam ardentem" for the church (Wisbech Court Roll). Evidently the name puzzled people in those days very much. Was it a foreign one?

(f) William Shorphan. In 1304 "Will. de Schorphan" is parson of W. (Bp's Court Roll), and in 1331 late vicar (Wisbech Court Roll). Bangerium is a bench cover.

(g) Must. Joh. Boton, priest, was collated to the vicarage in June 1349, and held it with Hadstock, to which he was presented ten days before. In 1350 he had leave of absence to attend the Bishop for six months. In April 1355 he had licence to marry a pair in the chapel of Wisbech castle, one being the Bishop's domicellus (personal servant).

(h) Will. Grenefeld.

(i) Ric. de Stanham. "Ric. de Stanmowe" was parson of L. in 1315 (Cal. Pat. Rolls).

(k) Ric. Skydby. "Robert de Skidby" is parson in 1363 (Papal Petitions Reg., vol. 1).

(l) Thomas de Brayton, rector of Campsale in 1344, when he was instituted to L.; next year he had royal brief of absence to attend the King.

p. 121. (a) Symone de Scheppeye, rector of N. (in the Isle) in 1298 (Assize Roll) and again in 1313 (Cal. Pat. Rolls).

(b) Roger. "Roger de Sutton," fellow of Peterhouse (1352), exchanged N. for Qwicheam (Cumberland) in 1394; but this is probably too late.

(c) Galfrid Wantoun. See p. 57 c.

(d) Joh. de Coleryle militis et domine. A "domina de Colville" occurs again at Lolworth (p. 139 a), but by an earlier hand. I cannot identify her or her husband in connexion with this well-known family: see p. 26 a.

(e) Rad. Reynold. The surname has occurred on p. 35.

(f) Galfr. Ateherne.

(g) Nich. de Honiton.

(h) Robt. Michel. One of this name was rector of Newton for a short time in 1349 (Bp's Reg.).

p. 123. (a) W. de Leighton, ordained deacon June 1340; priest March 1340/1; appointed rector of Little Ev. in 1339 by the Prioress of Merkyate (Bedford), and had leave of absence for study in 1340 (Bp's Reg.).

(b) John de Saunfōrd. One "Wm. de S." was presented to Castle Camps by the Earl of Oxford in Ap. 1353.

p. 122. (c) Eversden magna. It does not appear from Dugdale (op. cit., II, pp. 178 ff.) when this was given to S. Alban's. The extravagant Hugo de Eversdon was abbat 1308-1326.

p. 123. (d) Rad. de Beston (cf. p. 85 h). "Rad. de B." of Norfolk occurs as one of the patrons in 1349; and in Nov. 1354 he alone presented Thomas de B. to Toft: also he is sole presenter twice in 1355; in 1375 he seems to have parted with the advowson to the Chancellor of Exeter.

p. 125. Thomas de Hales, rector of H. in 1296 (Cal. Pat. Rolls); and in 1299 (Assize Roll).

p. 124. Caldecote was appropriated to the Canons of S. Giles by Picot in 1092 (Clark, op. cit., p. 40): n.b. it is there called "capella" attached to Brunne.

Kingston was afterwards appropriated in the xvth cent. (1454) to Barnwell priory (Dugdale, op. cit., VI, p. 85).

p. 125. (a) Gydo. "Guido de Mortuo Mari" was rector of Kingston in 1279, when he held a messuage in S. John's parish, Cambridge (Rot. Hundr., II, p. 360). The name occurs again at Doddington on p. 147.

(b) Thomas Bradefield.

(c) Will. chapl. of Stowe.

Rich. de Helmigham. The Calendar of Pat. Rolls mentions a Richard as parson of K. in 1295.

(d) Henry de Spercessal. Is this Spixhall in Suffolk?

p. 126. Brunne (now Bourn) was appropriated to Barnwell as part of Picot's original endowment in 1092 (Clark, op. cit., p. 40).

p. 127. (a) John Wodeward, priest, was instituted to Caxton Dec. 1386 on the presentation of the Dean and Canons of St George's, Windsor. The Cambs. Fines gives him as "chaplain" in C. in 1383 (p. 132) and he is mentioned as still there in 1406 (Bp Fordham's Reg.).

(b) Rich. de Conington is not on Mr Crosby's list, nor does he occur elsewhere in the diocese according to him.

p. 128. Hattele. This is now called H. S. George, from the knightly family of that name, who were owners and patrons in the 14th century and until 1565.

p. 129. (a) domina S. George. "Lady Jane de S. G." had licence of private oratory in 1348 (Bp's Reg.).

p. 128. (b) duo rectores. The rectory is still in mediety, one half belonging to Merton Coll. Oxf., the other held in sinecure by the Vicar who is appointed by the Bp of Ely.

p. 129. (c) domina Howard.

(d) Robt. de Stratoon. "R. Godewyn of Stretton" was collated to the vicarage in July, 1339: somewhere about 1370 to 1378 "R. de Stretton" was rector of Stretham, Ely, and the Cal. of Pap. Reg. Petitions, vol. 1, in Aug. 1361, gives "R. de Stratton D.C.L." as vicar (?) of Stretham.

p. 131. (a) Joh. Gosselyn. "Will. Gosteleyne," of Crauden, occurs as subdeacon in 1354 (Bp's Reg.).

(b) Joh. de Croxton, rector of C., had licence of absence and to farm his church in July, 1377: and the licence was repeated in 1391.

J. rector of Graveley. This is probably "John de Huntynghdon, acolyte," who was presented by Geoffrey le Scrop and instituted 17 Aug. 1338: subdeacon March 1388/9: mentioned in 1342 (Cambs. Fines, p. 105).

(c) Joh. de Pappeworth miles had licence of private oratory at his manor of P. Anneys in 1347 (Bp's Reg.).

(d) W. Papworth. One of this name held a prebend in Norwich cathedral in 1343-4. See also Camb. Fines, p. 129 (in 1376) and p. 142 (in 1403).

(e) Beatrice Hervey. It may be only a coincidence that John Harvey is given as rector here in 1383¹ and that ds. Thos. Hervey, rector of Stow-cum-Quy, exchanged to Papw. S. Agnes in 1403 (Bp Fordham's Reg.).

p. 133. (a) I. de la Haye, rector of Papw. Ev. in 1370 (Cole MSS.). For the surname see p. 93 i. We have also "John de la Haye" mentioned in connexion with the manor and advowson of "Pappeworth" in 1324 (Camb. Fines, p. 90).

I. de Chaumberlegh left Landbeach for Eltisle in 1299 (Clay, Landbeach): Cal. Pat. Rolls in 1294 gives him as the rector of Landbeach.

(b) domina Agnes de Stouwe. "John de Stowe and wife" are connected with the manor of Eltisley in 1334 (Camb. Fines, p. 100), but that man's wife appears to have been Elena in 1342 (p. 105).

(c) Joh. Andr (?).

p. 132. Knapwell is now annexed to Conington.

p. 135. Robt. de Recteford is rector in 1307 (Pap. Letters).

(a) John de Couplond, "parson of the ch. of Ellesworth" in 1342 (Camb. Fines, p. 105); he was already rector in 1325, "John de Botell in Cowpelond," when he was dispensed from illegitimacy (Pap. Letters).

(b) Joh. de Merton was rector of E. and advocate of the Court of Canterbury in Dec. 1356 (Islip's Reg.). He was there still in 1363 and resigned in Feb. 1366 (Cal. of Pap. Petitions, vol. 1) on preferment to dignity in Lichfield cathedral. He had held Toft 1349-1354: acolyte Dec. 1349, and had licence of absence for seven years' study: deacon March 1359. He is mentioned in 1375 (Camb. Fines, p. 125).

(c) Agnes, wife of Thomas Ely de E. In 1329 we have "John fil' Thomas de Ellesworth and Agnes his wife" (Camb. Fines, p. 96: see also p. 124).

(d) W. de Croxton.

(e) Agnes de Conynton occurs at Conington in 1292 (Cambs. Fines, p. 60: see also p. 84 in 1317): see also Rot. Hundr., II, pp. 466 f., where she twice appears as “Dua Angnes de Comtone” (?).

(f) Walter de Dodington, parson of Fen Drayton in Febr. 1339/40 (Bp Montacute's Reg.): ? still rector in 1372 (Cal. Pat. Rolls).

p. 137. (a) Rich. atte Poend of Dry Drayton, priest, was presented to Ch. Magna by Robt Tullyet son of Rich. T. of Camb. and instituted in Sept. 1349 (Bp's Reg.). He died here in 1377.

No rector named “Robert” appears at present, till Robt Merston in 1404.

p. 139. (a) Domina de Colville. See above, p. 122 d. “Henry de C.” was parson at Lolleworth in 1294 (Cal. Pat. Rolls).

(b) Will. de Lolleworth, “clerk” in 1313 (Cambs. Fines, p. 80). This is more likely to be the donor referred to than “Will. Pateryk” who was rector 1375-7.

(c) Joh. Walkelyn. One of this name was vicar of Impington 1351-5, and collated to Swavesey in 1362. There were Wakelins at Quy (Cambs. Fines, pp. 39 and 91).

(d) Thos. de Castro Bernardi, a well-known person. He was instituted to Lolleworth in July 1377, when he is styled clericus: he resigned in 1382 (Bp's Reg.). He was then instituted to Risebergh on condition that he returned to L., if he was deprived of R. In May 1388 he was presented by Philip de Tylneye to the free chapel of Haveringham in Stretham; and three days later he exchanged for a canonry and prebendal stall of Auckland. In March 1381/2 he was collated to Haddenham exchanging it for Risebergh (as above) on April 3 the same year. On June 27, 1382, he was collated to Little Gransden (on exchange from Risebergh) which two days later he exchanged again for Berkyng: and this for Bluntisham in 1384. In Sept. 1387 (yet again by exchange) he was presented by the King to Cottenham and held it at least until 1408. He was Master of Peterhouse 1400-18 and gave a book to the Univ. Libr. (Bradshaw's Papers, p. 33). [Much of this curious information is due to Mr Crosby.]

(e) Robt. Musters, parson of L. in 1334 (Cambs. Fines, p. 100).

(f) Robt. de Thorp (see for surname, p. 35). He is mentioned as “chevaler” at Marchesford and Dodington in 1350 (Cambs. Fines, p. 112), and Sir Will. de Th. was attorney to the feoffees in a presentation to L. in 1391.

(g) Hannysia...de Bok., perhaps the wife of Laurence de B. who is mentioned at B. in 1308 (Cambs. Fines, p. 75).

(h) Joh. Aleyn. Evidently the Aleyns were in force at B., though I cannot identify this one: see notes i and m below, and p. 164 g. One at Oakington, p. 80, cf. p. 241.

(i) de armis Francie. See above, p. 43 b.

(k) Henr. Godfrey.

(l) Will. Aleyn. Will. Aleyn of Boxw. is mentioned as one of the founders of the chantry of S. Mary the Virgin at Burgh in 1407 (Bp's Reg.).

(m) Laurence Aleyn at Ellesworth and Knapwell in 1391 (Cambs. Fines, p. 137).

(n) J. Upton was presented to B. in May 1389 by John Knyvet on exchange from Kippax, Yorks: the following month he had leave to farm his church and study in a University. In Aug. 1396 he exchanged for Asshendon, London. The John de Upton, who is mentioned as member of the Papal Audience Chamber in 1376 (Arundel's Reg. f. 19 b), was perhaps the same or a relation.

p. 140. (a) Prior of Swavesey. See p. 6 a. The rectory of Swavesey was transferred with the Benedictine cell there to S. Anne's Carthusian house in 1393 (Dugdale, Monast., vi, p. 1001).

p. 141. (b) Lucas vic.

(c) Ric. fil' Rad. cap. "Ric. fil' Rad. tenet v acras per cartam" at Swavesey in 1279 (Rot. Hundr., ii, p. 471). It is possible that this is the donor referred to.

p. 140. Littleport was appropriated to the Hospital of S. Mary Magdalen about 1225 by Bp Geoffrey de Burgo (Dugdale, op. cit., vi, p. 755 and Bentham, Ely, p. 146). About 1240 this house was merged into one with that of S. John (hence the statement in the text), and they have been since 1561 the property of Clare College. Interesting remains are still to be seen and at Croxton there is the brass of Dr Leeds, who gave it to the college.

p. 141. (d) Will. Code. It is possible that this is the same as "Will. Code defuncti" at Bottisham (p. 49 i). The dates of the scripts (*B*³ here and *F*² there) are however against it.

(f) Will. de L. vicar of Pinchebek, in Lines. near Spalding. I have little doubt that this is the man of that name who was Prior of Spalding (1274–1293) and rebuilt the parish church as well as the conventual church there. It is strange that he should only be called “vicar of Pinchbeck” in our entry, unless the gift dated from the time when he was only cellarer of the House: he may then have been in charge of Pinchbeck which belonged to the Priory. During his term of office he had also special connexions with this parish (see Dugdale’s note g on p. 209 of vol. III of the Monasticon). The present vicar (Rev. F. F. Wayet) says he is counted as vicar in 1274.

(g) Walter Bindenbere. “Walter de Bredar” was vicar of L. 1379–1385 but the date is too late for the script (*C*²) and the surnames are not very much like one another!

Stephen vic. (1309). ?The same as “Steph. rect.” in a later hand (*D*¹). Steph. is mentioned as vicar here in 1301 (Bp West’s Reg. f. 133); and in 1373 “Steph. de Manewden” exchanged this living for Lakenheath.

(h) frater Thomas de Ore. “Ore” is in Sussex but perhaps this stands for “Over.” Was the brother one of the inmates of S. John’s Hospital?

p. 142. S. Mary’s, Ely, was very early appropriated to the Sacrist’s office (probably by Bp Hervey) according to Bentham, op. cit., pp. 127 and 135.

capella de Sturteueye. This chapelry was given to the monastery by Wolfstan of Delham about 955 (Bentham, op. cit., p. 70). For the Sacrist’s rights there see ibid., p. 127. It has still a special connexion with the Cathedral Church.

(a) Wilburton was appropriated to the Archdeacon “before 1291” (Bentham, op. cit., p. 271): that of course is clear from the statement here, but the exact date does not appear to be ascertained. It had belonged to the Monastery originally (pp. 75 and 79): see below, pp. 183 f.

The date of this entry is the oldest given in the book (1278) and belongs to the Archdeaconry of R. de Walpole (see p. 286).

Why Haddenham is not included in these inventories is not clear: but there are several other similar omissions (see Introd., p. xxxiii n.).

(b) custodie. See above, p. 51 g.

p. 143. (c) episcopi Norwyc. This is in all probability the Archdeacon mentioned above, as he became Bishop of Norwich in 1289 (see further, p. 286).

p. 142. (d) Chatteriz was appropriated to the nuns by Bp Nigel (1133–1169): see Dugdale, op. cit., II. 615.

p. 143. (e) Gilbert Goze (see p. 69 f). "Gilbert Goze" held land in Bidenham (Beds.) of John de Kirkeby (Rot. Hundr., II, p. 327).

(f) Gild of Corpus Christi. See above, p. 55 a. Interesting accounts of pre-Reformation Gilds, which were often in close connexion with Corpus Christi, will be found in Trans. of Suffolk Inst. of Archæol. vol. XI, pp. 81 ff. (St. Peter's Gild at Bardwell) and vol. XII, pp. 1 ff. (St. Nicholas's Gild, Bury St. Edm.). At Bardwell the Gild possessed three banners (p. 111).

p. 144. (a) S. Mary's, Whittlesey was appropriated to the (mitred) Abbat of the Benedictine house of Thorney by Bp Hervey of Ely (Dugl. op. cit., II, p. 604): see also p. 21 above and p. 184 below.

p. 145. (b) Ric. de la Bave. Perhaps a mistake for "Mare." "R. de la Mare" owned land at Little Paxton, Hants. (Rot. Hundr., II, 674) and a later "R. de la Mare and Isabella his wife" are at Camb. and Fen Ditton in 1351 (Cambs. Fines, p. 113).

(c) Rob. de Elisworth was instituted in Dec. 1379: Arundel's Reg. fol. 48 says he exchanged to Arrington in 1383 but fol. 32 says it was to Haxey in 1392.

(d) Robt. de Thorneye, probably one of the brothers of the Abbey.

p. 144. S. Andrew's, Whit. was appropriated to the Precentor of Ely by Bp Nigel (1133-1169) (Bentham, op. cit., p. 128).

p. 145. (e) John Everard (for the surname see p. 111 above). Joh. Everard is mentioned at Fowlmere (Rot. Hundr., II, p. 547) and the surname occurs later on at Impynton and Histon (Cambs. Fines, p. 147) and at Wisbech (p. 157).

p. 144. (f) Benewyge was in Doddington parish until 1856, when an Act was passed making it a separate parish.

p. 146. Witcham was appropriated to the Prior of Ely by Bp de Fontibus (p. 1220-25) (Bentham, op. cit., p. 146).

p. 147. (a) Joh. Calstyn.

(b) Alicia de Linea. If this means "of Lynn," we may perhaps identify her with "Alice de Len" at Cambridge in 1297 (Cambs. Fines, p. 64) and in 1305 (p. 71). See also above p. 49 d. But I think it not unlikely that it stands for Linyeve (or Linyive) of which several instances occur in the county (Rot Hundr., II): for instance Alicia Linyeve at Haslingfield (p. 557) in 1279.

p. 146. (c) March was also in Doddington till 1868, when the act of 1856 came into effect, which divided that enormous and very rich living into 7, of which March now contains 4. The old Church of S. Wendreda was built about 1346.

p. 147. (d) Roberti Lyle. This is no doubt Robert de Lisle who was summoned to Parliament as Baron between the years 1311 and 1342. Later on he took orders, after settling various manors in the county on his kinswoman Alice de Lisle (Burke, Extinct Peerages, p. 316). See Cambs. Fines, p. 83 in 1315, and for a later R. p. 139 in 1394.

(h) parvus de Eylesham. See Index B, p. 308.

(k) Hugo de Notingham. In 1298 he was presented to D. by the King sede vacante (Cal. Pat. Rolls). This is no doubt the Hugo also mentioned under March above; but he was preceded by a "Hugo de Cressingham" in 1294 (Cal. Pat. Rolls).

p. 149. (a) Robt Rayen[hill] inceptor in civil law (in 1379). His name can be restored in full from the next two entries, the former of which reveals him as Rob. R. junior who had then only graduated as bachelor in decrees (in 1374) and the second appears to give his mark (a rosette) as notary (in 1386). See p. 170 e below.

(b) Joh. Chryschirch. See Excursus A, p. 286.

p. 150. (a) inter cetera &c. This is a rather free and defective text of ut parochiani of Archbp Winchelsey (1305), Lyndewode, Pror. lib. 3 tit. 27.

(b) item precipimus &c. This last sentence does not belong to Winchelsey's ordinance and is perhaps a special provision for the Ely diocese.

(c) H. Hamerton, rector of Horsheath. One of this name (clericus) is mentioned at Haverhill in 1404 (Suffolk Fines, p. 276).

(d) Thomas Dalby. See Excursus A, p. 286. This is the only place where he occurs in our MS.

THE KALENDAR (pp. 151—160).

It has seemed on the whole simplest and best to make what explanations, notes and comments are desirable on this part of the MS. without giving the numeral references to them one by one in the text as has been done, to a considerable extent, in the rest of it. The reader will therefore bear in mind, if he goes through the Kalendar month by month, that what he seeks by way of explanation has either been supplied, where it was possible, in these notes, or can be found in standard works on the subject, like Hampson, Medii Aevi Kalendarium; Bp J. Dowden, Church Year and Calendar (1910); Le Mas Latrie, Chronologie; U. Chevalier, Repertoire du moyen âge (1895); R. Stanton, Menology of England and Wales; Murray's Dictionaries of Christian Antiquities and Biography.

I. The greater part of the text presents few unusual features. It consists of the first ten months of the year in regular order, and the original entries are in a 13th cent. hand. No one who is acquainted with medieval Kalendars will be surprised that only a selection of saints are commemorated, that some of the more common names are omitted, and some less common ones inserted: among these latter are to be found, as might be expected in an English Kalendar, a good many names connected with N. W. Christendom, such as: Jan. 5 Oct. sancti Thome martiris, Jan. 13 Remigii: see also Oct. 1, Feb. 3 sancti Blasii martiris, Feb. 6 Vedasti et Amandi episcoporum, Feb. 11 sancte Radegundis virginis (a 15th cent. addition): see also Aug. 13 (a 13th cent. addition), March 1 sancti Davidis conf. (14th cent. addition), March 2 sancti Cedde confessoris (late 14th cent.), March 17 sancte Withburge virginis (13th cent.), March 18 Eduardi Regis (14th cent.), March 20 Cuthberti pontificis, Ap. 19 Alphegi archiepiscopi et martiris (red), Ap. 30 Erchenwaldi episcopi, May 7 deposicio sancti Johannis Beverlaci (15th cent.), May 19 Dunstani archiepiscopi (red), May 25 Aldelmi episcopi, May 26 Augustini Anglorum apostoli (red), May 28 Germani episcopi (13th cent. addition): see also July 31 and Oct. 1, June 9 translatio sancti Edmundi de Pontiniaco (14th cent.), June 17 Botulfi abbatis (13th cent.), and (in a later 13th cent. hand) translatio sancti Richardi conf. Cicestr., June 22 Albani protomartyris (red), June 23 Etheldrede virginis regine et abbatisse (red), July 6 sancte Sexburge (c. 1300), July 7 translacio sancti Thome martiris (red), July 8 translacio sancte Withburge virginis (c. 1300), July 15 translacio sancti Swithini (red), July 22 Wandreg' abbatis, July 31 Neoti abbatis (13th cent. addition), Aug. 5 Oswaldi regis et martiris (red), Aug. 20 Filiberti abbatis, Aug. 24 Audoeni conf. (red), Sept. 17 sancti Lamberti capellani¹ (c. 1300), Oct. 2 Leodegarii episcopi et martiris, Oct. 7 Osithe virginis (red), Oct. 17 translacio Etheldrede virginis, Oct. 25 translacio sancti Johannis Beverlacensis (15th cent.). The number of translations may be noticed (10 in all throughout the Kalendar); also the number of English names and especially those of female saints (the three sister queens Sexburga, Withburga and Etheldreda; Radegund and Osith), but neither of these points seems to throw light on the question of the original provenance or subsequent use made of the Kalendar: see further below.

It is unfortunate that the last two months of the year are missing: we should have known from them, among other things, whether S. Eustace was still commemorated in this Kalendar on Nov. 2, as he is in the Kalendar of about the same date (?) prefixed to the Liber Memorandorum ecclesie de Barnewell (Clark, 1907) without any commemoratio animarum (p. 13): see my note on this matter, p. 4 (a).

II. The Provost of King's, in his description of the MS. (in the published Catalogue of Caius MSS.) has suggested that our Kalendar may have come from a book once belonging to the Augustinian Priory of Barnwell, because S. Augustine "our father" (Aug. 28) is in red and has an octave. He shares his red ink here with S. Dunstan, S. Augustine "the apostle of the English," S. Etheldred and many others (see below on April 19); and the title "our father" as applied to him does not occur in the Barnwell Kalendar (op. cit., p. 10). It does occur however in Whytford's² Martiloge for Oct. 11, the feast of "the translaeyon of our holy fader Saynt Augustyne" (of Hippo), a date which is marked in the Barnwell book as well as here, as the Octave of Aug. 28 also is; and Ebner (Iter Italicum, p. 134) gives "Aug. 28 Augustini ep. (red with octave)" from a very interesting MS. (13th cent.) which belonged to the Augustinian Church at Jerusalem and is now in Rome, and this also has "Oct. 11 transl. Augustini ep.": cf. ibid., p. 161. There is therefore some support for the Provost's suggestion, which may be said at present to hold the field.

² Whytford was a brother of the Brigittines at Syon, who observed the Rule of S. Augustine (H. B. S. edn, p. xxviii).

III. On the other hand Mr Evelyn White (East Anglian, Notes and Queries (new series), vol. XI, p. 305) maintains that it is from a Book of Hours. Several of the additions and annotations at least indicate that in course of time it came to be used eventually by a layman at his devotions—perhaps by more than one in succession; but we are hardly justified in deducing that it was ever actually bound up with a Book of Hours.

What the additions and annotations of this kind are must now be mentioned:—(1) Jan. 24 "Disponsatus" (late 14th cent.) and in margin "dies lune" (14th cent.): (2) Feb. 6 "natus erat Iohannes" (late 14th cent.): (3) Apr. 4 (in margin) "Rosa Aldreth decessit" (late 14th cent.): (4) Apr. 8 Obitus Matildis (13th cent.): (5) Apr. 13 Obitus Radulphi Brito (13th cent.): (6) July 5 (in margin) "natus sum s." (late 13th cent.¹): (7) Aug. 4 (in margin) "morbatur filius meus" (late 14th cent.): (8) Aug. 16 "Obitus Iohannis filii magistri Iohannis de Eltisle anno domini m^o ccc^{mo} lvi^o" (14th cent.): (9) Sept. 27 "Obitum Willelmi Huntynfeld" (in red charter hand of 13th cent.).

Putting these nine entries in their chronological order under the guidance of the one precise date (1356) and the evidence of the handwritings, we may hazard the following account of them:—"Ralph Brito" (5) and (? his wife) "Matilda" (4) died about 1250, as did also "William Huntingfield" (9), a person of some importance in his day judging by the style of this entry. The first owner of the Kalendar, who ex hypothesi acquired it from the Augustinians in the earlier part of the 14th century, "was born" (6) in 1260: he was possibly related to Ralph Brito and Matilda, and may be the elder "John de Eltisle" (8) whose son "John" died in 1356. A later owner than he was "betrothed" (1) about 1380: his son "John" (2), the offspring of the marriage, was "born" soon after and "died" (7) before 1400, as also did "Rose Aldreth" (3).

With regard to these names themselves a few further guesses or suggestions may be made. (a) As to "Ralph Brito": the surname in that form occurs several times in Camb. Fines (viz. pp. 3, 10, 11, 13 and 16), and as "le Bret" (pp. 4, 53, 69, 73): of these the last two refer to Radulphus le Bret of Dukesworth in 1303 and 1306, and he may be a son of the man whose obit is here given, and the others relatives. (b) "William Huntingfield" was no doubt a member of a family of great importance throughout the Eastern counties. Can he be the Wm de H. who was justice itinerant, sheriff of Norfolk and Suffolk, mentioned by Matthew Paris, who joined the Barons in support of Magna Carta and who died about 1249 (see Dict. of Nat. Biogr. s.v.)? Another Wm de H. was master of the Hospital of St Thomas de Acon in 1267. The heir (Roger) of a Wm de H. is mentioned in 1316 (Suffolk Archæol. Trans. vol. XI, p. 187) and another, Wm de H., knight, held the manor of Bokesworth in 1376 (Cambs. Fines, p. 129: see also p. 41). Of these three the last certainly, and the second probably, are too late for the entry: the first however is possible. (c) John de Eltisle "father and son" belonged to another important county family, and the exact date (1356) being given makes the entry additionally interesting. John de E. and Matilda his wife in Newenton (! Newton) are mentioned in 1272, Cambs. Fines, p. 45: this might be the elder of the two Johns here mentioned if our former suggestion is wrong: the date is apparently too late for the "Matilda" whom we have otherwise conjecturally disposed of. (d) "Rosa Aldreth" it is difficult to place with any certainty. The surname is a corruption of "Etheldreda," and appears also in the "Aldreth causeway and bridge over the Ouse by which the Isle of Ely was connected with the rest of the county between Haddenham and Rampton" (C. C. Babington, Anc. Cambs., pp. 79 ff.). "Geoffrey de Aldrethe, chaplain" before 1279 gave away a messuage in Cambridge (Stokes, Before Trumpington Gates, p. 8): our entry belongs to a date 100 years later than this; see also Cambs. Fines, p. 117 (1357).

IV. It seems natural to deal next with the more definitely historical notes, which one or other of the former owners has added to the Kalendar. Some of these are connected with our national history and some have a more local bearing, while one is of a more general interest altogether: I mean that found affixed to Apr. 18 Isto die erat papa Urbanus vj coronatus etc. an. [mccc]lxxviii: this was Bartolomeo Prignano crowned 1378, under whom began the great Western Schism.

The notes which relate to English history are these:—(a) ¶ Bellum de Lewes anno domini m^{cc}clx[iii] quarto decimo die maii domini Edwardi (?) : (b) June 11 decollacio magistri Simonis Sudbury anno domini m^occc^olxxxi hoc die Iulii archiepiscopi Cantuar. : this took place during the rebellion of Wat Tyler 1381 ; (c) July 1 Isto die apparuit Hen[ricus] de D[erby] apud Ravenserspur m^occclxxxix. Henry landed at Ravenspur on the coast of Yorkshire in 1399, by which time he was known as Duke of Hereford rather than as Earl of Derby ; (d) July 12 Capcio comitis Arundell...m^occclxxxvij : the Earl of Arundel was arrested and executed in 1397 : see below (h). (e) Aug. 4 ¶ Bellum apud Evesham anno domini m^occ^olxxv : (f) Aug. 19 Capcio Regis Ricardi in Wall' anno regni sui xxij^o et anno domini m^occc^olxxxix^o litera dominie' e : (g) Sept. 19 Anno domini m^occclvi^o captus est Iohannes Rex Francie [apud] Peyters per nobilem principem Edwardum filium Regis Anglie : (h) Sept. 21 [Deco]ll[atio] comitis [Arundell] apud turrem London. [anno dni m^occc^o] lxxxvij^o : this restoration of the text though so largely conjectural is consonant with the facts of history : (i) Oct. 13 Coronacio Regis Henrici iij^o anno domini m^occclxxxix apud Westmonasterium : (k) Oct. 25 (note inserted at bottom of page) Bellum de Agincourt fuit in die Crispini et Crispiniani in Picardia per Henricum quintum Regem Anglie anno domini m^occcc^oxxv^o in die veneris. Also against Crispin's day itself it is noted : Translacio sancti Iohannis Beverlaceyensis († 721). His observance was decreed in 1416 and the victory of Agincourt no doubt brought SS. Crispin and Crispinian into prominence at the same time (see Wordsworth, Salisbury Ceremonies, p. 260 and Shakespeare, Henry V, Act iv sc. iii). The fact that most of these historical notes as well as the first of the local notes (a) below belong to the end of the 14th and beginning of the 15th centuries seems to indicate that the last possessor of the Kalendar (as has been already conjectured) belonged to the same period and took a keen interest and perhaps an active share in the events recorded. Ragenhill's note on p. 182 deals with the same period (v. p. 170).

The purely local notes are as follows : (a) March 2 ¶ Presens festum fuit...le anno domini m^occc^olxxxiij^o in universitate Cantabr' Mr I. Burgh tunc Cancellario per Robertum Foliaumb. It is tantalizing to be unable to decipher the fourth word in this note which evidently refers to the introduction of S. Cedde (sic) into the Kalendar. There is always much confusion between Ceadda (Chad) Bp of Lichfield and Cedde his brother, Bishop of the East Saxons. The person here meant is without doubt S. Chad : the observance of his festival together with that of S. David (March 1) and S. Winifred (Nov. 3) was ordered in 1415 (Wilkins, Concilia, III, 376, quoted by C. Wordsworth, op. cit., p. 260), but here we have it in some way referred to an earlier date (1384); in that year John de Burgh took the oath to the Bp of Ely as Chancellor of the University on Nov. 24 (Baker MS. 40. 233, quoted by Stokes, Univ. Bedells, p. 61). There is an interesting note in the Barnwell Kalendar (Clark, op. cit., p. 5) with regard to the introduction of S. David's and S. Chad's days, but that belongs to the year 1468: and further information will be found in Wordsworth. (b) Aug. 12 Interfectio iudeorum apud Cant' and (in margin) Anno domini m^occ^olxx^o sexto dominicali litera C. For Jews in Cambridge see Cooper, Annals, vol. I, pp. 17, 49 etc. and Stokes, Jews in England, pp. 103 ff. In 1266 Sir John Deyville captured many of them and exacted high ransoms; but their protection was ordered for two years. By 1290 however they were ordered to be finally banished from the town: see Clark, op. cit., pp. 225 f. (c) Oct. 1 Obitus Io. Aleock episcopi Eliensis anno domini mcccc: for this see note to p. 207. Besides these three notices, a considerable number of national and local saints are commemorated, as has been already remarked, and separate notes on them will be found further on in the order of their occurrence.

V. A full account of the various signs and abbreviations most of which are common to this with other Kalendars cannot be given here, but it is well to explain or discuss some of them:—(1) D' or D will be found twice in each month. This marks the dies Egyptiaci (or unlucky days) in each month and their place is indicated by the poor Latin hexameter verses at the head of each page; e.g. for January Primo dies iani septenuaque detur inani; in accordance with this tag D stands against the first day at the beginning and the seventh from the end of the month. (2) The two hexameter lines at the bottom of the January page long puzzled us, until we were lucky enough to get the following solution from Mr J. A. Herbert (of the British Museum) thus:—

Jan.	Feb.	Mar.	Ap.	May	June	July
AlGeo	DiCit	ADam	LiMo	CinGuor	LiQuet	OLim
1 7	4 3	1 4	10 11	3 7	10 15	13 10
Aug.	Sep.	Oct.	Nov.	Dec.
AlBeo	CeLestis	CaLor	ExCludit	GaLienum
1 2	3 10	3 10	5 3	7 10

That is to say the capital letters in each word, being the beginnings of its first two syllables, give the clue (as above) to the dies Egyptiaci in each month throughout the year. The lines themselves may be translated thus¹: "I am cold, saith Adam, I am up to the waist in mud—that is clear from of old—I am white (with the cold): heaven's heat drives Galen (the doctor) away." See Hampson, Medii Aevi Kalendarium, who also quotes MS. Egerton 2261 f. 210 for another form (emended by Mr Herbert).

linquit olens abies coluit colus escula galli.

(3) "Claves" against Jan. 7 means the claves (clue) termini Septuagesime; see Bp J. Dowden, Church Year, p. 102, though he actually mentions the claves Quadragesime, not Septuagesime. (4) On March 1st we have hic mutantur concurrentes and on 24th locus concurr[entium]. The concurrents were a series 1, 2, 3, 4, 6, 7, 1, 2, 4, 5 etc. running parallel with the solar cycle and marking the years according to the number of days over an exact number of weeks at the beginning of each year, the jumps in the series being due to leap years. Their use was to give the day of the week on March 24 necessary for calculating Easter, and so people did not trouble to change them till March 1. See Giry, Manuel de Diplomatique, s.v. (5) We have on March 5th "vitus emb.", on March 6th "ijj emb.", on Aug. 2nd "vj emb." and on Sept. 2 "ij emb." In a cycle of 19 years to correct the discrepancy between lunar and solar years a 13th lunation (or moon period) had to be inserted (hence embolismus = insertion) in seven ordinary years, the other 12 years remaining normal, i.e. with only 12 lunations. The column of Roman Numerals to the left of the page in the Kalendar gives the "Golden Numbers," which likewise has to do with this cycle of 19 years. These entries give 4 out of the 7 points when the extra lunations were to begin in the cycle, the 1st, 4th and 5th being missing, because they occurred in Nov. and Dec. (6) Jan. 18th was the earliest and Feb. 22nd the latest possible date for Septuagesima: hence prima lxx^a and ultima lxx^a respectively on these two days. This will also explain the similar notes on March 22, May 10 and June 13.

(7) March 27 is the traditional day of the actual Resurrection: hence the words resurrectio Domini prima against that day. On May 19 we find ante Pentecosten more oct. Post Pentecosten ix lec., which we may conclude means that if S. Dunstan's day falls before Whitsunday it is to be treated more octave (i.e. with 3 lections?), and if after, it is to have 9 lections. (8) On Sept. 24 we read hic mutantur indictiones. Indictions (= periods of 15 years) instituted by Constantine the Great Jan. 1, 313, were of three kinds (a) Greek, which began Sept. 1, (b) Imperial (or Caesarian) which began on Sept. 25 and (c) Pontifical, which were reckoned from Jan. 1st or Dec. 25th (Hampson, op. cit. II p. 224). Here therefore it is the Caesarian Indictions that are indicated. Pontifical Indictions seem to be referred to on p. 2, etc. above.

VI. It is not necessary to give a list of those days to which ix or iii lections are assigned. There is considerable variation as to this in all medieval Kalendars. But there is another liturgical note which occurs frequently throughout and which is uncommon. Either before or after the note as to lections, in a good many cases are added the words "more oct[ave]." This, one concludes, means that the festival is to be treated with the same dignity and observances as if it were an octave.

VII. In the notes that follow reference is often omitted to names that have no special interest for English readers.

Jan. 13. S. Hilary was Bp of Poitiers († 368). For S. Remigius see Oct. 1.

Jan. 14. Felicitas in pincis. Interesting accounts of this saint, who was a priest of Nola in the 3rd century, will be found both under his name (in D.C.B. II p. 499) and under that of Paulinus of Nola (IV pp. 236 ff.). In pincis, which is the form found in medieval Kalendars, yields no satisfactory sense and is thought to be a corruption of in pineis (viz. in the pinewoods outside Nola, where the saint's burial place still exists).

Jan. 15. S. Maurus († 584) was founder and abbat of the first Benedictine monastery in France at Glanfeuil on the Loire.

Jan. 28. Agnetis secundo. See Dowden, Church Year, p. 71 for this unusual way of denoting an octave.

Feb. 3. S. Blasius, Bp of Sebaste in Armenia († 316), had a special cult in England as patron of the Woolcombers.

Feb. 6. S. Vedast, Bp of Arras († 540), is less commonly commemorated on this day than S. Arnaud, Bp of Maestricht († 646) and seems to have been a later addition to the Church Kalendar: but see Delisle, Mém. sur d'anc. Sacram., pp. 190 and 291.

Feb. 11. S. Rhodegund was the virgin wife of King Clotaire and died 587. Her nunnery at Cambridge¹, as is well known, was turned into Jesus College 1496. The entry here is a 15th century addition, whereas the entry on Aug. 13 is in a 13th century hand. The Leofric Missal (Warren, p. 21) has Pictaris scē radegundis virginis on Feb. 11 and no mention of her on Aug. 13.

March 7. S. Thome Aquini. This is a 15th century addition. S. Thomas Aquinas, Doctor Angelicus, was canonized in 1313. For the form Aquini, see H. B. S. ed. of Whytford's Martiloge, p. 213.

March 17. Scē Withburga was one of S. Etheldreda's two sisters and foundress of a convent at East Dereham, Norfolk. This is a 13th century addition. Her translation occurs on July 8 below (in an earlier hand?) but lined through.

March 18. Eduardi Regis. He was King of Wessex († 979). The story of his being murdered by his step-mother, who ordered a poisoned stirrup-cup to be given to him at Corfe castle, is well known.

March 20. Cuthbert pontifex, the famous Bp of Lindisfarne († 687): see p. 163 b, above.

April 19. Alphege was Archbishop of Canterbury, murdered by the Danes in 1012. His body was removed from St Paul's to Canterbury by King Cnut in 1023. He was apparently placed in the English Kalendar by either Lanfranc or Anselm towards the end of the 11th century; and is one of three Archbishops of Canterbury entered in this Kalendar in red ink, the other two being S. Dunstan (May 19) and S. Augustine (May 26); Bp Erchenwald of London (Apr. 30) is another English worthy so treated, as are also King Oswald (Aug. 5), S. Alban (June 22), S. Etheldreda (June 23), and S. Osith (Oct. 7).

April 30. Erchenwald was Bishop of London (675–693) and, being noted for his sanctity, is not infrequently commemorated in English Kalendars.

May 7. deposicio sci Johannis Beverlaci. This entry is in a 15th century hand, as is also the entry of his "translation" on Oct. 25. He was Bishop of York 705–718 and died at Beverley in 721, where he was buried (Bede, Hist. v, 6): then in 1037 he was canonized and his remains transferred in state to York. See further above on p. 262.

May 9. Translatio sci Nicolai. The duplication of this entry first in red (but not the usual hand) and then in black is curious. It was one of the feast days introduced into the Kalendar before the middle of the 15th century (Wordsworth, Sul. Cer., pp. 260 f.).

May 19. S. Dunstan was Archbishop of Canterbury (924–988). His place in the English Kalendar is due to an enactment of King Cnut.

May 25. Abbelm was the first Bishop of Sherborne (705–9) and a writer of poetry.

May 26. S. Augustine, the first Archbishop of Canterbury († 604), is too well known to need description here.

May 28. Germanus episcopus. This name occurs not only on this date but on July 31 and Oct. 1. It is supposed that the saint here commemorated is the well-known Bishop of Paris († 576) and that the other two dates refer to the death and translation of another famous Germanus, Bishop of Auxerre († 448).

June 8. Medard, Bishop of Noyon, and Gildard, Bishop of Rouen, were brothers who perished together in 545.

June 9. S. Edmund Rich, of Abingdon, Archbishop of Canterbury (1233–40), died at Pontigny, where his remains are still enshrined. He was canonized in 1247.

June 17. S. Botulf was abbat of a monastery probably at Boston, Lincs. († 655).

S. Richard, of Wych, Bishop of Chichester († 1253), was canonized in 1262, the translation took place in 1276 from his first grave to the shrine, which Henry VIII ordered to be destroyed in 1538. He is commemorated in our present Kalendar on April 4.

June 22. Albani prothomartyris. He was canonized by Adrian I at the instance of Offa, King of the Mercians, about 793.

June 23. S. Etheldreda († 679) was one of the daughters of Anna, the Christian King of East Anglia; though twice married, she remained a virgin, and in 672 took the veil and next year founded the double monastery at Ely, which afterwards passed through many vicissitudes. Her translation (to the new church in 1106) is commemorated on Oct. 17 in this Kalendar.

July 4. Translation of S. Martin (+ Magus, 14th century). This is the famous Bishop of Tours († 397) who would be found commemorated on Nov. 11, if that page was not missing: the next day (Nov. 12) was early associated with S. Martin, the first Pope of that name († 655): see Batiffol, Hist. du Brève. Rom., pp. 121 and 129. The addition of "Magnus" here is evidently due to the owner's desire to save confusion. For S. Martin Le Grand, London, see p. 197 a.

July 6. Sancto Seeburge (lined through in red). She was Queen of Kent and S. Etheldreda's eldest sister († circa. 700). Part of the church she founded at Minster in Sheppey is still standing.

July 8. Translatio sancte Withburge virginis (lined through in red): see above on March 17.

July 15. Translatio sc̃i Swithini. This is another well-known commemoration. S. Swithin, Bishop of Winchester, died July 2, 862: he was translated 971 and afterwards brought into the new Cathedral 1094.

July 22. Wandreg(isilus) was founder and first abbat of Fontanelle in Normandy († 667).

July 26. Sc̃e Anne matris Marie. This commemoration was introduced into England in 1383 (Wordsworth, op. cit. p. 260).

July 31. Germani ep̃i. See above on May 28.

Neoti abbatis. He was a Cornish priest and confessor, the adviser of King Alfred († 877). His remains were removed from S. Neot's, Cornwall, to S. Neot's, Hunts., by King Edgar in the 10th century.

Aug. 5. Oswaldi Regis et mart. He died at the battle of Maserfield fighting against the heathen Penda in 642: see Bede, Hist. iii 9. His head was removed to the coffin of S. Cuthbert at Lindisfarne by S. Aidan in 875.

Aug. 13. Sc̃e Radegundis. See above on Feb. 11.

Aug. 19. Magni martyris. He was Archbishop of Sens and confidant of Charles the Great († 818): there is no very strong evidence of his being actually a martyr, though he is so styled here and elsewhere.

Aug. 20. Filiberti abbatis. He was founder and first abbat of the monastery of Jumièges in Normandy († 684).

Aug. 24. Audoeni conf. This is the Archbishop of Rouen, who is familiar to us as S. Ouen († 683). He was the author of a valuable life of S. Eligius and, if by any chance this Kalendar was once connected with the Barnwell priory, that may account for the entry being in red.

Aug. 28. Augustini patris nostri. See above on pp. 262 f.

Sept. 1. Egidii abbatis. He was a very popular saint under the name of S. Giles in England : for his connexion with Cambridge and Barnwell, see e.g. Clark, op. cit., p. xxxiv. Numerous as are the legends about him, the one thing that seems fairly certain is that he was an abbat in Languedoc during the latter part of the 7th century.

Aug. 17. Sei Lamberti. He was Bishop of Maestricht and suffered martyrdom in 708—according to one account for rebuking the evil deeds of Pippin. I am at a loss to account for the title capellani here given him, except as a scribe's error : see above p. 262.

Sept. 21. S. Matthew Ap. This entry, it will be noticed, is only in black, showing that, even so late as the 13th century, the observance of this day was still perhaps somewhat unfamiliar and on a lower level than that of other Apostles : see Dowden, Church Calendar, p. 66 and D. C. A. s.v.

Oct. 1. Remigiū conf. He was Archbp of Ronen († 530). This is the feast of his translations, the last of which was in 1049. Jan. 13 is the feast of his deposition.

Oct. 2. Leodegariū epī et mart. He was Bishop of Autun and is familiar to us as S. Leger : he was put to death in 683.

Oct. 6. S. Fides virg. of Aquitaine. Suffered martyrdom in 920. She was another very popular saint in England and a good many churches bore her dedication, among them the chapel of S. Faith in the crypt of S. Paul's.

Oct. 7. Osith virg. The entry is in red (see above under April 19). She was an Essex saint († 600?) : see D. C. B. s.v.

Oct. 9. Dion. Rust. et Eleuth. mart. In spite of their names, these three saints are of importance in the "Gallican" rather than the "Roman" church. The first is the well-known Bishop of Paris († 272) and the others two of his clergy. In "Gallican" MSS. they are sometimes commemorated in the Communicantes of the Canon : see Ebner, Iter Italicum, pp. 408 f.

Oct. 17. Translatio Etheldr. virg. See above, p. 262.

Oct. 31. Quintini mart. He was a noble Roman sent on a mission to Gaul, who perished at Amiens († 287). S. Giles is credited with having rediscovered his remains in 641, but no stress can be laid on this, as his commemoration was common in medieval Kalendars though it is no longer observed in the Roman Church.

p. 161. Ad eo quorundam, etc. See p. 25 a above. The section "statuimus, etc." is given by Lyndewode, lib. iii, tit. 13.

p. 163. (a) Backhouse. See p. 164*d* below. He was probably an Official, see Excursus A, p. 288.

(b) Terras Cuthberti. The patrimony of S. Cuthbert comprised the whole of the county Palatine of Durham besides much property elsewhere: it was held at first by the Bishops and monks in common but from the Conquest onwards the two interests were constantly in conflict. Henry VIII curtailed the Bishops' rights: see Low, Durham, S. P. C. K., pp. 121 ff.

(d) Mr John Daie. There is a short account of John Deye, fellow of Jesus (B.A. 1562, LL.D. 1576) in Cooper, Athen. Cant., II, p. 383.

(e) The exempt townes. See pp. 180 ff., esp. p. 182, also p. 142*a*, and Introduction, p. xxiii.

p. 164. Ric. Stagubanke inceptor in artibus in 1500-1 (Grace Book B, part I, p. 167).

(a) Capella sci Stephani. See pp. 167 ff. It took its later name of Grendon or Gryndon's (now Granham's) from the family who held the manor after the le Moignes and the Valences.

(b) Cantaria W. Standen. This was at Wimpole and was founded by Will. Standen, Lord Mayor of London in 1392 and 1407, and Member of Parliament for the City in 1391, 1396 and 1405: see also Cambs. Fines, p. 139, at Conington in 1395.

(c) Thomas Fayrhayr, prob. a relation of Will. F., who was Vicar of Swaffham S. Mary's in 1506 (Cooper, Athen. Cant., I, p. 22).

(d) Rowl. Bakhors. See above, p. 163*a*.

(e) Robt Lansdall (B.A. 1554-5). A short account of him will be found in Cooper, Athen. Cant., II, p. 521, III, p. 100.

hospicium sci Nich. See Excursus C, p. 292, and Rashdall, op. cit., II, pp. 588, etc.

M. John Smert, ? admitted in iure civ. 1477-8 (Grace Book A, p. 211).

(f) Henr. Rudd († 1506). A short account of him is given in Cooper, op. cit., II, 11 (see Grace Book A, p. 96).

(g) Thos. Aleyn. Three "Aleyns" have been mentioned at Boxworth (p. 139, h, m and l) above, and the name frequently occurs among those who graduated in this period in Grace Book B, part I. The Thomas Allen († 1558) in Cooper, op. cit., I, 177, is probably no relation of this man. Grace Book A gives Thos. Aleyn of Oxford inc. theolog. in 1466-7 (p. 61).

p. 165. M. Edm. Campeon, ? entered in iure civ. 1475-6 (Grace Book A, p. 110).

John Wall was junior proctor of the Univ. in 1491-2 (ibid. pp. 32, etc.).

(a) hospicium sci Clem. See p. 292, and Rashdall there quoted.

(b) Nich. Morgan (for surname, see p. 9). He was admitted from Oxford in legibus bacallarius ad eundem in 1493 (Grace Book B, pt 1, p. 66).

(c) hosp. sci Clem. See above note a, and for "Joh. Bolton" see Grace Book B, pt 1, pp. 18, 134, 135 and 192, some or all of which seem likely to refer to this man.

(d) Robt Bryth. See Grace Book B, pt 1, pp. 14, 20 and 110, and for the surname see p. 113 c above.

p. 166. (a) Thomas Stacy has already had his name recorded (? by himself) on p. 55.

(b) Rob. Whetryngsete. See Excursus A, p. 287.

(c) Joh. Marschall (for an earlier instance of the surname see p. 49 e).

(d) Simon Burgoyne. Proceeded M.A. non reg. 1471-2 (Grace Book A, p. 89). There were Burgoyns in Impington and other parts of the county between 1404 and 1525 (see Cambs. Fines, pp. 142, etc.) and Wm Burgoyne was rector of Hildersham, Lady Marg. Prof., Master of Peterhouse († 1522).

p. 167. John Glyn, Doctor of civ. law 1460-1, Grace Book A, p. 26.

(a) John Pyke: inc. iur. civ. 1456 (ibid. pp 4, etc.).

Thom. Schenkryn, Bach. of civil law 1472-3 (ibid. p. 146).

Robt Shyrywyn. For a much earlier instance of the surname see p. 39 c and Grace Book A (p. 116) in 147 b.

(b) hospicium sci Hugonis. See p. 292.

(c) Joh. Smyth: the same name has occurred above on p. 51 c. It is just possible that this is the man who incepted in theology (1495-6) and was Vice-Chancellor of the University in 1496 (see Grace Book B, pt 1, pp. 82, 105, etc.).

Walter Arderon. See Grace Book A (pp. 42 and 63) in 1464 and 1468.

(d) hospicium sci Pauli. See p. 292.

p. 168. ordinacio capelle de Schelf. magna (see above, p. 164*a*). The date of the foundation is fixed by the name of the Archdeacon 'Nicholas [de Ely]' (1249-1266) on p. 170.

(a) John le Moyne. This family owned the Manor of Gt Shelford in the 13th and 14th centuries (see Rot. Hundr., II, pp. 516 and 8, Camb. Fines, p. 93, etc.). See p. 74 above.

Will. Loverade. This name occurs as holding a messuage at Gt Wilbraham (Rot. Hundr., II, p. 492).

(b) servicium de defunctis, etc. For some discussion of this provision see p. 4*a* above.

duas minutas candelas et unam lampadem. No instruction of this kind is given either in the Balraham or the Histon document. Compare the Statuta Synodalia (p. 14*d*).

p. 169. (a) christianos, iudeos. See p. 5 above: bladum = corn crop: fidda (above) = the right of folding flocks in a certain place.

p. 170. (a) Nicholas. This is no doubt Nicholas de Ely, Archdeacon (1249-66): he was afterwards Bp first of Worcester, then of Winchester: see p. 117*c*.

(b) Hervens had been Bishop of Bangor since 1092, until Henry I transferred him to the new see of Ely in 1109.

(c) Spaldingke in Hunts. There seems no ground for the statement here that it was a regia villa, if Bentham (op. cit., pp. 120 and 124) is correct in his contention that it formed part of the Abbey possessions before: but the genuineness of the charter on which he relied has been disputed. The see of Lincoln has no longer any interest in the parish.

(d) Michael de la Pole had been made Earl of Suffolk in 1385, and in 1386 Duke of Ireland, and was then impeached as one of the King's favourites, but in 1387 he was released and formed a royalist party. This eventually led to the Lancastrian revolution in 1399 and the establishment of Henry IV on the throne. Compare the entries in the Kalendar (p. 265) which refer to this period.

This collection of letters seems intended chiefly to suggest the normal form for various cases or suits. The first two have given several of the names in full which may have been those actually used but in many of the remainder the initials are probably quite fictitious.

p. 171. Nigel Pyncke of Bassingbourn. The surname appears at B. in 1447/8 (Cambs. Fines, p. 153).

cum vj^{ta} manu (so below "*sex viros ville legaliore*s" p. 173). These are the sectatores or band of oath-helpers, whom a defendant was bound to bring forward for his compurgation in medieval law. Their number varied from 12 (or 24) to 6 as here (or even 3): see Pollock and Maitland, Hist. of Eng. Law (since Edw. I) vol. II, pp. 598 ff. (esp. pp. 601 and 607). No number at all is mentioned in the last form printed on p. 176 below. In ecclesiastical matters as here they were often styled testes synodales or quest men: see Cutts, Parish Priests, pp. 280 ff.

(a) W. de F. It is useless to try to identify such initials.

super clandestino matrimonio: see Statuta Synodalia, pp. 12 and 14.

p. 172. excommunicacionis maioris. See above pp. 27 f.; another case of defamation is provided for on p. 176 below. For the purgatio canonica required in such cases see Statuta Synodalia, p. 13.

p. 173. incestus. See above, p. 25.

(a) catalla = chattels: blada = corn crops (as above on p. 169): braseum = malt.

(b) Ric. de Caltoft, mentioned in 1340 as the Bishop's Commissary (Bp's Reg.): here he is acting for the Archdeacon's official.

p. 174. W. De capellannum.... See p. 41 above, where we have apparently the same person mentioned at Horningsey under more favourable circumstances. Possibly the "F" here stands for Fulbourn.

p. 175. decano Cantebrigie. A definite holder of this office is mentioned at Little Abington on p. 65 (e).

bannis. See Statuta Synodalia, p. 14.

p. 176. maioris excommun. See note on the text of p. 172 above: and for "concilium Oxon." see p. 13 b.

p. 177. littera pro perdinaro = a letter of introduction for a pardoner. The form perdinarius is not given in Ducange.

(a) Sancti Antonii de Viennia. Vienne in the South of France is meant. In 137 $\frac{3}{4}$ and again in 1384 and 1388 there were missions to collect alms for this hospital (Bp's Reg.): see also Conybeare, Hist. of Cambs., p. 147.

p. 178. Ad inquirendum etc. This form and the letters of sequestration on p. 176 above are perhaps given in illustration of the provision on p. 12 of the Statuta Synodalia against the misuse of such gifts to the church: see also pp. 200, where the endowments of the chantry at Histon are specifically safeguarded.

p. 179. (a) Statutum Arch. Cantuar., i.e. of Robert Winchelsey (1305), given by Lyndewode, Provinciale, lib. iii, tit. 16. The price of a lamb works out at 5*cl.*

p. 180. (a) Tenor landi. This lengthy document (dated 1401 on p. 191 when Thomas Arundel was Archbishop) was to settle the similarly protracted dispute between the Bp and the Archd. about their respective rights in the Isle of Ely and other places where the Bp had property or patronage: v. Introduction, pp. xxiii f. and Bentham's Ely, p. 269. For other copies, ib. p. 270 n. 1. This settlement remained more or less in force till 1899 at least, when the present holder of the Archdeaconry considers it was abolished by an Order in Council. All doubts however were removed by the creation of the Archdeaconry of Wisbech at the rearrangement of the diocese in 1914, when the parishes formerly exempt from the Archdeacon of Ely were specifically handed over to the Archdeacons of Ely and Wisbech respectively.

p. 181. (a) John Fordham was bishop of Ely from 1388 to 1425.

quatuor anni terminos. I can find no other instance of these dates (Aug. 15, Nov. 11, Feb. 2 and May 15?) being treated as quarter days.

p. 190. in trescentis libris = as has been over and over again stated in writing. Trecenti for an indefinitely large number is quite classical: cf. Hor. Od. II 14. 5, III 4. 79.

(a) errario. See above, p. 188 (a).

p. 191. Bonifacius. This was Pietro Tomacelli of Naples, the 9th of that name, who reigned from 1389 to 1404: see p. 3 (d) above. He issued a Missa de quinque vulneribus et passione Christi (with indulgence of 40 days), one copy of which is in a Servite Missal in the Vatican Library (Palat. 505) and one or two are elsewhere: see Ebner Iter Italicum pp. 172, 251 and 276.

Stuntney cause and brigge. "The ditch (called Abbot's or Bishop's Delf) that crosses the road leading from Stuntney to Soham has a bridge over it called Delf bridge and is the utmost boundary of the Isle of Ely" (Bentham, Ely, p. 79): see C. C. Babington, Ancient Cambs., p. 75.

p. 193. (a) Robert de Braybrooke was Bishop of London 1381-1405; a strenuous opponent of the Lollards.

(b) Edmund Stafford, Bishop of Exeter 1395-1421: Chancellor of England 1396-1401.

(c) John Trefnant, Bishop of Hereford 1389-1404, another stalwart opponent of the Lollards.

(d) Richard Clifford, Bishop of Worcester 1401-1407.

(e) Richard Yonge, Bishop of Bangor 1400-1408.

Roberti Hallum was afterwards Bp of Salisbury (1407-1417) and Cardinal (1411). The Pope nominated him Archbishop of York in 1405, but the King objected to him and he was not enthroned. He attended the Council of Pisa in 1409 and the Council of Constance in 1414.

p. 194. (a) emologo and emologacio (see p. 181 above). This verb and noun, which occur several times in the laudum, are late Latinized forms from the Greek ὁμολογῆν and ὁμολογία.

p. 196. John Boner. "John Bonour, clerk, notary public by apostolic and imperial authority," subscribes the resignation of a Vicar of Sawston on Aug. 13, 1445 and in the previous year "Master John Bonour LL.B." is proxy for the nuns of Iklyngton (Bp's Reg.).

literato = ? (as now) a properly instructed, but non-graduate cleric. For the standard of learning required of incumbents in the diocese see Statuta Synodalia, p. 9. Evidently many of the unbeneficed clerks did not reach that standard.

John Depyng. See Cambs. Fines, p. 150, where "John Depyng clerk" occurs in Cambridge in 1433.

p. 197. (a) Patrat universis etc. This is a very interesting document, most of which has now been deciphered and rendered intelligible. The tithes of Bassingbourn were first given by Stephen Earl of Brittany to the monastery of S. Mary, York, but became afterwards vested, probably by exchange, in the dean and canons of S. Martin le Grand, London, to whom they were appropriated in the year 1400 (Lysons, Cambridgeshire: cf. Tanner, Notitia Monastica). In 1499 they were still patrons (Bp's Reg.) but in 1502 Henry VII handed over their possessions to the Abbat of Westminster and therefore in 1539 the Bp's Reg. speaks of him as patron. Since the Reformation the Dean and Chapter of Westminster as his successors have held the tithes. See p. 110 above.

(b) J. W. (in 1411) is probably the John Wittilsey mentioned on the previous page (in 1415).

libera capella regia. The house claimed to be a royal foundation of the 8th cent. if not earlier, and had privileges of sanctuary of which all kinds of criminals availed themselves to the full and which were curtailed in the reign of Henry VIII but not abolished till the end of James I's reign.

The annual payment of a fee to the Archd. of Ely has not survived to the present day.

p. 198. (a) Capella de Hyston. The foundation of this chantry in the lady chapel of S. Andrew's, Histon, dates from the arch-deaconry of R. Walpole (1270-88) and is remarkable for its imposing array of county magnates as witnesses at the end (the founder being likewise a man of high position in the county) and for its many interesting field names, many of which we have done something to interpret. A considerable number of the ordinary holders of land can also be identified in the Hundred Rolls, as the notes reveal. See for the list of weekly masses p. 4 (a) above. There is another copy of the "Nota" in the Norms Liber Arch. El.

(b) Philip de Coleril held land and the advowson of S. Andrew's in Histon (Rot. Hundr., II, p. 412). See pp. 26, 121 and 139.

Henry de C. See Clark, op. cit., p. 242 and Cambs. Fines, pp. 24 and 31.

(c) William de la March (see Cambs. Fines, p. 20). This is no doubt the tenant of Roger Giffard mentioned in Clark, p. 136,

(p. 198 contd) and the juror on p. 103. The member of the family at this time at Histon seems to have been "Thomas de la M." mentioned below on p. 199 and Rot. Hundr., II, p. 412, but "Henry de Merch of Impiton," not he, signs as witness at the end. "Wm de la M.," who was King's Treasurer in 1290 and Bp of Bath and Wells, was prob. another member of the family (see Clark, p. 229). Still another "Wm de la M." occurs in 1337 (Camb. Fines, p. 102) and in 1343 (p. 107).

in campis. Fields (campi) in their medieval sense were "vast, hedgeless, fenceless tracts of arable land, in which the strips of divers owners lay interspersed 'hide meal and acre meal.'" Maitland, Township and Borough, p. 4 (quoted by Clark, op. cit., p. xxx). These fields surrounded both the villages and the town of Cambridge itself.

(d) falcabilis = qui falcari seu falce secari potest (Ducange) i.e. corngrowing. falda = right of folding sheep or cattle in a certain place.

(e) Littyl-bren-felde perhaps means "the small burnt field," or does "bren" mean "steep"? (see New Eng. Dict. under "brent").

(f) Abbat of Eygnisham was the appropriator of S. Etheldreda's, Histon; see above, p. 78 (b).

Of the names of occupiers that follow, many occur in the Hundred Rolls, II, p. 412 at Histon, viz. Thomas Messor, John Wither, Salaman Josep, Roger Steward (Stiewarde), Henry Godelomp (or? Sodelomp), William le Heyr (Eyre), Will. son of Richd, and Thomas Prudfote.

(g) Holm is a low-lying meadow.

(h) capitera = headlands (in a ploughed field) not given by Ducange: further on capiterius is an adjective from capiterum.

(i) Richard de Stanton.

(k) Crownes-well-field means of course the field by the "Crowns well" (mentioned four lines further down).

Gulfrid Mandvil. I have failed to identify this person, who was no doubt a member of the well-known family of the name in the 13th cent.

(l) Almerdol. "Dole" is a hay meadow divided into lots; so further on we have "Waddole" ("Wald-dole") and "Bech-dole." "Almer" = Aylmer (see below, p. 199).

(m) William de Barkwey appears in Rot. Hundr., II, p. 412 as "Will. de Bererney." His name prob. comes from Barkway in Herts. Barway is near Little Thetford (Isle of Ely), to which "W. de Berewey" in Cambs. Fines, p. 21 (1239), must prob. be referred.

(n) Broc-dygg the brook-dyke: the "brook" itself comes on the next page; likewise "Hoketon-broke": or is it from "brock" = badger?

(o) Shorte-brath = ? Short-broad-land (cf. Bradmore among the Barnwell fields, Clark, op. cit., p. xxxii).

p. 199. (a) Turn-leas = ? town leas. For the "leas" see Clark, op. cit., p. xxxi.

(b) Gilbert le Knit de Bech. He signs as one of the witnesses on p. 201. See Rot. Hundr., II, p. 453 and Cambs. Fines, p. 46 (1271).

(c) capit[erium] croftam = the croft (or small field) at the headland. Two other crofts occur below.

(d) le Broke. See p. 198 (n) above.

Simon Bigge. No doubt this is the "Simon Bygge" of Cambs. Fines, p. 47 (in 1272): cf. p. 30, where "Stephen B. in Hyston" occurs (in 1247). "Geoffrey, son of Hervey" also appears in the same document (p. 47) as Simon B.

(e) Flad-dyng. Perhaps this should be "Flad-dygg" = the flood-dyke.

(f) Abbat de Crogland. He was the appropriator of Oakington; see above, p. 80.

Roger Giffard. This man has already been mentioned in the note 198 (c) q.c.: see p. 201 (k) below.

(g) Steph. de Brakdale.

(h) Osegars croft. Cf. Osgars-thorpe (Leics.).

(i) Wadlode. See above, p. 198 (l).

(k) Muriell de Impeton. See Cambs. Fines, p. 47, for "Muriel wife of Benedict de Gretton" at Impeton in 1271.

renella = lane.

(l) Thil-mere-uy: this same name occurs as "Thyl mere weye" in the Chartulary of Eynsham printed by Oxf. Hist. Soc., vol. 1, p. 227. The first syllable yields no meaning to me but the second and third mean of course the way by or across the marsh (cf. below, Bechmare and Blikmere).

(m) Bech-mare = (Land)beach marsh.

(n) capiteria. See p. 198 (h).

(t) Wald-dole. See above, p. 198 (l). The next name "Midel-feld" (cf. Myddyl-furlong, p. 200 (b)) speaks for itself. See Clark, op. cit., p. 98.

(v) Richard Belbuche held land in West Wyke (a hamlet of Oakington), Rot. Hundr., II, p. 407: see Clark, op. cit., p. 136.

(w) Blik-mere. See above, p. 199 (l) for "mere." The first syllable yields me no meaning.

p. 200. (a) Foyole-feld. In the other copy this is "Foxelefeld," which is more likely and easier to explain: ?Fox-ley. There is a manor of that name in Guilden Morden (cf. Cambs. Fines, pp. 73 and 82). Or perhaps it is "Fox-hole" after all.

(b) Myddyl-furelong. See above, p. 199 (t) and Clark, op. cit. pp. 313 and 316, where we have "Middel-more" and "Long-furlonges."

(c) Alicia de Insula. Simon de Insula's wife occurs at Impington in Cambs. Fines, pp. 42 and 47 (cf. Clark, op. cit., p. 138), but her name is there given as "Ela" or "Elena."

Walter le Roper. See Rot. Hundr., II, p. 409.

(d) Makereles-have-den. For the first portion of this curious field-name p. 3 (a) may be compared. "Den" (or "dene") is a hollow or valley: but "have-den" is beyond me.

(e) Simon Waleys signs as witness at the end, and occurs in Cottenham in 1271 and 1272 (Cambs. Fines, pp. 46 and 47) and in Rot. Hundr., II, p. 410.

(f) Roger prepositus (the reeve) of Westwyke. For "Westw.?"

see above, p. 199 (r) and for "prepositus" see Clark, op. cit., pp. 163, 316, 333.

(g) Grene-wey. This would be a grass-grown track much like a "drift" (199 (o)).

(e) James de Hyston. See Rot. Hundr., II, p. 112 and Camb. Fines, p. 46 (in 1271); in Clark, op. cit., p. 169 he appears as one of three men of Chesterton who defied the Prior and were defeated by him.

(f) Thomas le Freman de Gretton. "Thomas Freman of Grytton" appears in 1305 in Camb. Fines, p. 71, also in Rot. Hundr., II, p. 457 and Clark, op. cit., p. 318.

(g) Gilbert le Kait. See above, p. 199 (b).

(i) John de Brulfeld. See Rot. Hundr., II, pp. 108 ff., also Camb. Fines, p. 61 (1294) and cp. ibid., pp. 20 and 47.

(k) Roger Giffard was a considerable land and house-owner (see Clark, op. cit., pp. 136 f., Rot. Hundr., II, pp. 449 f. and Camb. Fines, p. 30).

A. ARCHDEACONS OF ELY AND THEIR OFFICIALS.

Needless to say, the Archdeacon is frequently referred to during the course of this volume (see Index s.v.); moreover nine holders of the office are mentioned by name, about all of whom something is known from other sources. They are these:—

(1) Nicholas de Ely was Archdeacon 1249–1266. He had previously been Rector of Elm, and was afterwards Bp first of Worcester and then of Winchester. He was in office when the chantry in Great Shelford Church was founded (p. 170): see also p. 117 c.

(2) Radulphus de Walpole, S.T.P., rector of Somersham. He was Archdeacon 1270–1288; in the latter year he was made Bishop of Norwich (see p. 123 c); and in the year 1299 he was translated to Ely, which see he held till his death in 1302. His name is given on p. 47 as the Archdeacon who assigned a good portifor to the church of Stowe (cum Quy) de bonis cuiusdam intestati R. de Curston; and also on p. 200 in the Nota de capella de Hygton.

(3) Radulphus de Fodringhey, Prebendary of Langford manor in Lincoln Cathedral, probably succeeded R. de Walpole in 1288 and held office till his death in 1316. His name occurs several times in connexion with gifts at his visitations, e.g. in 1304 at Tyd (S. Giles) p. 121, at Littleport in 1309 p. 141, at Wysbech in 1311 p. 119, at S. Peter's, Duxford (p. 69): also in a document on p. 17. On p. 24 a number of his Advocates and Proctors in 1289 and 1306 are given.

(4) Johannes de Chryschirch, rector of Cotenham, was inducted as Archdeacon in 1379: he died in 1387. His name occurs twice on p. 149 in the oath taken by the Master of Glomery in 1383 and 1386.

(5) Thomas Dalby, Prebendary of Salisbury and of Lincoln and sometime rector of Barking in Suffolk, of Stretham near Ely and of Leigh in Staffs. (exchanging the last in 1386 for Cottenham), was collated to the Archdeaconry May 23, 1387, but resigned in 1388 for the Archdeaconry of Richmond: he died in 1400. His name occurs only once, viz. on p. 150, in the oath of a Master of Glomery.

(6) Johannes Welbourne, LL.D., was Archdeacon from about 1397, till his death about 1408. He is mentioned twice in the long document of settlement between the Bishop and Archdeacon of Ely issued by Archbishop Arundel in 1401, on pp. 191 and 194.

(7) Robertus Whetryngsete, rector of Northwold, Norfolk, and Prebendary of Lincoln. He died in 1444. He is mentioned as Archdeacon in a Master of Glomery's oath in 1415 (p. 196) and in a Proctor's oath in 1437 (p. 166).

(8) Johannes Stokes, LL.D., Chancellor of the diocese, rector of Stowe-cum-Quy, was appointed Archdeacon in 1444. He was also Prebendary of Hereford and Precentor of Sarum and died in 1466. He is mentioned in 1450 (p. 206) in the Appropriacio ecclesie de Chesterton and (without date) in the Ordinacio between the Archdeacon and the Preceptor (J. Erging) of Shingay about Peter's Pence (between 1444 and 1454).

(9) Thomas Alcocke is mentioned as Archdeacon in 1500 on p. 207. He was a relation of Bp Alcock. Cooper, Athen. Cant. i 28, gives a short account of him.

On p. 202 in the Commissio Glomerie "N. legum doctor" is given as Archdeacon in a late 15th century hand. This points to No. 8, Dr J. Stokes above, "N." standing for "so and so," as often. Rashdall (Medieval Universities II, p. 555) writes as if this document were coeval with the Bishop's Ordinatio on pp. 20 ff., which was drawn up in 1276 (not 1267, as he gives it) during Walpole's tenure of office: but it is obviously only a copy, with the words N. legum doctor substituted for the original phrase, which no doubt gave the Archdeacon's (Walpole's) name and on the assumption from the then Archdeacon (Stokes) being LL.D. that his successors would be also.

The names of the following Officials of the Archdeacon occur:

- Vincent, 1215 (A. Gray, St Radegund's, p. 91).
- Bartholomew, 1215–1225 (" " p. 121).
- John de Lutterworth, 1241 (W. Stevenson, Supplement to Bentham's Ely, p. 34.)
- Richard Crocheman, 1275 (see Introduction, p. xxxvii).
- John de Tydd, 1344 (Supplement to Bentham, p. 34).
- Roger de Harleton, admitted 1349 (see Introduction, p. xxv).
- John Penkiston, 1379 (p. 149), adm. 27 Feb., 1378/9 (Bp's Reg.).

- Geoffrey Gyddying, 1383–1389 (pp. 149, 150).
 Robert Ragenhill (? Notary, pp. 149, 170).
 William Foster, 1393 (p. 29).
 William Taverham, 1405 (Supplement to Benthams, p. 34).
 John Wittilsey, 1411–1415 (pp. 196, 197).
 T. Remyngton, 1428 (p. 196).
 John Wygenhale, 1429 (p. 166).
 Thomas Stacy (? p. 55, Proctor, 1429, p. 166).
 William Spaldying, 1437 (p. 166).
 Roger Radcliff, 1452 (p. 203).
 Richard Laverok, LL.D., 1457 (Bp's Reg.), perhaps Bp's Official.
 John Parmenter, LL.Lic., 1458 (Bp's Reg.).
 John Pyke, 1466 (p. 167).
 Henry Rudd, 1486–1487 (p. 164).
 Nicholas Morgan, 1498 (p. 165).
 Lumley (?) xv c. (p. 2).
 Thomas Bankes (? p. 23).
 William Soustons (? p. 162).
 Jhon Skyl (?) pp. 162, 163).
 Francys Salparwyk (?) p. 163).
 Gudman (?) p. 18).
 Rowland Backehouse (?) Proctor, 1509, p. 164, fees, 1520,
 p. 163, Nocus Liber, 1518, 1534, pp. 61, 62, 73).
 R. Swale, 1585 (Nocus Liber, p. 1).
 John King (?) possessor huius libri, c. 1600 (p. 162).
 Thomas Hunte (?), c. 1600 (p. 7).

The names followed by (?) are inserted merely because they are written in the Book, their place in the list being according to the apparent age of their handwriting. Acts of Officials unnamed are recorded under the years 1488 (p. 165), 1509, 1519 (p. 164), 1571 (p. 163) and 1573 (p. 164), the latest date in the book (v. Introduction, pp. xx, xxix, xxxvii).

Eight more recent Officials are enumerated in the Supplement to Benthams. The present holder of the office is Mr George Emery.

B. THE MASTER OF GLOMERY.

Some of the most important information that we possess concerning this official (who was an institution peculiar to Cambridge) is to be found at various points in our MS. Rashdall (Hist. of Mediev. Univs. II p. 555) considers that the office dates from a time prior to the existence of the University. But by the time we have to deal with him he was appointed by the Archdeacon of Ely to superintend and exercise jurisdiction over the grammar schools in connexion with the University. Professor Skeat maintained for certain that *glomeria*¹ is only a medieval corruption of grammaria: and hence the boys themselves were called *glomerelli*².

The first of our documents (pp. 20 ff.) already printed in Fuller's History, ed. Prickett and Hall, pp. 47-51, contains the decisions of Hugh de Balsham, Bishop of Ely in 1276, over a dispute that had arisen between the Archdeacon or the Master of Glomery and the Chancellor, and was to this effect:—(1) The Master of G. is to decide in all cases when only glomerelli are concerned or glomerelli and laici (townsfolk), but (2) if a scholar or graduate of the University is involved or if it is a dispute *de pensionibus domorum per magistros et burgenses taxatarum*³ or if it is about serious misconduct which is punishable by imprisonment or ejection from the University, then glomerelli must appear before the Chancellor. (3) The Bedell of Glomery is permitted to carry his wand of office when and wherever he wishes in execution of his duties, except on occasions when the two University Bedells have exclusive rights. (4) Scriveners, stationers, etc. who serve scholares are to appear before the Chancellor, but their wives before the Archdeacon, in cases where he has jurisdiction. (5) Such clerks as are residing in Cambridge chiefly for parochial ministration, though they do some teaching or study, are subject to the Archdeacon, but those who are there chiefly for their own study, to the Chancellor. In cases of doubt the person concerned must take a corporal oath before both officials. (6) Parochial clergy si cum scolare contrahant seu in actu scolastico delinquant are to appear before the Chancellor. (7) No one is to be reckoned scolaris who has not been assigned to a Master (regent) within a fortnight of coming up (unless it be for some good reason). Frequent breaches of this rule by unqualified Masters having occurred, the penalty is stated to be excommunication. (8) Sacerdotes scolares must be adjudged fit or unfit in their twofold capacity before both Archdeacon and Chancellor. (9) The Chancellor and University are to pass no ordinance which contravenes the Bishop's or the Archdeacon's rights. (10) The Archdeacon and the Chancellor are to be independent of one another: appeal lies to the Bishop or his Official.

Then on p. 202 we have the Commissio Glomerie, the form by which the Archdeacon appointed a Master of G., and on p. 149 the oath which he took on appointment to the Archdeaconry. The latter of these documents is in a hand nearly contemporary with the first drawing up of the oath, but the former is in a late 15th century hand: neither of them contains anything beyond what one would expect; the two conditions of efficiency are stated to be (1) rite et morum honestas, (2) artis grammaticæ experientia.

Lastly, there are at different places in the MS. as many as 8 records of such Masters of G. having been appointed and taking the oath, viz.:

- (1) p. 149, July 24, 1379, Mr Thomas Hunt.
- (2) „ Jan. 26, 1383, Mr Thomas Nenmarket.
- (3) „ Oct. 8, 1386, Mr Edmund Kyrkton, M.A.
- (4) p. 150, Dec. 4, 1387, Mr Henry Hamerton, rector of Horseheath.
- (5) „ May 7, 1389, Mr Thomas Toft, M.A.
- (6) p. 196, Nov. 13, 1415, Mr John Boner, M.A.
- (7) „ Feb. 27, 1428, Mr John Dyer, M.A.
- (8) p. 203, Nov. 6, 1452, Mr John Newton, M.A.

There is nothing to decide whether the defective entry on p. 203, which stands next to No. 8, records a ninth Master of G. or a Proctor, but it seems more probable that "Robertus Stewkyn" was the former: see note about him, p. 203 d.

The usual place for this ceremony seems to have been the Registry, but Mr Neumarket was admitted in Great S. Mary's Church, Cambridge.

In the case of the first four the period of the office is short ; with the next three, unless there are omissions, the period is 26, 13 and 24 years respectively.

The MS. has no reference to God's House founded in 1441/2 by William Byngham for the training of Grammar-teachers, which was under the control of Clare Hall till its absorption (in 1505) into Christ's College : see Rashdall, op. cit. II, 570 ff.

Before the end of the xvth century the Master of Glomery had probably ceased to be appointed : the "Father" of the Faculty of Grammar, mentioned in connexion with the graduation ceremony, so graphically described by Stokys († 1591) (Peacock, Observations, App. A), was a different functionary, though to some extent his legitimate successor : see Rashdall, pp. 597 ff.

C. OTHER OFFICERS, ETC. CONNECTED WITH THE UNIVERSITY.

References to the University except in the matter of the Master of Glomery and his glomerels are not very frequent.

The rights of the University Bedells are mentioned, as we have seen on p. 289, in connexion with the duties of the Bedell of Glomery.

The Chancellor of the University also comes in for mention in the same document, while in the Kalendar Mr John Burgh in 1384 occurs by name in that capacity (p. 153) and Mr Stephen de Haslingfield, who was Chancellor in 1300, was a donor to West Wickham Church (pp. 57 f.). If the text is rightly deciphered, another Chancellor may be a donor to Foxton Church (p. 93), but even so, it is quite uncertain whether he was Chancellor of the University.

Dr Thomas de Castro Bernardi, Master of Peterhouse (1400-1418), was a donor to Lolworth (p. 139).

Two donors to Cambridge Churches are described as "Robert le Bedel" and "Thomas quondam Bedellus" respectively, and, thanks to the researches of Dr Stokes, these can now be identified (see p. 33, etc.).

Two Houses or Halls are mentioned, which are now merged in other colleges : S. Michael's House as the patrons of Barrington on

p. 95; and King's Hall, of which Alan Pyke was fellow in 1415 (p. 196) and Edmund Jakson in 1490 (p. 204): to this latter house the church of S. Sepulchre was appropriated (p. 33 d) and at one time also Chesterton (p. 206). We have John Daie fellow of Jesus in 1571 (p. 163 d) and Robert Lansdell fellow of the same college in 1573 (p. 164 e).

Mention is also made of the following Hospicia, viz.: Sci Pauli in 1481 (p. 167), Sci Hugonis in 1475 and 1482 (p. 167), Sci Clementis in 1498 and 1499, and Sci Nicolai in 1480 (pp. 164 f. and 204). Some account of these hostels is given in Rashdall, op. cit. II, 558 and Rait, Medieval University Life, pp. 98 ff. The first named of them (S. Paul's) was, we learn, situate in Rose Crescent and was at one time turned into the Rose Tavern (Foster, Accts of S. Mary's, Camb., p. 131).

D. PERSONS OF DISTINCTION IN CHURCH AND STATE WHO ARE MENTIONED

(a) Archbishops of Canterbury.

1. On p. 155 S. Augustine (597–604).
2. On p. 155 S. Dunstan (960–988).
3. On p. 154 S. Alphege (1005–1013).
4. On pp. 8, 33 and 151 S. Thomas (Becket) (1162–1170).
5. On p. 18 f. Robert Kilwardby (1273–1279).
6. On p. 25 Simon Mepham (1328–1333).
7. On p. 156 Simon Sudbury (1375–1381).
8. On pp. 180 ff. Thomas Arundel (1397, 1399–1414).
9. On p. 8 Henry Chicheley (1414–1443).
10. On p. 8 John Stafford (1443–1452).

Under this head the most interesting item is Archbp Kilwardby's visitation of the diocese in 1277, because it seems likely to have led both to the issue of the Statuta Synodalia by Bp Balsham and to the archidiaconal visitations resulting in the Inventories, which form so large a portion of this book.

(b) Bishops of Ely.

1. On pp. 5 (9 ff. ?) and 20 ff. Hugh de Balsham (1257–1286).
2. On pp. (61 ?) and 180 ff. John Fordham (1388–1426).

3. On pp. 204 and 206 Thomas Bourchier (1444-1454), afterwards Archbp of Canterbury.

4. On pp. 160 and 207 John Alcock (1486-1500).

Ralph de Walpole who was Bishop (1299-1302) is mentioned as Archdeacon (see above p. 286) and also perhaps at Wilburton (p. 143).

The most important document connected with the see is the Statuta Synodalia (pp. 9 ff.) which may with a fair amount of certainty be attributed to Bp Hugh de Balsham (see notes in loc.) as the result of the archiepiscopal visitation already mentioned.

(c) Among other prominent ecclesiastics, whose names occur, may be mentioned :

(1) S. Erkenwald, Bp of London, commemorated in the Kalendar on Ap. 30.

(2) Robert Hallum (afterwards Bp of Salisbury), Archdeacon of Canterbury in 1401 (pp. 193 f.) and in the same document,

(3) Robert de Braybrooke, Bp of London	} concerning whom see notes in loc.
(4) Edmund Stafford, „ of Exeter
(5) John Trefnant, „ of Hereford
(6) Richard Clifford, „ of Worcester
(7) Richard Yonge „ of Bangor

(8) Ds W. de Fulbourne, Baron of the Exchequer, etc. in the reign of Edward III († 1390), a donor to S. Vigor's Fulbourne (p. 43).

(9) Ds John Sleford, Master of the Wardrobe, etc., in the same reign († 1401), a donor to Balsham (p. 61).

(10) Ds Elias de Bekynham, Justiciar of the Common Pleas († 1305), a donor to Little Wilbraham (p. 49 g).

(11) Ds Herycy de Stanton, Chancellor of the Exchequer to Edward II and Founder of Michael House (1324), a donor to Elm (p. 117).

(12) John Erging, Preceptor of the Hospitallers at Shingay (pp. 204 f.).

(13) W. de Littleport, Prior of Spalding, a donor to Littleport (p. 122).

(14) W. Papworth, Canon of Norwich, a donor to Papworth S. Agnes (p. 131).

(15) John Nyker of Ely, a donor to Elm, may be the Nicholas who was first Archdeacon of Ely, and afterwards Bp of Worcester and Winchester respectively († 1280) : see p. 117 c.

(16) The donor to (Fen) Ditton, who is simply called Princeps, seems likely to be the Bishop of Ely : see p. 41 a.

(d) Lastly, there are several lay persons of high position who are mentioned either as donors or otherwise, the chief of them being (exclusively of merely local magnates) :

- (1) The Countess of Warwick at Whittlesford (p. 67).
- (2) The Earl (of Gloucester ?) at Litlington (p. 115).
- (3) Robert de Lisle of Rampton (pp. 147 and 201).
- (4) Lady S. George at Hatley S. George (p. 129).
- (5) Lady Howard at Gamlingay (p. 129).
- (6) Geoffrey Mandeville at Histon about 1275 (?) (p. 198).
- (7) William Huntingfield on Sept. 27 in the Kalendar (p. 159).

Such information (not often very much) as I have been able to glean about these, will be found in the notes ad loc.

All these are in the Archdeaconry: on p. 197 also occurs a document relating to the Dean and Chapter of the Royal Chapel of S. Martin le Grand, London, and their living of Bassingbourn (see note in loc.).

Mention should also be made under this head of the Hospitale de cruce Roys, of which the ornamenta are entered under Bassingbourn (pp. 110 f.).

F. THE ARCHIDIACONAL VISITATION LISTS.

The following is an attempt to gather together under different heads some of the matters of chief interest in the Inventories of church books, ornaments, etc. Much light has been thrown on them by the valuable study bestowed on them from a paleographical standpoint by Mr Minns: the results of his labours are set forth in his own words above on pp. xxix ff. and not only have I availed myself freely of his conclusions but I have also found them again and again corroborated from other independent sources. It may be assumed therefore that the original basis of the Inventories is the Visitation of the Archdeacon undertaken in consequence of the Archbishop of Canterbury's visit to the diocese in 1277 (pp. 18 f.) during the next year or so throughout the Archdeaconry (see p. 142 a and Introduction, pp. xiv and xvi). The various additions were made, some almost immediately afterwards, probably under the same Archdeacon (Walpole) and then under his successors at their visitations up to the end of the xvth century; in particular we can see the results of Fodringhey's visitation at the beginning of the xvth century from his name and the date being actually given in several cases.

1. The Fabric of the Church is several times referred to.

At S. Peter's, Duxford (p. 69), we are told that at the time of Fodringhey's visitation a new work was begun on the S. side of the church by Robert Gose, who protested that he refused to be held responsible (himself or his heirs) for the upkeep of the said work, and that the parishioners agreed that they ought to finish the said work which he had begun and keep it up in perpetuity. This is probably the S. aisle of the church, the arcading into which is of the Decorated period, though the capitals of the pillars are carved later¹.

Again at Melbourne (p. 115) there is a memorandum that Ds George the vicar (about the same time) made celaturam, fenestras et alia in cancello, under a very similar protest.

Some of the churches are reported to be in a bad state of repair. For instance, the four neighbouring churches of Whittlesford, Sawston, Little Abington and Linton (at the end of the xiiith century) were unsatisfactory in this respect. In the first two it is noted fenestre vitree (+ in cancello at Whittlesford) sunt confracte and eucharistia irreverenter collocatur, while at Whittlesford other signs of neglect are given; calix claudicat. chrismatorium sine serura. deficit tabula ultra altare. deficient tunica et dalmatica (p. 67). At Little Abington (p. 65) ecclesia male cooperta. At Linton (p. 63) fons insufficiens. desunt tabula ultra altare, candelabra. fenestre vitree sunt confracte. At Whittlesey S. Mary's even in the original entry the report runs pluit in cancello; fons sine serura: and here the repairs are ordered to be done citra octabas Pasche under a penalty of 20s. (? for the abbat of Thorney, who was rector) and one mark for the parishioners.

The churchyard and its walls (as many of us know to our cost) have always been a burden on the incumbents or the parish. Hence at Little Abington (p. 65) again we find the entry cimiterium male clausum, while at Littleport (p. 141) there is a memorandum that Stephen the vicar on the Wednesday after the feast of All Saints' in 1309 made protest at Archdeacon Fodringhey's visitation that he refused to bind himself or his successors propter facturam unius pecie muri circa cimiterium quam extollebat ex necessitate.

Other protests of the clergy may be recorded here, though they refer to other matters than the actual fabric of the church or yard: viz. at Harston (p. 93), at Elm and Emneth (p. 117), at Gt Eversden (p. 123), and Bourne (p. 127).

2. Benefactions of land. Three such gifts are recorded, two at Ickleton (p. 71) and one at Hildersham (p. 63). At the former place Anselm le Bray gave $1\frac{1}{2}$ acres de inveniendo lumen cordum cruce et xij^d annui redditus, and Christianna Kynne gave $\frac{1}{2}$ acre ad dictam cruce: at the latter the rector gave $2\frac{1}{2}$ acres and 1 rod to the church in puram et perpetuam elemosinam.

3. Cases of defects (other than of the Fabric). The references to worn out or lost books and other articles of different kinds are naturally rather frequent and need not be given in anything like full detail. One or two have been already mentioned under (1): and it is worth while to give one or two other instances of special interest.

At Teversham (p. 43) plures libri male ligati et iniunctum est rectori quod defectus repareantur citra festum sancti Michaelis sub pena l^s.

At Shudy Camps (p. 55) dalmatica [deficit] quia combusta.

At Stetchworth (p. 51) there is an original entry: maiores sunt defectus quia non sunt ausi emendare propter incursum latronum, and at (West) Wratting (p. 59) minuta sunt ista quia tarde (= lately) spoliata fuit ecclesia: is it possible that the neighbourhood of Newmarket heath, famous in after days for its highwaymen, accounts for these two cases? We find other references to thieves and thefts from the church at S. Mary's, Swaffham (p. 19), at Trumpington (p. 91), at Shepreth (p. 93), at Wendy (p. 109), and at Eltisley (p. 133).

The irreverent reservation of the Sacrament is also occasionally mentioned besides the two cases given above.

The absence of a lock from the font, or pyx, or chrismatory is one of the points more usually noted, and sometimes it is recorded that the font leaks, e.g. at Brinkley (p. 53) fontis cum serrura (+ D¹ set aqua exit).

Only one pair of slippers is mentioned, viz. at Foxton (p. 93) item sotulares...

4. Gifts. It is remarkable how bountifully new articles to replace defects or in addition were supplied—especially it seems on the occasion of the Archdeacon's visitation and probably in consequence of his representations that they were required.

At Wendy (p. 109) a good Antiphoner was given on the Vigil of

S. Matthew in 1305 by Ds Robert the vicar, when the synodal visitation was held in his church; and he also gave the templum domini (whatever that was) there.

At Bourne (p. 127) the then vicar gave a third pair of vestments ad rogatum domini Archidiaconi but without prejudice to his successor.

At Wisbech (p. 119) also W. Shorphan gave a new set of vestments at Archdeacon Fodringhey's visitation in 1311.

At Steeple Morden (p. 113) there is a memorandum that at the visitation Ds Robert, executor of Ds John Coke the chaplain's will, gave to the high altar j portiforium sine nota et j superaltare consecratum; and somewhat similarly at Stowe (cum Quy) (p. 47) M: Rad. de Walpol dudum Archidiaconus assignavit de bonis cuiusdam intestati R. de Curston unum bonum portiforium to the church.

At Tydd (S. Giles) (p. 121) Archdeacon Fodringhey himself in 1304 gave several articles for the Eucharist (q.v.): and at Stow (cum Quy) the Archdeacon (name not given) presented a portiforium.

At S. Andrew's, Cambridge (p. 37), the Archdeacon excommunicated all who alienated Mr W. de Thoresby's gift to the Lady Chapel in 1304 of a set of vestments with napkins and silver chalice for the use of all chaplains who should celebrate there.

In two instances the price paid for something is entered, viz. at Bottisham (p. 49) a new choir cope cost 10 marks ex dono Wilhelmi Gode defuncti, and at Balsham (p. 61) a complete portiforium cost 100 shillings ex dono Magistri Rogeri de Hunsingfield rectoris.

One or two specially interesting gifts may be mentioned.

At Great S. Mary's, Cambridge (p. 33), there is a new choir cope de dono mercatoris Elie de Cryneston (xiiith century), which by the early years of the xiiith century was iam vetustate consumpta (see note in loc. for the donor).

At (Fen) Ditton (p. 41) there was a gilded cup and a handsome piece of stuff for a vestment de dono Principis (! = the Bishop: see note a).

At Whittlesford (p. 67) a baudekyn de dono Comitisse de Warwick.

At Litlington (p. 115) another baudekyn de dono Comitiss (! of Gloucester and Hertford).

Then at Chatteriz (p. 143) the vicar Ds Ralph gave a new set of vestments on condition that the old one should go to him, this condition, I think, being elucidated by an entry at S. Vigor's, Fulbourne

(p. 43), where the donor of a vestment, Ds Ralph Grym, expressly stipulates that he shall be decently buried in the old one.

Three other gifts are recorded which have an interest of their own: a troper at (West) Wratting (p. 59) pro animo Johannis le Moniere; a set of vestments at Waterbeach (p. 75) given by the vicar pro salute anime sue, and a chalice at Tydd (S. Giles) (p. 121) pro anima Galfridi Atherne (?).

There are as many as 15 entries of articles procured de dono or ex emptione parochianorum (or the like)¹, one being dated, though not quite clearly, viz. at S. Cyrie, Swaffham (p. 47), 1338 (or 1388).

An entry of doubtful import occurs at East Hatley (p. 105) casula de restauracione domini Reginaldi rectoris qui nunc est, which we may take to mean that the present rector had had an old chasuble repaired or renewed. So again at Shingay (p. 107) we read that the taper pendens in cancello cum x luminibus was de dono et invencionem dñi. Willelmi Kylnan: here invencio possibly means that the corona of 10 lights hanging in the chancel was the design of the donor, though, on p. 93, where it occurs again ad eius invencionem, it means no more than to the providing thereof, and that may be all it means here.

5. Legacies are occasionally noted. Some instances are: at Rampton (p. 83) antiphonarium ex testamento rectoris legatum; at S. John's, Milnstreet, Cambridge (p. 35), item ex legato Simonis de Berton quondam vicarii...j missale bonum in 1304; at S. Michael's (p. 33) missale bonum ex relicto magistri H. de Rencers and a set of vestments ex legato Roberti le Bedel; at Girton (p. 81) vestmentum cum calice et manuali relictum...per Johannem Borton in 1308; at East Hatley (p. 105) manuale novum ex legato domini Ricardi rectoris; and at Papworth Everard (p. 133) bandekinum ex legato domini J. de La Hage. In other cases the exact nature of the gift is less certain.

6. Books. A more or less complete catalogue of the books inventoried will be found on pp. 307 ff. Here attention is drawn only to those which are of special interest.

is put to describe a volume, the Sarum use, which began to spread further and further in the xivth century, is perhaps referred to.

The quaternum de solemnitate Corporis Christi entered at Carlton (p. 55), the ij quaterna de corpore Christi at Doddington (p. 147) and the ij quoyers de servicio Corporis Christi at Waterbeach (p. 75) tell their own tale: they are the sheets containing the new service introduced into England between 1320 and 1325. Books also of a more general kind occur in one or two places, viz.:

Unus Belet at Weston (Colville) (p. 59) and at Wisbech (p. 118) indicates a well-known liturgical work by John Beleth of the xiiith century, called Rationale divinorum officiorum (see Cabrol, Études Liturgiques, p. 37, and Batiffol, Hist. du Brév. Rom., p. 159). A later entry at Weston, summa Hugonis Beletti, which probably means (another copy of) the same book, or (?) an abridgement of it, with the wrong Christian name. I suspect that the liber qui incipit De ecclesiasticis at Elm (p. 117) was Beleth's book.

Copies of another famous book, the Summa Raymundi (de Pennafort, circ. 1227) are found at Pampisford (p. 73) and at Teversham (p. 43), where also there was quicquam (some portion) de tractatu super confessionibus (this was the subject of Raymund's book).

There was a copy of Pars Oculi (a work attributed to W. de Pagula, circ. 1330) at Stanton All Saints' (p. 85); and the book called Oculus Sacerdotis at Willingham (p. 83) is apparently a copy of the same work.

At the former of these two churches there was also a liber Hugueii. This is probably the Dictionary (Etymologicum) of Hugueio, Bp of Ferrara (circ. 1243?), which was a very common book in those days: see for instance Bradshaw, Collected Papers, pp. 31 and 36. The Grace Books also mention the work, and Wordsworth and Littlehales Old Service Books, p. 134, give an instance of "Hugucion ychayned in our lady Chappell" in 1472 at S. Edmund's Church, Salisbury. In this connexion we may note that there was an antiphoner cum cutena ligatum ex parte australi cancelli at Shingay (p. 107).

Twelve churches are said to have copies of the Statuta Synodalia: see above, p. 9.

Occasionally it is stated whether the service books have musical notes or not, but only once is liber cantus organici recorded, viz. at Ickleton (p. 78) the next parish to Duxford, where in S. Peter's Church the only organ is, by a curious coincidence, mentioned, but alas even there the once excellent instrument (organi optimi) seems to have fallen into disrepair or become worn out; for a later hand expunged the entry. Organa, in ecclesiastical parlance, was the technical name for the part music to which Alleluias and Sequences were often set and sung, and that is probably the meaning of the cantus organicus above: see Frere, Winchester Troper (HBS), pp. xxxvii ff.

7. Chests are several times noted; e.g. at Swaffham S. Mary's (p. 49), at Orwell (p. 103) and at Newton (in the Isle) (p. 121): the first of these was for keeping the service books in, the last two for vestments: in three other cases the purpose is not specified, viz. at Great Wilbraham (p. 51), at Crauden (p. 105) and at Tadlow (p. 107). The xiiith century chest at Long Stanton S. Michael is not noticed.

8. Reliquie (relics) are mentioned at Linton (p. 63); and part of Ds John Sleford's gift to Balsham (p. 61) was a small gilt cross in qua infig[itur] i peccia columpne in qua Christus [flagellatus est]: the restoration of this most interesting entry is very probable.

9. Campane manuales are found in two churches, viz. at Stow (cum Quy) (p. 47) and at Little Wilbraham (p. 49): they are probably the same as the tintinnabula mentioned three times, viz. at S. Peter's outside the gate, Cambridge (p. 39), at S. Vigor's, Fulbourn (p. 42) and at Ickleton (p. 71): these were specially ordered in the Statuta Synodalia (p. 12), together with a light, for which the lanterna (or lucerna), so often mentioned also, would be required.

10. At Chatteris (p. 142) the gild of Corpus Christi (see above, p. 300) gave a banner pulverizatum cum leonibus auri. This is the only mention of a medieval gild in the MS.

11. A pathetic note is struck at Eversden Magna (p. 122): vicaria exilis quia abbas (de s^{co} Albano) subtrahit portionem debitam vicario. This is in the earliest hand: let us hope that my Lord Abbat mended his ways: a later hand (C¹) records that the then vicar was in a position to give a frontal (without binding his successors however to do the like).

Another entry may be conveniently referred to here, though it is of a different kind. On p. 29 it is stated at S. Clement's, Cambridge: deficit p^{is}is eburnea nominata in registro et loco illius provisa cupa de cristallo argen^t ligata, cum crucifixo argenteo et data per Reginaldum

Chaundeler: this is in one of the latest hands (E) and is to be taken as a correction of the entry on p. 30 that in A's time there was such an ivory pyx, in place of which later on R. Chaundeler provided a crystal silver-mounted cup.

12. We come next to one of the most frequent entries of all, viz. velum templi. The term velum quadragesimale is also fairly frequent, and at St. John's, Duxford (pp. 68 f.), if not elsewhere, both terms occur, one in A's hand and the other in F's. Velum only is entered some 10 times and quadragesimale alone once at Chatteris (p. 143). At Wendy (p. 109), which belonged (by 1315) to the Templars, the vicar gave templum do[mini?]: what this was is by no means certain, and it may have no connexion with the velum templi. I have consulted several liturgical and antiquarian authorities as to what this velum templi was, and they can give but little help if it was not the Lenten veil between the nave and chancel, for which the ordinary name (v. quadr.) was substituted in the later entries. Dr S. J. M. Price (of Tintinhull, Martock, Somerset) thinks our dates are too late for the phrase to indicate one of the two other veils, which were once used before the altar and before the choir, and suggests that it possibly means "herse-cloth" (templum being sometimes used for "coffin") but there are frequent references to that article under quite different terms in the Inventories, and I do not think he can be right.

However, the following almost contemporary entry in a Canterbury Visitation Roll has very recently come to light and seems to prove beyond a doubt that the term velum templi is identical with velum quadragesimale. At Wingham in Kent (1294):

"There is no Lenten veil although the parishioners had been enjoined to provide one...some of them appeared again and alleged that they were not bound to find the veil but the rectors..., and because the question of the velum templi was left to the arbitration of the Provost, he was enjoined to decide before next Michaelmas.' (Archæol. Cant. xxxii. p. 171.)

13. Lastly there are the numerous pieces of needlework, the designs of which are often briefly described, together with a few specimens of fine metal work and painting. Among the latter, attention should be called to the osculatorium de opere Lemoycen at Triplow (p. 89), which we can hardly be wrong in interpreting as a piece of Limoges enamel: at Witcham (p. 146) also there is cruz de emallo, and at Newton (in the Isle) cruz argentea ornata cum lapidibus preciosis. The handsome cappa of S. Clement's, Cambridge (p. 29), has already been mentioned. At Fowlmere (p. 89) there was a textus bene apparatus de imaginibus deauratis and another at Borough Green (p. 53) deauratus cum lapidibus cristalinis. Again at Gt S. Mary's, Cambridge (p. 33), was missale preciosum hapsatum argento coopertorio corco albo. The brass incense ship in the form of a dove at Litlington (p. 115) is very unusual and must also be specially noted.

In the chapel at March (p. 147) the coat of arms of the donor, Robert de Lisle, on the rotunda pircis, may have been painted or enamelled, or engraven, and so may the salutacio beati Virginis on the calix deauratus at Abington (Pigotts) (p. 111); but the "arms of France" (i.e. fleurs de lys) at Teversham (p. 43); and at Boxworth (p. 139) were in needlework: for they were on vestments.

It is not necessary to give a full list of the designs in needlework, as they will be found in Index B: but special attention may be called to a few, e.g. there was at Leverington (p. 119) a corporal cum teca (burse) de panno aureo cum Maiestate (a figure of our Lord enthroned in glory) ex una parte et imagine beate Marie et sancti Georgii ex altera parte: this must have been very beautiful¹. Very interesting too is the record at Cottenham of a red dorsorium stained with the historie Trofili (see p. 77d). Another corporal at the Chapel at Newton (p. 91) was of silk with the heads of slaves embroidered in silk on it: and at Hauxton, to which Newton is now attached, there was a vestment of green silk cum pavonibus et foliis aureis. There is a somewhat puzzling entry at Wisbech (p. 119), duo pulvinaria cum j banquerio novis et multum preciosis: banquerium is a rare word for bench cover, but it is not clear why the adjectives are in the plural: perhaps both the cushions and the cover are meant to be described as new and very precious (?set with jewels).

These details, which are of course very far from being exhaustive, are sufficient to show what an extremely interesting and valuable mine of information about the parish churches of the Archdeaconry at this period is contained in these Inventories, information which helps to throw side-lights on the medieval English Church in general.

G. SYNODALS, PROCURATIONS, PETER'S PENCE, EXTRA NOTES ABOVE INVENTORIES.

The Notice of each church gives its yearly value¹, and the amount paid for Synodals, Procurations and Peter's Pence. These amounts are summed up at the end of each Deanery, and a grand total for the Synodals and Procurations appears at the end of the Inventories on p. 118.

The Synodal Fee is always 2s. 4*d.* paid in two instalments when the clergy attended the Synods: there is a blank left for the amount at Little Childerley (p. 136); the whole Deanery of Wisbeach and the churches of Ely St Mary and Witcham do not seem to have paid. The Procurations were originally actual food for men and horses provided when the Archdeacon arrived on visitation, and for this reason his state was limited, and he was not allowed to come too often lest he should become a burden. By the latter part of the xiiiith century the payment in kind had been commuted for a money fee, usually 18*d.*, 12*d.* in the case of poor churches. Each Rural Dean was let off the amount paid by his own church. There is a list for the whole Diocese dated 1516 in the Novus Liber: the amounts are the same as these, whereas in another dated 1533 they are much higher. The grand total for the Synodals is given as £15. 3s. 0*d.* and the Procurations as £8. 12s. 6*d.* gross. By adding up the Deaneries I make the totals of the Synodals £14. 2s. 4*d.* and the Procurations £8. 10s. 0*d.* Perhaps Wisbeach, together with the slight alterations that the corrections indicate, may account for the discrepancy in the Synodals. The imperfect list of Synodals on p. 28 gives the half-yearly payments: the discrepancies are serious, but little is to be made of it, it is so much corrected and then rubbed. The amounts for Peter's Pence vary roughly according to the assessment of each church. The total is not given for the Ely Deanery, nor is there a grand total, but the other Deaneries make up £15. 9s. In the imperfect list on p. 28 the totals of these agree fairly well with those in the Inventories; we further have the separate amounts for Chatteris, the Whittleseys and Doddington and for Ely Deanery in universo, i.e. probably including these churches, 31s. 3*d.* So the grand total perhaps came to about £17. The Rural Dean of Camps was let off his church's contribution and the Bedel got 12*d.* (p. 72): no doubt the same was the case in the other Deaneries: and it is not likely that the Archdeacon and his officers let the money pass without taking their toll.

So it appears as if the Rural Deans collected or helped to collect the Procurations and Peter's Pence, but the Synodals were brought by the clergy when they attended at Cambridge.

It is perhaps not entirely unjust to suppose that part of the anxiety to secure their attendance was due to this. One Archdeacon or his Official soon after the compilation of the Inventories (B hand) went through them and added R^s and . v. to each church, according as there was a Rector or a Vicar. Also he put s^o over or near the occurrence of these names in the text. The word suspensus (cf. the Constitution on p. 7) naturally suggests itself but it would hardly occur so universally¹, and I think nothing more is meant than summonitus or summonendus. Not only the Rectors and Vicars were summoned but also most of the heads of Religious houses who were Impropiators, from the Prior of the Hospitallers down. They were represented by Proctors, the Prior of Coventry paid his 3*s.* 4*d.* (p. 6) while the Prioress of Chatteris is noted as not having sent hers (p. 142). However the Prior of Ely who held more churches than any seems to have established a right to be exempt. The Chaplains are regularly summoned. But being summoned was not the same as attending. The commonest note next to s^o is "no 9," which by comparison with "vicarius non compar[uit]" at Cambridge Holy Trinity (p. 34) or the synonym "non venit" passim, explains itself. So ca, ca^c, cap^c (passim) are explained by "capellanus non cō" at Longstow (p. 126). Sometimes we have, as at Histon St Andrew (p. 78), "cā p non 9," helped by "s^o ca^o paroch'" at Barton (p. 98). That it is indeed a matter of the Synod we see from "ca non in sinod' nec rector" (Carleton p. 54). The result is seen at Toft (p. 122) "R. non 9. pencil non venit citetur," or Fen Ditton (p. 40), "Dominus I. de Ely cum rectore n̄ 9: ca non 9. it[erum] s^o." Better than nothing was "non 9 R'. pencil veniet vicarius (?)." Several entries especially about chaplains are in F hand, late xiv c.

I. de Ely above, Dominus de Moyne at Chesterton (p. 74), Ioh. Aleyn at Oakington (p. 80).

A few of these extra notes, mostly pencilled ones, have to do with the letters of ordination and the suitability of particular clerics, e.g. "ea sufficiens" at Fen Ditton (p. 40), "litteras ordinacionis ab Elyensi eitra natale" at Babraham (p. 66). "dicit Officialem vidisse litteras suas" at Croxton (p. 130) and "habet diem ad querendum litteras" at Whaddon (p. 108), but here another entry is not clear to me, "...bertus ad diem sabbati ut sat...dt," cf. Bassingbourn (p. 110) "Robertus die sabbati," East Hatley (p. 104) "Willelmus die sabbati." Reference has already been made (Introduction, p. xvi) to the "Diete in visitando" on p. 80 sqq.

In the Deaneries of Chesterton, Barton, Shengay, Wisbeach and part of Bourn, where later erasures have not destroyed it, each church has a note iiij d. and usually q't (quit) sometimes "def[icit]" or "non q't" as at Triplow and Fowlmere (p. 88). What fees these were does not appear, perhaps the private perquisite of the collector.

The analogy of the cases here cited will make very nearly all these jottings more or less intelligible.
